HULL NAMED TO STATE POST IN NEW CABINET; WOODIN, TO TREASURY

Announcement at New York Ends Speculation.

SWANSON SEEN NAVAL CHIEF

Ickes Is Understood Due for Interior Secretaryship.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Two tried and successful veterans in the fields of politics and business were announced tonight by President-elect Roosevelt for his premier Cabinet posts—Senator Hull, of Tennessee, for Secretary of State, and William H. Woodin, of New York, for Secretary of Treasury.

The announcement came suddenly from the Roosevelt residence on East Sixty-fifth street after the President-elect had spent a swift moving day in international affairs.

Impending developments in war debts and world economics impeled Mr. Roosevelt to make his announcement of these two councilors. They will go to work immediately with foreign envoys on the Roosevelt program to bring a revival of world trade and prosperity.

Both Accept Bids.

The formal announcement came through Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to Roosevelt, and was released tonight for morning newspapers. It said:

"Mr. Roosevelt announced tonight he had invited Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, to be Secretary of State and Mr. William H. Woodin, of Pennsylvania and New York, to be Secretary of the Treasury, and they have accepted.

"In making the announcement of the first of his cabinet selections, Mr. Roosevelt made it plain that both of these gentlemen were virtually drafted. Senator Hull was reluctant to leave the Senate. Mr. Woodin was loathe to relinquish at this time the active control of the many industrial enterprises with which he has been so long and prominently identified."

Previously in Conference.

Mr. Woodin was at the residence of Roosevelt just before the announcement was made public. The diminutive, gray-haired, genial man who will take over the complex task of national finance left alone for a dinner party from which he could not be immediately disturbed.

Later Mr. Woodin commented: "I have more respect for this job than any other I have undertaken."

Friends of the industrialist, who will relinquish his private business affiliations March 4, described him as an advocate of "sound money." This description was not amplified.

At Washington, Senator Hull, also a gray-haired man, easy of approach and pleasing in nature, told newspapermen from his sick bed in the Lafayette Hotel:

"I am mindful of the high honor and the great responsibility which this appointment carries. I hope to meet the responsibility with some degree of efficiency."

He is suffering from a cold which kept him from today's important con-

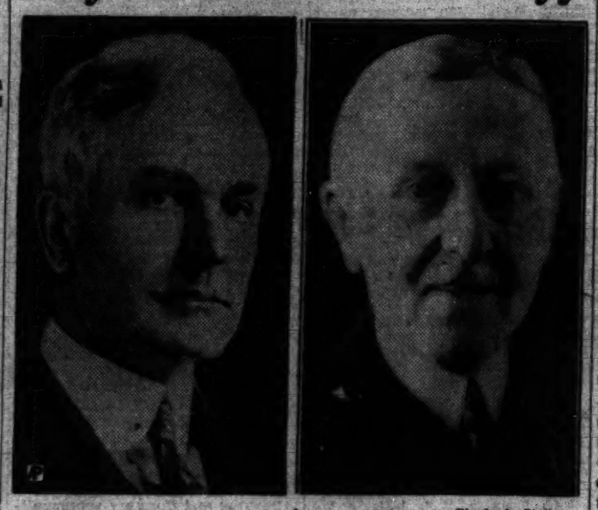
Hull Strong Indorser Of Slashes in Tariff



Blank & Stoller.

Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, left, and William H. Woodin, of New York, yesterday were appointed by President-elect Roosevelt for the State and Treasury posts, respectively, in his Cabinet.

Woodin Is Firm Believer Trade Will Revive Under Roosevelt.

(Associated Press.)

New and striking departures in diplomacy are believed in informed sections of Washington to be foreshadowed by Senator Hull's appointment as Secretary of State.

For one thing, the utmost advantage will be sought for expansion of foreign trade through exercise of his acknowledged experiness on tariffs.

That he will be a strong reliance of President-elect Roosevelt in the latter's plans for promoting trade through bargaining aimed for the best interests of the countries concerned has been predicted freely since the appointment first was broached.

For years the name of Hull has been synonymous with interest in the tariff. He was one of the most determined opponents of the Hawley-Smoot bill from its inception, his

JAPANESE TAKE KEY RAIL TOWN IN JEHOL DRIVE

Peiping and Tientsin Are Fearful War Will Imperil Future.

CAPTURE OF PEIPIAO GIVES ROAD CONTROL

Mukden Tense With Anxiety as Heavy Cannonading at Front Is Heard.

Mukden, Manchuria, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Occupation by the Japanese army of the Chinese cities of Peiping and Tientsin became a possibility today in connection with the Japanese campaign to sweep the forces of China from the Province of Jehol.

The Japanese high command said their government was determined to annihilate the 100,000 regular soldiers in the army of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, the military leader charged with the defense of the north border of China. The purpose of this, they asserted, was to do away once and for with a menace to the existence of the State of Manchukuo, and in this connection the possible occupation of Peiping, the old capital of China, and of Tientsin was mentioned.

Railway Key Falls.

Tokyo (Wednesday), Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The important railroad town of Peipiao, Jehol Province, was taken by Japanese troops at 2 p. m. Tuesday, dispatches reaching here today said.

Peipiao is the terminus of the Chinchow-Peipiao spur of the Peiping-Mukden Railroad, and its occupation by the Japanese was considered important, for it gives them control of the railway over which to move troops.

The seizure of the town, which followed the occupation of nearby Nanling and Koupeiyingtsu, had been determined as the end of a current excursion into Jehol, preliminary to a major drive, to add that province to the Japanese-sponsored State of Manchukuo.

This big offensive, Japanese military leaders have said, may begin in a few days or less.

Rengo dispatches from Tungliao, Manchuria, told of additional action in the vicinity of Kailu, the northeastern gateway to Jehol. According to these dispatches, Japanese airplanes severely bombed concentrations of "guerrillas" near Kailu.

Before these dispatches from the front were received, a war office

League Hit

Japan Blames Geneva for Failure of Efforts to Placate Chinese.

Geneva, Feb. 21 (U.P.).—Japan today boldly blamed the League of Nations for failure of conciliatory efforts between China and Japan in their dispute over Japan's seizure of Manchuria in the fall of 1931.

The Japanese, officially rejecting the league's committee report condemning Japan for her military activity in Manchuria in the last 18 months, declared that the league had been guilty of "acting with haste in the early stages of the trouble."

In a 1,600-word document officially rejecting the league's committee report, read before the assembly for approval, Japan declared the league had sought to rally Western opinion against her.

The statement said:

"The league assumed an attitude of condemnation and sought to rally Western opinion against Japan precipitately and with unfortunate effect. To this attitude at least a measure of blame is due for what subsequently has occurred."

The Japanese statement, bluntly worded, declared that Japan's acceptance of the committee of nineteen's report would "create uncertainities and probably cause disorders in eastern Asia."

It reiterated Japan's "implicit be-

Questions Authority to Bind Democrats; Byrns and McDuffie Clash.

Challenge of the authority of Representative William W. Arnold (Democrat), of Illinois, to call a party caucus on March 2 to elect a Speaker and other officers of the next House was contained in a statement made public last night by Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi.

Representative Rankin admitted the propriety of calling the party caucus on March 2, as demanded by a petition submitted by 23 Democratic members of the House, but he said there was a long way between calling the first party gathering of members of the House and a decision to elect a Speaker and other officers at that caucus.

Mr. Rankin's statement came at the end of a session of the House, during which Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, and Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama, both of whom are candidates for Speaker of the next House, locked horns on the floor.

The question came on a proposal by Mr. Byrns that the rate of interest on claims paid by the Government, cut to 4 per cent under the economy act, should be restored to 6 per cent. Mr. Byrns urged that it would be unconstitutional, and pointed out that the courts contend it is their prerogative to fix the rate at the higher amount if in their judgment

HOUSE BACKS POWER GRANT TO ROOSEVELT

Refuses to Limit Plan of Dictatorship Pushed by Senate.

$168,000,000 in Savings Is Dropped From Postal Measure.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Unprecedented power for Franklin D. Roosevelt to reorganize the Federal Government was virtually clinched yesterday when the House refused to limit in any way the broad authorization voted by the Senate.

The amended Treasury-Postoffice bill, carrying the unusual grant of power, but throwing overboard the Bratton 5 per cent departmental cut, and the McKellar provision for tax refund review, was passed and sent back to the Senate for action.

Rough going ahead is in prospect if the Senate decides to insist on these last two amendments. If any change at all is made in the House draft, the bill will have to go again to conference, jeopardising its chance of passage this session.

Exception of Executive Unit.

In voting Mr. Roosevelt almost dictatorial powers to reorganize the Government, the House yesterday supported the recommendations of its conferees on the Treasury-Postoffice bill. In rejecting other Senate amendments, approximately $168,000,000 in estimated economies was dropped from the bill.

The broad sweep of Presidential authority will enable the incoming President to transfer, merge or abolish any Government agency with the single exception of an executive department. Should the President choose, he might even abolish a department by transferring all of its functions to some other agency, leaders point out.

The President's merger orders would become law within 60 days unless stopped by a joint resolution This, of course, could be vetoed, requiring in the final analysis a two-thirds vote of both houses, within two months, to block White House recommendations.

11 Per Cent Salary Cut.

Representative Carroll L. Beedy (Republican), Pennsylvania, attempted to curtail this power. He offered an amendment vesting either house with authority to block the President's recommendations. It was defeated, 116 to 92 on a division count; 226 to 145 on a roll-call vote.

A futile effort was made by Representative William M. Whittington (Democrat), Mississippi, to have the Bratton amendment requiring department heads to make 5 per cent cuts in appropriations, put back in the bill. He failed by a vote of 125 to 9.

He proposed a total pay cut of 11 per cent on Federal salaries over $1,000, reviving the pay-cut recommendations in the President's first message to Congress. He was defeated, 204 to 14.

Back in Senate Today.

Following the House action, Senator Sam G. Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, author of the 5 per cent administrative cut, said he will not press for Senate reinsertion of his

HUGE PAY TOLD

(Associated Press.)

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the Board of the National City Bank, told a Senate Investigating Committee yesterday he had received a total bonus of about $3,500,000, in addition to his salary, during the "boom years" of 1927, 1928, and 1929.

Digging into the operations of the bank's security affiliate, the National City Co., the committee found a transaction which its counsel, Ferdinand Pecora, suggested was for the purpose of "bailing out" the bank from bad loans to Cuban sugar companies.

The stocky banker, noted for his fighting qualities, dissented from that view, asserting the transaction which was financed by issuing new stock in the bank, was to repair the capital structure of the institution.

Mitchell also told the committee he avoided paying an income tax in 1929 by selling stock in the bank to a member of his family at a loss of nearly $2,800,000, which he later rebought.

"It was just simply a sale of convenience to elude the tax, wasn't it?" asked Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa.

"You can call it that," was the reply.

Mitchell explained he later bought back the block of 18,000 shares because he "simply couldn't let that purchaser take the loss."

Although Mitchell was on the stand from morning to night, his testimony about compensation he received excited more discussion than anything else, and members of the investigating committee were frankly criti-

Most of the recovered bodies were so badly burned identification was impossible. Many injured died in the flames when firemen were unable to reach them.

Cause of the blasts was unknown.

CRUDE MACHINE BURSTS OPEN AT FEET OF CLERKS

Addressed to Incoming President, It Fails to Explode, However.

EXTENSIVE SEARCH BEGUN FOR SENDER

Package Was Postmarked Watertown, N. Y.; Thought Work of Amateur.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Washington Post.)

A second apparent attempt on the life of President-elect Roosevelt was revealed here last night with the discovery of a bomb, crudely constructed and wrapped in plain brown paper, amid incoming mail at the City Postoffice.

Addressed to "Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C." the explosive was discovered early yesterday by postoffice clerks when it tumbled from a mail sack and the box burst open.

The package was quickly gathered up, and when a preliminary investigation disclosed its contents, word was immediately sent to postal inspectors. Apparently every effort was made to keep secret the discovery. Clarence E. Schooley, superintendent of Washington mails, was notified when he arrived at his office yesterday morning.

Refuses Further Comment.

William Satterfield, chief postal inspector for the Washington area, was placed in charge of the case. Other than to confirm discovery of the bomb, he refused to comment when called at his home last night.

It was learned from a reliable source that the package was postmarked in Watertown, N. Y. Mr. Satterfield declared he is launching an extensive investigation to trace the sender. Early today W. H. Moran, head of the Secret Service, said he had not been notified of the discovery.

The bomb, it was learned, consisted of a gun shell tightly wrapped with rusty wires and stuffed with paper.

Wired to Explode.

The Post's informant declared it was wired to explode when properly jarred or struck. Although the resulting explosion might not have resulted fatally, considerable harm would have come to the person handling it at the time it went off.

The work is apparently that of an amateur. The bomb was extremely crude in construction, it was learned, and might have exploded at any time.

Investigation of the case is being handled as a violation of sending explosives by mail. The package was found by the night shift of clerks handling large sacks of mail and would probably have reached the President-elect had it not fallen to the floor and burst open. Had it hit right in striking the floor, it undoubtedly would have exploded.

Express Surprise.

Just how large a concussion would have resulted is not known. The exact amount of damage which the bomb would have caused will probably be learned after a thorough investigation.

The discovery was kept well under cover. Officials high in the postal service, when called last night by The

ANSELL DUE TO QUIT PLACE IN LONG QUIZ

After Attack by "Kingfish" Senators Agree Term of Counsel Is Up.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Senator Huey Long (Democrat), Louisiana, the two-fisted politician from the delicate South which can't stomach such political machines as Tammany, away up in New York, yesterday gave the United States Senate, which was famous a few years ago as a little oligarchy which ran the country, a lesson in what should not be done in politics.

When the day and, temporarily, Huey had done, it seemed likely that the Senate was about ready to confess, and the special committee appointed to investigate Senator Long's widely proclaimed improprieties was ready to get rid of its lawyer who had been so severely derided by the Louisianan.

Senator Robert M. Howell (Repub-

Walker to Return To Mend Fortunes

Friends Hint Former Mayor May Be "Up Against It" Financially.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The World-Telegram says today that former Mayor James J. Walker has written friends he expects to return next month from his self-imposed exile in France to try and recoup his fortunes.

The paper quotes the friends as saying Mr. Walker either "is up against it" financially or is very homesick.

The letters, it is said, convey the information that the visit will be a brief one, allowing only for time "to try to make a business arrangement by which I may continue my residence in France."

Veteran of Indian Wars Killed by Heart Attack

Stricken with heart attack while obtaining racing news in an afternoon newspaper office, Henry Grady, of Soldiers' Home, died yesterday afternoon shortly after being removed to George Washington Hospital.

A veteran of the campaigns against the Indians during the opening of the West, Grady served as a sergeant in the Tenth Infantry from 1877 to 1887. He had been at Soldiers' Home for the last fourteen years.

CERMAK IS WORSE; PULSE RATE RISES

Fever of 101 Accompanies Colitis; Won't Appeal, Assassin Says.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The condition of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, shot by Giuseppe Zangara in the attempt to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, apparently became a matter of concern to his physician tonight.

The physician visited the mayor's room three times within 45 minutes. They reported him resting badly because of colitis. His temperature was 101 degrees and the pulse rate had increased to 108, with respiration at 30.

The official bulletin issued at 11:10 p. m. attributed the increased temperature to the intestinal disturbance.

The mayor was reported suffering pain and was given increased sedatives.

Outwardly indifferent toward his fate, Giuseppe Zangara, sentenced yesterday to 80 years imprisonment for attempting to kill President-elect Roosevelt and three of the five victims of his bullets, today told his lawyers he was not interested in appealing his case.

Visited in his cell by the three attorneys appointed by the court to defend him, and asked what he thought of the 80-year term, Zangara the assassin, shrugged his shoulders and replied:

"It makes no difference—eighty

Army's Forces Exchange Shots With Insurgents at San Antonio.

Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Two soldiers were killed today at San Antonio, near Guantanamo, when army forces and rebels headed by Gonzalo Peres Andres, former senator and member of President Machado's Liberal party, exchanged fire there, advices reaching here tonight said. Whether the rebels suffered any casualties could not immediately be learned.

Peres Andres participated in the revolution of August, 1931. He was granted an amnesty with other alleged revolutionists some months after that unsuccessful movement.

A detachment of eighteen soldiers left Guantanamo tonight by motor coach for the San Antonio section to aid in the hunt for the rebel band.

Stimson Sends Dry Repeal Notices to 48 State Rulers

Secretary Starts Machinery for Referendum on Removal of Eighteenth Amendment From Constitution, as Recently Decreed by Congress.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson speeded the dry law repeal measure on its way to the 48 States yesterday by forwarding to the governor of every State in the Union a certified copy of the joint resolution by which Congress started the machinery to expunge the eighteenth amendment from the Constitution. The original document was delivered at the Department of State a few hours after it had been approved by the House of Representatives by 15 more than the necessary two-thirds vote Monday. Yesterday, shortly before he left for lunch, the Secretary of State as provided by law signed the letters to each of the governors and the seal of the Department of State was affixed to the copy of the joint resolution.

Meanwhile a race was in progress between the legislatures of fifteen States who were anxious to have the distinction of approving by conventional authority the repeal of the dry law. However, a slight confusion has become apparent as to the exact procedure to be followed in the matter of convoking the necessary conventions for the repeal. Such authorities on constitutional law as Representative James M. Beck and former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, differed as to the role of Congress in the summoning of the State conventions, the latter attributing the power to Congress and the former solicitor general giving the authority to the State legislatures themselves.

The fact that Legislatures are now in session in 42 States will enable the necessary preparations to be made to carry out the terms of the repeal amendment in all these States. In addition to the 42 Legislatures now sitting, California and Florida lawmakers convene in the spring and Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky and Virginia will be meeting within a year. There is every reason to believe then that the final decision of the States will be known within the next year, if not sooner.

President-elect Roosevelt has indicated, however, his desire to see the repeal sentiment give heed to the desire of the people by the adoption of

First aid was given by the Fire Rescue Squad and she was removed to Emergency Hospital where she remained in a semiconscious condition, without rallying.

Two Torturers Must Serve Life in Arkansas

Clinton, Ark., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Two youths, who put a lonely old man through a night of torture on his north Arkansas farm in a vain attempt to extract the secret of his hidden money, were sentenced to life imprisonment today for his murder.

A jury which had deliberated since last midnight late today found Jesse Hardester, 17, and Aaron Moody, 22, guilty of the murder of B. F. Leigh, aged recluse, whose body was found by neighbors hanging from a rafter in his home on January 2.

RUBBER EXECUTIVE ASKS DICTATORSHIP

Paul Litchfield Appears at Senate Hearing on Cure for Depression.

(Associated Press.)

Dictatorial powers for the President to meet emergency crises when quick and unhampered action is necessary were suggested to the Senate Finance Committee yesterday as a proper maneuver in the campaign against depression.

Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., presented this recommendation along with several others to the committee yesterday as it continued its survey of economic ills and ways to cure them.

The committee heard from J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, a 6-point program of legal reforms to aid the carriers, and in a letter from William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, was told the Government should operate the railways.

Henry J. Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star, and Dexter M. Keezer, associate editor of the Baltimore Sun, who appeared before the senators, agreed crop production loans were undesirable and disapproved the domestic allotment farm relief plan in making other recovery recommendations.

Haskell advocated making the incoming President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, "a virtual budget dictator," while Litchfield, asserting "our governmental machinery is too cumbersome to meet the immediate and rapidly changing situation," added:

"I urge that adequate latitude be given at once to the executive arm of our Government to take such measures as are needed to meet the crisis which now exists."

He favored the 30-hour week, sharp cuts in Federal expenditures, including veterans' benefits, opposed currency inflation, urged readjustment of war debts and taxes, modification of the antitrust laws and help for agriculture through a temporary subsidy coupled with production restrictions.

Pelley, approving the pending bankruptcy bill, called for liberalization of antitrust laws, regulation of water and highway transportation systems, abolition of the inland waterways corporation and repeal of the recapture and valuation provisions of the interstate commerce laws.

Scaling down of farm debts, war debts settlement, stabilization of the currency, reduction of taxes and balancing the budget were among the points set forth by Haskell, who opposed currency inflation and plans to help the farmer by removing from cultivation the so-called marginal lands, so labeled because the possibility of profit is exceedingly slender.

Hearst suggested a sales tax, as did Litchfield, wanted tariff trade barriers lowered, favored currency inflation by issuing currency against bonds, and help for the farmer in meeting his debts, provided sale and distribution of crops were regulated.

Keezer urged straightening out the price structure, elimination of financial fear, reduction in Federal costs and veterans payments, postponement "if not outright cancellation" of war debts, readjustment of private debts and strict enforcement of the antitrust laws.

Frank Simonds, an interantional affairs writer, told the committee "no single step in the direction of promoting American recovery from the depression at the present time can, in my judgment, be more important than that of settling the question of American policy in the matter of the foreign debts."

JAPAN SAYS LEAGUE MADE CRISIS WORSE

lief in the sanctity of treaties," but declared that treaty principles must be applied "in a way to harmonize with realities." The document urged that the league assembly "think twice before making a decision."

Japan further declared that if Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, in command of Chinese armies in the war zone, would withdraw his forces within the Great Wall of China, "no military action would be necessary in Jehol," and added that, "adoption by the assembly of the committee report (and recommendations) would be likely to stiffen the attitude of Marshal Chang in refusing to withdraw his forces and thereby aggravate the situation, which Japan is anxious to avoid."

The Japanese charged that the present dispute was due primarily to the absence of an authoritative and efficient central government in China. They reiterated that the Manchurian action was purely in self-defense.

China to Accept.

Meanwhile it was learned reliably that China would accept the report and recommendations at the Friday session of the assembly. The assembly took no action today, merely listening to the reading of the committee's draft and after adjournment receiving Japan's reply. The assembly adjourned until Friday, when unanimous approval was anticipated.

The Japanese reply was handed Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, and other officials of the league bodies.

The committee of nineteen then met and decided that a "negotiations committee" should be formed to seek to bring Japan and China into direct negotiations. The United States eventually is to be included in the powers invited to name representatives on this committee.

However, inasmuch as Japan probably never will accept the report, it was regarded as probable the committee never would function.

Two Attempts to Kill Ozaki Fulfill Prophecy

Kobe, Japan, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Two unsuccessful attempts were made today on the life of Yukiu Ozaki, 73-year-old champion of disarmament and liberal leader, who declared when he started home from London more than a month ago that he knew his death warrant had been signed.

Two attempts were made on him by reactionaries who were thwarted by the police. When the Terukuni Maru docked from London, the police detained three members of a patriotic society who tried to get aboard the ship to see Mr. Ozaki. Subsequently, as he reached the pier, two youths brandishing clubs tried to get at him. They were arrested.

Mrs. Roosevelt Has Ability Needed as Nation's Hostess

Collaboration of Mrs. Hoover Has Insured Success of Inauguration Entertainment Plans; Retiring First Lady Has Improved White House.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

Coming events cast their rays before them in the White House domestic machinery. While her husband is taking over the reins of government and organizing his official household, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will take her place as the first Housewife of the Nation.

That the new administration will be an administration of much formal and informal entertaining as the Hoover one was, goes without saying. The new President and his wife like people and have many varied interests which keep them in close contact with leaders in various pursuits and movements, who will eventually find themselves at the White House table.

Mrs. Roosevelt started off on the right foot, so to speak, arranging her entertainment program for inauguration day. This program includes the usual luncheon between the ceremony at the United States Capitol in the morning, when the new President will take his oath of office, and the gala review from the court of honor in front of the White House in the afternoon. But in addition there will be a brilliant tea attended by 1,000 persons in the afternoon and a buffet dinner for 75 at night. Five hundred will attend the luncheon.

Plans Are Complete.

The arrangements for these parties have been made. Mrs. Hoover escorted Mrs. Roosevelt to the kitchens to interview the presiding genius of this important part of the White House when Mrs. Roosevelt came to Washington at the invitation of Mrs. Hoover, to look over her home-to-be several weeks ago. This amount of entertaining in one day is rather a tax on the White House culinary facilities. It will be done and done properly as things at the White House under any administration have a habit of being done.

Of course, the main question is: Are there enough plates of the proper handsome kind, of the same kind, to take care of these three large groups of guests? No White House First Lady has purchased china since the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson restocked the sadly depleted china closets with the Wilson china, soft lustrous creamy white banded in gold and blue, with the President's crest in the center. There are enough of these "plates"—as all china is called in the White House pantries—for the luncheon and the tea, but a corps of dish-washers will have to wash and wipe and polish it between the tea and the dinner. There are probably enough of the handsome Cleveland rose place plates, used for formal dinners at the White House, for the buffet dinner main course. Since none of the three entertainments are to be "seated functions," it is not certain that the horseshoe-shaped table, an innovation of another Roosevelt administration, will be used.

Many Modern Features.

Mrs. Roosevelt will owe much to Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Hoover for the added conveniences in the culinary departments of the White House, corridors and extra pantries, service lifts and refrigeration.

For many years Mrs. Jaffray, who came as a housekeeper with the Wilsons, ruled with an iron hand over the White House domestic machinery. Mrs. Coolidge, however, installed a domestic science expert, who reorganized the kitchens and household machinery, according to the latest domestic science tenets. Mrs. Hoover brought her own set of servants with her to work in conjunction with the White House servants. Mrs. Roosevelt has also announced she will bring some "extra help." The White House staff of domestic cooks, chambermaids, laundry workers, butlers, stewards and pantry men are all paid by the Government at a cost of approximately $30,000, or perhaps less, since there has been a cut in Government wages. There are 20 house servants and 10 or 12 "outside" ones.

Before the reorganization of the culinary department at the White House many of the employes who now go out to meals, "ate at the White House," at the expense of the presidential family. Recent White House Ladies have cut the food bills of the White House down to provision for the family and a certain class of White House employes, and go over menus and supply bills with the person intrusted with the ordering.

Some Rare Pieces.

When Mrs. Hoover showed Mrs. Roosevelt about they stood for a time in the pantries where the "best china" is kept, as well as the silver and glass centerpieces, vases and such decorations for the tables. The White House possesses several really valuable and outstanding table accessories suitable for use when entertaining. Among these is the gilt on bronze Monroe surtout de table. This is so often called the Dolly Madison centerpiece, because Dolly Madison gave her advise on its selection during the Monroe administration. The centerpiece of beautifully carved bronze heavily covered with gold stands on a plaque of unusually beautiful crystal mirrors, upheld by graceful carved classic figures. The decorations are of fruits, flowers and figures of Bacchus and Bacchantes. Surrounding are 16 classic figures holding crowns for candles and 16 vases or urns, which can be filled with flowers or fruits at the will of the mistress of the White House. There are baskets and epergnes, vases and candelabra designed to go with this centerpiece and which can be used to advantage on the horseshoe table. Three of the baskets are of unusual beauty and much admired by those who view these things with expert eyes. The baskets are held aloft by three graceful figures on a circular base, matching the centerpiece, and they have six places for candles. There are two particularly handsome Etruscan form vases, epergnes like Greek urns, and two rich tripods. The centerpiece and the other articles of gilt on bronze are listed in the Monroe expenditures as having cost 6,000 francs. They are worth much more today.

Model of Mayflower.

The large solid silver model of the Mayflower, from the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876, is often used in the center of the table in the state dining room for teas and luncheons. Mrs. Coolidge discovered this handsomely wrought work of art in the attic of the White House when the upper floor was being remodeled at the time the roof was fixed. It was jet black from tarnish, but brisk polishing soon restored it to its silvery beauty.

Upstairs where the family lived in the White House recent First Ladies have added much, especially at the time the White House was undergoing repairs. Extra pleasant, large and handsomely furnished guests rooms are now established on the top floor in the space formerly taken up by the attic. There is a roof garden and real roof playground and nursery, used by the Hoover grandchildren, which will doubtless be useful to the Roosevelt grandchildren. There is also a guest library and living room on this floor. The second floor of the White House has undergone some real changes under the guidance of Mrs. Hoover, although there has been little structural alteration, except the installation of high book niches in the oval room, which is the private upstairs drawing room of the President's family.

Lincoln Room a Study.

The small study used by recent Presidents has been restored to its former character as a private sitting room for the White House First Ladies. It has been rearranged and refurnished with furniture, such as Mrs. James Monroe used. This was her sitting room. Some of the furniture was in the White House, used in other rooms or stored away. The President's study is now the room in which Abraham Lincoln signed the Proclamation of Emancipation. Much of the furniture in that room has been restored as it was at that time, according to a rare old engraving of the occasion which the Hoovers have donated to the White House. The desk or table Lincoln used is not in the White House, so the President's desk in this study is the one used by Presidents of recent years, presented by Great Britain and made from timbers of Her Majesty's ship Resolute, forming part of the expedition sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852.

The long corridor, which runs the entire length of the White House on the second floor, with bedrooms and the other rooms opening into it on each side, has been transformed by Mrs. Hoover into a long library, with many bookcases and easy chairs and sofas and tables to replace the homely leather and wicker furniture which was formerly arranged so primly down the center of this corridor. In this library-living room is now the kidney shaped mahogany desk at which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, doubtless saw her aunt, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, sitting when she visited the White House as the neice of the President of the United States, in the original Roosevelt administration. At one end of this corridor is the charming music room and at the other end a raised alcove of good proportions, used as the private office by First Ladies and their secretaries.

Blue Brocade Pattern.

The oval drawing room is the center room at the south of the corridor and look out over the White House grounds. The furniture, blue brocade covered for winter and with chintz covers for summer, has been stored away by the Hoovers. There are tables and other such articles, which form the rest of the permanent furniture of this room. Of course, the Hoovers are taking away with them the pieces of furniture they brought to the White House for this room. Mrs. Roosevelt will have to resort to the stored-away furniture or bring some of her own. She has announced that she will probably bring the furniture for her bedroom and that her husband will want the furniture he uses at the handsome Roosevelt home at Hyde Park, New York. This news is received with relief by those in charge of arrangements, for the comfort of the President's family at the White House. There are many pieces which go to make up modern ideas of comfort, not included in the regular furnishings of the White House.

The bedrooms on this second floor are fitted with canopy beds and have recently had new draperies to match those at the windows. There are chests of drawers and dressing tables, desks and couches and easy chairs in these rooms. Sometimes the periods at which these articles have been installed in these rooms clash somewhat and give food for thought about the varying tastes of the women who have presided in the White House. Of course the guests rooms on the remodeled top floor are equipped after the modern idea of comfort and taste, with due regards to the Colonial trends, so necessary in the effort to keep the White House in its proper character.

Silver Was Melted Up.

The knives and forks and other flat ware used in the White House are not of one period alone. It was all melted up and made into convenient table equipment in recent years.

Even the famous Dolly Madison silver gilt flat ware is probably simply that of the design used by Mistress Dolly with the legend "The President's House" on it, as Mrs. Madison had it engraved, instead of the usual markings of White House belongings with the words "White House."

A breath-taking array of linen smartly monogramed and embroidered or interwoven words with the White House, or the Crest of the United States has been arranged in the new linen closets upstairs. Sewing women keep this linen in order and a darn or patch seems to be a mark of honor at the White House.

Of course card catalogues of all White House possessions are carefully kept as a matter of routine. White House business will be under the personal inspection of Mrs. Roosevelt and her secretaries.

Intensified Boycotts On Japan, Aim of China

Nanking, China, Feb. 21 (U.P.).—Intensified boycotts of Japanese merchandise and labor will be sought by China because Japan refused to accept the League of Nations committee report on Manchuria, a government spokesman said today. Japan has long charged unofficial boycotts were employed by Chinese.

The spokesman said China will now ask the league for permission to declare employment and economic sanctions against Japan under the League Covenant.

Dr. Hsia Says Manchuria Long Goal of Japanese

Speaking on the Manchukuo situation, Dr. C. L. Hsia, first secretary of the Chinese Legation, told the Washington Lions Club meeting in the Hotel Mayflower yesterday that Japan has sought to annex Manchuria for the past 40 years, and that other interpretations placed upon the existing military occupation were the work of Japanese propagandists.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS SHARE JOBS APPEAL

Edison Executive Says Idea Started Here, but Plan Is Little Used.

With 80 per cent of all new construction work in the country reported as being carried on in Washington and contractors for Government buildings lending cooperation toward a "share-the-work" movement, the Washington Rotary Club yesterday threw open its meeting to "share-the-work" discussion and heard Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New Jersey Edison Co., in an address on the further possibility of sharing work.

Mr. Sloan, who is cochairman of the national committee on the "share-the-work" movement, came here from New York City to speak.

"It is rather odd," he said, "that in no other center has there been so little done with the share-the-work movement as right here in Washington, where it was launched. You are practically a one-industry city and that industry is government. With 80 per cent of new construction work going on here and most of the remainder in Radio City, Washington has offered a real opportunity in the movement."

Mr. Sloan said his committee has been asking employers to share work just as they would share food with their neighbors. A Government survey indicated, he declared, that the idle total would perhaps be 5,000,000 more but for job sharing.

"Wee are keenly aware," Mr. Sloan continued, "of the distress among millions for whom as yet opportunities are lacking and we hope that many more employers will divide their work to provide opportunities for some of these unfortunate applicants.

"We recently had an illustration of what can be done if the will to do exists. The head of a business employing enough persons to make up a fair-sized town decided to help the general situation and called in a subordinate officer to ask him how job sharing might be applied.

"The subordinate listed many reasons why it was not feasible to divide jobs. The matter rested for a time and then the officer was again called before his chief. He was told a five-day week was going into effect and to prepare for it. The entire force went to a shorter week, the employment office was opened to take on new clerks and the whole thing has run like clockwork ever since."

In conclusion, Mr. Sloan declared: "Lets give the jobless man a number on the time clock, a desk in the office, or a drawing account, and while he is at work on this emergency basis, take all the time needed to formulate the ultimate and perfect plan for an economic utopia."

Woll Asks for Fresh Facts Regarding Soviet

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor, says its vice president, Matthew Woll, is still opposed to recognition of Russia, but has asked if there are any "new facts" which call for a departure from the United States policy on that question.

The federation's views were set forth in a letter addressed to Bainbridge Colby, who was Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson.

JAPANESE CAPTURE KEY RAILWAY TOWN

spokesman said that recent Japanese activities on the Jehol border would not be made public because they constituted a preparatory stage on a minor scale of the big drive which is to be made into the province.

Japan Delays League Split.

"Wait for five or six days, when the real show starts and the lid will be lifted," the spokesman asserted.

From an official source it was learned that Japan's formal notification of withdrawal from the League of Nations will be issued some time in March. That Japan will withdraw is regarded as a certainty in view of the expectation that the League Assembly will approve a draft report condemning the Japanese before the week is over.

Foreign Minister Viscount Yasyua Uchida sent a telegram to Yosuke Matsuoka, head of the Japanese delegation at Geneva, granting him permission to return to Tokyo by way of the United States. Mr. Matsuoka plans to stop at Washington, and, if possible, to meet Franklin D. Roosevelt, who by that time will be President of the United States. He will leave Geneva about February 26 and will sail from San Francisco March 22. In the United States his status will be unofficial.

Japan's withdrawal from international activities as a result of the league conflict was emphasized in a statement from an official spokesman to the effect that the government probably will not participate in the forthcoming world economic conference.

Previously it had been made known that the Tokyo representatives at the disarmament conference in Geneva would be withdrawn.

Chang to Get Notice.

Shanghai, China, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Japanese dispatches from Changchun today said an ultimatum demanding that Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang evactuate his troops from the Province of Jehol will be served Thursday afternoon by the government of Manchukuo.

The ultimatum, the dispatches said, will be presented to Marshal Chang and to the Chinese government at Nanking. It will declare that unless Chang withdraws his army "Manchukuo will expel them by force," and the Chinese will be given 24 hours in which to submit.

The Japanese Legation here said the Tokyo government had nothing to do with the ultimatum decision of Manchukuo. The document is to be signed by Hsieh Chieh-Shih, the foreign minister of Manchukuo. The feeling in Shanghai is that the Chinese will refuse to submit.

Soviet Announces Army Ready to Fight Invasion

Moscow, Feb. 21 (U.P.).—A warning to "certain neighbors" that Soviet Russia "must not and will not be caught unawares" was issued today by Premier Viacheslav Molotov in an address to members of a "shock brigade" about to proceed to the Russian "agricultural front" for spring planting.

The premier said that the danger of war continued, but that the Soviet Union was well armed and ready to resist invaders.

AUSTRIA REFUSES DEMAND ON ARMS

Premier Won't Make Reply to Franco-British Note Asking Return.

Vienna, Austria, (Wednesday) Feb. 22 (U.P.).—A sensation was created in diplomatic quarters early today when Premier Dollfuss revealed at a session of the Parliament executive committee which began at midnight that the government will not even make written reply to the joint Franco-British note demanding Austria return a shipment of arms from Italy, sent to Hirtenberg recently.

The premier said he had informed the French and British ministers yesterday that Austria had decided to refuse point-blank to concede to the demands of their governments.

The joint note demanded that Austria either return the arms or destroy them within two weeks, giving sworn assurance of one action or the other, and contended that the shipment constituted a violation of the treaty of St. Germain, at the end of the World War.

Dollfuss said that yesterday afternoon the British and French ministers conferred with him in an effort to arrange a quiet settlement, adding: "Our standpoint was accepted. The fortnight's period will be discussed no more, and I therefore am not replying to their representations."

It had been indicated earlier that the cabinet was preparing a firm though polite rejection of the Franco-British note.

Rome, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Premier Benito Mussolini will shortly take a personal part in the controversy over a recent shipment of arms from Italy to Austria, in which the British and French governments have interested themselves.

In his capacity of foreign minister, the premier will go before the Chamber of Deputies, perhaps tomorrow, to reply to an interpellation on the shipment.

Gallery Apology Is Sent to Hoover

Slur by Employe in Art Catalogue Resulted in Action, Paper States.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The New York Times says the National Art Galleries has sent to President Herbert Hoover an apology for a slur cast upon the Chief Executive by one of the gallery's employes, who has been discharged.

The reflection upon the President, the gallery officials said, was contained in a catalogue advertising a George Washington letter to be sold at auction.

In describing the Washington letter, which dealt with the American farmer of Colonial times, the catalogue read:

"This remarkable letter, in which the first President of our country speaks in such disparaging terms of the American farmer, is the type of letter which might very well have been written by Herbert C. Hoover, the (self-deemed) aristocrat's opinion of the American laboring classes."

The writer has been discharged.

Fund of $425,000 Indorsed; Bay Operation Is Due to Begin This Summer.

Granting of a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan of $425,000 to the Chesapeake Beach Railway Co. for the establishment of a ferry across the bay from Chesapeake Beach to Hudson, Md., on the Eastern Shore, was approved yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Originally asking approval of the loan on September 20, 1932, the carrier sought $900,000. This was modified to $525,000 later and the commission cut off $100,000 more before sanctioning the loan.

Under procedure of the R. F. C., the majority of loans to railroads approved by the I. C. C. have been granted and general expectation is that the Chesapeake Beach road will not be turned down.

Officials of the railway company yesterday declared that if no delay is encountered in finally obtaining the loan operation of the ferry should begin some time next summer.

Two new fast, late-type ferryboats are to be bought by the new ferry company. They will accommodate 60 vehicles and 200 passengers. Expectations are for sailings every hour and a half from each side.

The new ferry-rail service thus brought about is expected to throw open to Washington markets much more Eastern Shore produce than heretofore handled and also will attract many vacationists and motorists.

Announcement of the project some time ago initiated considerable litigation between the Chesapeake Beach Railroad and the Clairborne-Annapolis Ferry Co., which latter company operates a ferry across the bay to the Eastern Shore.

The Claiborne Co. sought an injunction from the District Supreme Court to prevent the other company from establishing the competing service. This was denied and subsequently the Appellate and Supreme Courts upheld the lower courts.

Some contention still exists between the Chesapeake Beach Co. and the Maryland Public Service Commission as to the right of the latter body to regulate intrastate tariffs as regards the ferry service.

The Chesapeake Beach Railroad has been operating between Washington and the bay resort since 1890. Of late years, increase of automobile transportation and construction of highways has caused a considererable decline in its revenue. With the new freight business, it is believed the carrier will experience a recouping of profits.

At the small watering town of Hudson, Md., the railroad ferry company will construct a terminal and freight station. Considerable funds are to be expended for dredging at both the Eastern Shore and mainland terminals.

Entire cost of the project is estimated at $900,000. Officials of the company said arrangements have been made for financing the balance between the R. F. C. loan and the total cost.

Little Sisters Let Lighting Contract

$1,200 More Is Needed for Work; $3,000 Has Already Been Given.

Contract for the installation of electric lighting for the Little Sisters of the Poor has been awarded to Joseph S. Repetti, it was announced by John P. Hillyard, chairman of the committee of the Knights of Columbus. About $1,200 is needed to add to the $3,000 already donated for the work.

Other members of the committee are William E. Leahy, Col. John J. Phelan, Philip A. Simpson and Arthur B. J. Williamson.

The lights will be installed under the supervision of Anthony J. Scullen and Walter A. Valentine, instructor in engineering at Catholic University. The work is to be completed within 60 days.

ELDER BOETTCHER FEARS TREACHERY

Denver Grand Jury to Probe Kidnaping; $60,000 Ransom Ready.

Denver, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—A distracted father's statement that the kidnapers of his son, Charles Boettcher 2d, had refused to assure him against trickery in the payment of $60,000 ransom was followed quickly today by announcement of a grand jury investigation of the abduction.

Following the decision of Claude K. Boettcher, multimillionaire father of the missing man, to act independently of police, Earl Wettengel, district attorney, announced he would appear before the grand jury and suggest that members of the Boettcher family be summoned for questioning.

Wettengel declined to enlarge on his statement. Late this afternoon there had been no grand jury developments.

A fear that he would be made the victim of fraud, similar to that practiced in the kidnaping of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's infant, has delayed the release of the 31-year-old heir to a fortune, the elder Boettcher said in a signed statement. Young Boettcher was seized at his home a week ago Sunday night by three men.

"Since Sunday I have received many more ransom notes, one of which, received Monday morning, I am convinced, came from my son's abductors," Boettcher said, "although in this letter no identification was inclosed and no methods provided for communication.

"All of the notes demanded substantially the same procedure—call off the police and go alone to some designated remote spot," the statement continued. "It said to return home after leaving the ransom, but it contained no assurance whatever that my son would be released."

EXTORTION EFFORT CHARGED TO ACTOR

Young Briton Says He Wrote Notes to Mrs. Sloane and Noel Coward.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—A young man who said he was a British actor was held by police today for the attempted extortion of $2,000 from Mrs. John Sloane, socially prominent head of the Maternity Center Association.

Police said the man gave his name as Frederick Manthrop, 26, and that he not only confessed writing the threatening letter to Mrs. Sloane, but also told them he had written a similar letter to Noel Coward, demanding $1,500 of the actor-playwright now appearing in one of his own comedies.

The letter was sent to Mrs. Sloane at her home last Thursday. It threatened her with death unless she sent the money in a letter to a West Eighty-first street address. The message was signed "Fred Gordon."

She held the letter several days and then notified police. A dummy letter was placed in the mailbox at that address last night and Manthrop was arrested by officers, who said he took the letter out of the mailbox.

In the police line-up today Manthrop was quoted as saying he needed the money to send to his destitute parents, who live in Norfolk, England.

PREACHER DECRIES NEGLECT OF FAITH

Seminary President States People Now Think More of Budgets.

People are talking more about balancing budgets, inflation of currency, economy and depression today than about faith, the Rev. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Technological Seminary, said last night at the midwinter dinner meeting of the Washington Congregational Club, at Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Dr. Palmer's subject was "The Faiths by Which Men Live." He was introduced by the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, minister of the Mount Pleasant Church, toastmaster and president of the club, which is composed of members of all Congregational, Unitarian and Universalist churches in the District.

"The faith that carries men farthest is preceded by a long run of reason," he said. "Because of reason, and in the direction that it points and not otherwise, we make the leap of faith. We make the leap because we have to. There are some things we can not fully prove, but we have to believe them or we could not live. No man can prove that the sun will rise tomorrow or that his wife will stand by him loyally through the years or his children do him honor. But he assumes these things to be true, and on this faith he builds his life.

"The simplest kind of faith is quite unconscious and inarticulate.

"We can not entirely prove that courage is better than cowardice, sometimes honesty does not seem to be the best policy, and often the just and generous are betrayed and crucified by life. But generally, the human race believes that cowardice is despicable, truth is noble and in the long run cheaters never prosper. But the human race depends on this faith, and would get on far better if it were more unflinchingly lived up to."

Reports of club committees were received last night, and a committee appointed to nominate officers for the next club year. Two hundred members and guests heard Dr. Palmer.

HOUSE BACKS SENATE DICTATORSHIP PLAN

amendment if it appears this step will jeopardize passage of the bill.

The conference report, with the House amendment, will come back to the Senate today. As it is a privileged matter, it may be called up any time on motion from the floor. Senate leaders were represented, however, as in favor of deferring action until the bankruptcy bill and two pending appropriation bills have been disposed of. They point out no great harm would be done if the Treasury-Post-office measure is not passed this session, holding it could rapidly be disposed of in the early days of the special session.

On only ore major recommendation were House conferees, headed by House Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, upset yesterday. Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, House whip and former economy chairman, did the upsetting. He asked the provision restoring to 6 per cent the interest rate on claims paid by the Government, cut down to 4 per cent in the economy act, be stricken.

Supported by Republicans.

Supported by the great mass of Republicans and some Democrats, the McDuffie amendment was approved, 105 to 92, on a division count, 128 to 100 on a teller vote, and 234 to 134 on a roll call. Representative Byrns assailed it as unconstitutional and unfair, although Representative McDuffie claimed for it $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 in savings.

Other amendments were voted down almost as fast as they were offered. Sharing this fate was an amendment by Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), New York, permitting annual pay increases to postal employes earning less than $1,500; an amendment by Representative Paul Kvale (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, to restore automatic pay increases to District police, firemen and school teachers; an amendment by Representative William P. Connery, jr. (Democrat), Massachusetts, to exempt military officers from three-year assignments to tropical posts; and an amendment by Representative John W. McCormack (Democrat), Massachusetts, to provide Saturday half holidays for veterans and other employes of veterans' hospitals.

An attack on the proposed broad grant of presidential authority was loosed by Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia (Republican), New York, and joined in by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, and others. The New York Progressive declared: "You might just as well abolish Congress" as to delegate major legislative functions to the President.

Broader Dictatorial Powers.

The Garner proposal, to confer even broader dictatorial powers on the incoming President, was not offered from the floor. Representative Byrns called on members to support the conferees' report. If any changes are desired, he said they can be made at the next session of Congress. He pointed out that President-elect Roosevelt is now having a study made with a view to making reorganization recommendations shortly after his inauguration.

Action taken by the House yesterday restores $19,000,000 to the Treasury-Postoffice bill to fulfill air-mail contracts. It restores $1,000,000 to the Internal Revenue Bureau and $2,400,000 to the Customs Bureau.

The substitute economy rider adopted did not include the McKellar amendment calling for Board of Tax Apepal review of all tax refunds over $20,000, and eliminated the Senate 8 1-3 per cent pay for military enlisted personnel.

years or a hundred years. I die in two-three years!"

Physicians attending Mrs. Joe H. Gill, Miami society woman, also seriously injured when Zangara fired wildly into the crowd that surrounded the President-elect's car in Bay Front Park the night of February 15, said her condition was "remarkable."

It is pending the outcome of injuries to these two that Zangara is being held in Dade County Jail. If either should die, the State plans to move for a swift indictment and trial on first degree murder charges.

STEWARD INDORSES PAY-SLASH DEFEAT

House Rejection of Bratton Proposal Is Praised by Union Leader.

Action of the House in defeating the Bratton 5 per cent cut in departmental appropriations, with its threat of dismissals for thousands of Federal employes, was indorsed last night in a statement made public by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

In rejecting the Bratton proposal, and approving in its stead broad reorganization powers for the President, Mr. Steward said the House "placed its stamp of approval on a sane, scientific method of effecting economies in administration, as opposed to the arbitrary and unintelligent scheme contained in the Bratton proposal."

"By its overwhelming defeat of an amendment offered to impose an additional 11 per cent pay cut upon Federal workers, it has again indicated a disbelief in further drastic wage cuts as a step toward economic recovery," he added.

The National Federation of Federal Employes executive, however, criticized the action of the House in undermining the Saturday half-holiday law by requiring employes of Veterans' Administration hospitals and homes to work a full-day Saturdays with no overtime pay or compensatory time.

Steward said this "unfairly discriminates against a limited group of employes and is entirely at variance with the universal trend toward a shorter week."

"The Senate," he said, "has already rejected this proposal in connection with the bill now in conference, and it is to be hoped that before final enactment this unfair and discriminatory provision will be eliminated."

it is equitable. Representative McDuffie said the lower rate of interest would save the Federal Treasury between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. The 4 per cent rate was established last year in the economy act. Mr. McDuffie argued that the Byrns proposal would be retroactive and wipe out all of the savings from the reductions in the last year.

The merits or demerits of the arguments of the two ceased to be the issue soon after they locked horns. Representative Byrns, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and, as such, in charge of the measure, apparently had not expected the McDuffie attack.

Parliamentary Maneuvers.

There were parliamentary maneuvers. The presiding officer said he thought that Mr. Byrns had lost. There was a call for a division. There was a call for tellers. There was a call for a roll call vote. On every one of the votes the tall, personally popular chairman of the Appropriations Committee was beaten.

In the meantime, the contest had seemed to assume something of a personal contest between the two candidates for Speaker of the next House. Behind the rail, at the rear of the House floor, were to be found Representative McDuffie and Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, reported to be his campaign manager, and in the well of the House was to be seen Representative Jacob L. Milligan (Democrat), of Missouri, who has been Mr. McDuffie's assistant campaign manager.

Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, who probably never will vote for Mr. McDuffie to be Speaker, voted for his amendment. Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, voted in support of Representative Byrns, one of his leading opponents for the job of Speaker of the next House.

Try Out Strength.

Both Mr. Byrns and Mr. McDuffie tried out their strength in the test over the amendment and Mr. McDuffie won. But that doesn't mean he beat Mr. Byrns on party lines because there were scores of Republicans who voted for the McDuffie amendment.

In his announcement denouncing calling of the party caucus on March 2, Representative Rankin said:

"It is true that he, Representative Arnold, has a right to call the caucus together on a petition of twenty-five of the members-elect, but he does not have the authority to bind the caucus to elect officers at that time. That is to be determined by the members when they meet, and I do not believe that the members-elect who are here then are going to perpetrate such an injustice against those members-elect who can not be present.

Letters of Protest.

"I have before me a stack of letters from members-elect protesting against holding the caucus until just before the convening of Congress, on the ground that they will be unable to be here if the caucus is held before this Congress adjourns. There seems to be a strange influence behind this movement for an early caucus. A great majority of the members with whom I have talked are in favor of postponing the caucus until just before the new Congress convenes. But certain friends of Mr. Rainey and Mr. McDuffie insist that the caucus be held as early as possible. According to a statement in one of the local papers of last Sunday, Mr. McDuffie is out of the speakership race and the scheme now is to try to elect Mr. Rainey speaker and Mr. McDuffie floor leader. They evidently think that the only way to secure the indorsement of such a combination would be to hold the caucus before the new members arrive and learn what it is all about."

"Somebody seems to have welded the wooden handle to the pewter spoon."

Mrs. Norton Urges Pushing Wet Drive

She Warns Prohibition's Foes Against Feeling Battle Is Won.

The work for prohibition repeal has only just begun, Representative Mary T. Norton told an audience of several hundred Washingtonians last night at a repeal benefit entertainment in Wardman Park Hotel. The benefit was conducted by the District of Columbia division of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform.

"Just because Congress has acted favorably and quickly on prohibition repeal is no reason why the campaign should take a slump," Mrs. Norton cautioned her wet supporters.

Mr. John Caswell acted as master of ceremonies for the variety entertainment, presented by Phil Lampkin of the Fox Theater Orchestra; Charlie Wright of the Club Michel; two acts from the Madrillon restaurant; Serge Abagoff, the dancer at the Troika Supper Club; Sidney Diebold, violinist; six young women from the Virginia C. KIRK WILL REVEALS CAPITAL PROPERTY

Ida Kirk, wealthy 73-year-old spinster of St. Marys County, Md., who was slain when a bomb exploded in her automobile last January 7, left real estate and personal property valued at $69,000 in Washington, it was shown yesterday when the District Supreme Court was asked to grant her executors authority to take over her estate here.

John H. T. Briscoe, named as executor of Miss Kirk's will, through Attorney J. Edward Burroughs, filed a certified copy of the will. There was no description of the real estate holdings here.

According to the will, Miss Kirk left the following bequests: Mrs. Elva Gibson, wife of the Rev. Joseph P. Gibson, $5,000, and Mr. Briscoe a like amount. The following were each given $2,000: Addison Herbert, John T. Shade, Mary E. Shade, Virginia Reeves, Webster H. Hurley, Frances M. and Nellie M. Key, Evelyn Montgomery, William Kirk Snauffer, Walter Kirk Sterling, Viola Montgomery, Frank Wainwright and Hilda Jane Briscoe.

The Chaptico Church Parish Aid Society is given $5,000 and a marble guardian angel, to be placed in the Kirk family burial plot at Chaptico, are the remaining items provided in the will.

Despite an intensive hunt for the person who placed the bomb in Miss Kirk's automobile, no definite clew as to the identity has been uncovered. Two colored men are still in jail, and they are seeking release through a writ of habeas corpus.

MITCHELL RECEIVED $3,500,000 BONUS

cal of it, suggesting the system followed would encourage selling bad investments to the public.

Explaining the system, Mitchell said both the bank and the company had "management funds" representing 20 per cent of the profits after 8 per cent had been deducted for capital, surplus and undivided profits.

These funds were divided among officers of the two companies, he said, and he participated in both as an officer in the two institutions.

Questioned by Pecora about the commissions, Mitchell said at first he did not remember the figures, but after refreshing his memory during the noon-day recess, he gave them in detail.

The banker said the bank's management fund in 1927 was $1,356,990, of which he received $529,230. The company's fund that year, he added, was $1,988,000 out of which he got $527,000.

That made his total bonus for the year, he said, $1,056,230, in addition to his salary of $25,000.

Security Affiliate's Fund.

The following year, Mitchell continued, the bank's fund was $1,401,885, from which he got $566,634, and the company's fund was $2,739,438, with his own share $750,000.

The bank's fund in 1929, Mitchell testified, was $1,725,177, out of which he obtained $608,868.

The banker said the security affiliate's fund for 1929 was "nil," but under Pecora's questioning he testified there was a distribution for the first half of the year from which he got about $500,000.

This was wiped out by the end of the year, he said, but the bonus payments were not refunded but made deductible from future accumulations, of which there have been none so far, because the management fund system has not operated since 1929.

Mitchell testified the system had been inaugurated because of the "low" $25,000 salary paid to executive officers in comparison with salaries of private bankers.

"Do you think it was a good system?" Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, asked.

"Yes," Mitchell replied. "I feel quite strongly about it. It established an esprit de corps."

"Doesn't it also inspire a lack of care in the sale of securities to the public?"

"I can readily see from your viewpoint that it would seem so," Mitchell replied, "and I must grant that there must be some influence. At the same time I don't recall seeing it operate that way."

"A Difficult Question."

"You wouldn't," Couzens retorted. "Only the customers would see it after they got the securities. How many of the securities you sold are now in default?"

"That is a difficult question," the banker said.

"During a ten-year period our total sales were about $20,000,000,000, and I think there has been difficulty of one sort or another in something under $1,000,000,000."

Couzens said the committee was making the inquiries to show that such "extremely high salaries" result in unsound banking.

"It's desirable," he added, "that the public should know what inspires some of these sales and some of the securities being foisted upon the public. It has been detrimental to the public interest."

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

A PLEA to workers in the Commerce Department to find part-time employment at some task for unemployed Washingtonians registered at the Public Employment Office was circulated today by Edward W. Libbey, chief clerk, Commerce Department.

"Twenty-five thousand men and women, white and colored, in nearly 300 classifications, are registered at the Public Employment Office of the Labor Department," Mr. Libbey said, adding, "these people seek work—not charity, many of them having not even the bare necessities."

Mr. Libbey urged that Commerce Department workers survey their home needs for even a day's work.

"See if you can find a day's work or two in your home, painting, laundering, carpentering, cleaning or anything," Mr. Libbey asks, pointing out, "you set the wage."

Diary Spelling Bee general committee yesterday announced selection of Dr. P. J. Lennox, head of the department of English, Catholic University, as final pronouncer at the first annual contest next Tuesday evening at the National Press Club.

Dr. P. J. Lennox.

Miss Mary E. Bonta, head of the English department, Strayer Business College, will pronounce for the two preliminary contests.

This will supply the information requested many times recently.

J. Leonard Acuff, Prohibition, is the latest entrant into the contest. Here's wishing him luck. Tickets will be available free to the first 400 to apply. So if you want to be one of "the 400," be prompt. There'll be some surprises after you get there. We don't believe in telling everything beforehand. The best way is to see for yourself. The hour is 8 p. m.

Amen, Brother——

Prohibition Bureau employes can take time out for a smile after reading the answer by an investigator to this question:

If an investigator executes a void search warrant in a wholly illegal manner and with wanton disregard for the rights of persons or property, what personal liability does he incur?

Answer: "Subject to $1,000 fine, a year in prison, either or both. Might have been shot at his own expense and more than likely to get fired."

Complete eligibility of Wick Parrack, former G. W. U. star, now on Crop Production Loan Office basket ball squad, Federal circuit, is announced by Luther C. Steward, president, Government Basket Ball League. Parrack had been protested by G. P. O. on the grounds that he wasn't employed at Crops, but Steward's investigation showed his appointment dated from February 11, time enough to get into competition.

Because of his habit of scoring more than 10 points per contest, the Farmers probably will be installed as favorites to win second-half laurels.

Speaking of Crop Production, E. L. Boyd, chief, operations division, probably is the first Federal chief in history actively to play basket ball. He teams with his subordinates in every game, and while not a high-scoring guard, is rated the finest dribbler in the league.

The Mandoliers, a local mandolin and guitar orchestra, comprised largely of Federal employes, held a surprise party Monday night at the home of the organization's leader, Herman Von Bernewitz, jr., 732 Underwood street northwest, who recently became a benedict. Twenty persons attended. At the close of the evening, devoted principally to a special musical program, the organization presented the newlyweds with a beautiful table lamp. The ladies present served refreshments. "A good time was had by all."

The Mandoliers, formerly known as the Lyric Mandolin and Guitar Orchestra, is familiar to many here for its musical renditions at meetings of State societies, amateur dramatic events, church socials and other functions. Its membership includes representatives of the Postoffice, Commerce, Agriculture and Navy Departments and other branches of the Government.

"In rejecting the Bratton amendment providing for a horizontal 5 per cent cut in appropriations, while at the same time granting broad powers to the incoming President for reorganization of executive departments, the House has unquestionably placed its stamp of approval on a sane, scientific method of affecting economies in administration, as opposed to the arbitrary and unintelligent scheme contained in the Bratton proposal," says Luther C. Steward, president, N. F. P. E., in part.

Voice of Washington Heard From Beyond, Woman Says

Urged Nation Not to Have Misgivings for Future, Miss Frances Colburn, of Takoma Park, Declares; Words Taken Down by Stenographer.

From out of the shadows of the Great Beyond, on the eve of his 201st birthday anniversary, came the voice of George Washington yesterday to warn present-day citizens of their peril and predict a final happy outcome from prevalent conditions throughout the country, it was reported by Miss Helen Frances Colburn, who said she received a message in her home at 41 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park. Miss Colburn, alone save for the presence of her brother, Arthur R. Colburn, and a stenographer who took the message in shorthand, said she received the communication yesterday afternoon.

It was in the same room, Mr. Colburn said, that he received a spiritual message from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle the day he died. Thousands of communications, he declared, have been received from hundreds of personalities by himself and his sister.

With the use of a small ouija board, Miss Colburn said, she heard the voice of George Washington and repeated the words he spoke. These were in turn taken down by the stenographer. The alleged message opened with a greeting from Gen. Washington.

"I, the first of your many Presidents, do now speak with you on many subjects touching as lightly as one may where many persons, who have convictions of their own, may not be disturbed by one coming back who has once lived on this plane and talking of things that are in this day some of the greatest questions that have ever arisen in the world's history in any country."

"I have seen the most of these present great calamities coming forth as out of a chrysalis, one at a time," the purported message continued, "and sometimes many very perplexing questions coming along with them, for the settlement of which no one man can ever form the answer."

The voice of George Washington, Miss Colburn said, warned that it will be a long time before present conditions are settled and once again citizens may return to their former peace of minds.

In speaking of himself, Miss Colburn said, Gen. Washington declared:

"I love to think that people have held me in the kind of memory they have, for when I started out to undertake my great tasks I never dreamed that I would be able to measure up to the standards required of me. I have gone through battles, been shot at, horses shot from under me, I have had Indians as well as the white man try to take my life, people in many different ways trying to destroy my existence and many kinds of people belonging to me in my cabinet and in my earth life tried to circumvent what I considered absolutely essential to the Government at that time.

"The Nation has grown and prospered on the blood and the lives of its citizens to come to the present conditions where everything now will try to become worthwhile or else go down to unknown conditions of distress."

But the great general urged the Nation not to have misgivings for the future, Miss Colburn declared, for the future is in the hands of Some One who is able and powerfully able to carry it forth into the country as it should be.

"'I am sorry for many things,' the message continued," she said, "'but I am rather shy in speaking on these now because it might tread on the feet of those who care not to have it mentioned. So I will just step aside from the things I might say. I could tell you much, but it would not be at this time tactful and proper for me to do so.'"

George Washington expressed a grave conviction that conditions "will be settled in some very fine way," Miss Colburn declared, but deemed it wise that he not appear to come back upon this earth and preach to those that are now living of what they should do under different circumstances.

The Colburns spend many hours in receiving communications from the great and near great who have passed beyond, they said. In the instance of Conan Doyle, Mr. Colburn related the creator of Sherlock Holmes came unbidden to give his message.

In concluding his communication, Miss Colburn quoted George Washington as saying:

"I have been privileged to give my thoughts to you through transmission of telepathy and I now say, with every good wish for this country and its people, I bid you a fond and affectionate adieu."

Union Veterans Reply To Inaugural Appeal

The appeal of the inaugural parade committee for assistance in locating G. A. R. veterans as participants in the Roosevelt inaugural parade brought an immediate response yesterday to headquarters in the Washington Building.

The first report came by long-distance telephone from the Rev. H. S. Hull, of Belmore, N. J. The Rev. Mr. Hull, who is 87 years old, served in the Seventeenth Connecticut Regiment during the Civil War and assured Dr. George C. Havenner, vice chairman of the parade committee, that he would be delighted to ride in the parade.

Another early response came from John M. Culbertson, 1358 Quincy street northwest. Mr. Culbertson served in the Seventh Kansas Cavalry, and is 92 years old. At the rate at which the applications were reaching Dr. Havenner, he said it was evident that the problem of finding G. A. R. representation was very definitely settled by the announcement in The Washington Post Monday.

The $100 first prize awarded in the Roosevelt-Garner Inaugural Ball Poster contest was won by Julian Middleton Archer, 1535 Forty-fourth street northwest, and delivered by Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the ball committee, yesterday.

The jury of awards selected four posters, one prize poster and three honorable mentions. The latter three went to Miss Ruth Hazlett, Adline Sager and Polly McIlvane, all of Washington.

Approval of the work of the inaugural committee was expressed in a resolution adopted yesterday at a meeting of the general committee at the Willard Hotel. The action of the general committee, which includes among its membership some 300 prominent Washington citizens, was taken after Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, and the various committee chairmen had reported to the meeting on the work already done and the plans which had been carried to completion.

Text of Resolution.

The resolution, offered by Judge Finnis J. Garrett and seconded by Frank S. Bright and unanimously adopted, follows: "Resolved, that the general committee approves the work that has been done thus far by the inaugural committee and wishes to express its appreciation for the thorough manner in which the work has been carried on, and that it further approves of the continuation of the work of the inaugural committee to its completion in the same manner as it has already been done."

Reserved tickets to the Inaugural concert not called for by tomorrow afternoon will be placed on general sale, Forrest S. Rutherford, vice chairman of the general entertainment committee, announced yesterday.

Hundreds of preferred seats have been laid aside for persons who applied early, he explained, but they will be sold unless claimed before the deadline. The supply of unreserved tickets is nearly exhausted, he added, hence the necessity for placing all unclaimed reserved seats on sale.

Proceeds from the concert, as well as other Inaugural programs for which a charge is made, will be turned over to local charity.

Many G. A. R. Responses.

Among the reports of the committee chairmen, those of the finance committee and the budget and auditing committee said there was every indication the guarantors would be paid in full.

Publication of the parade committee's desire for Grand Army representation in the Roosevelt inaugural parade brought responses yesterday which came near swamping Dr. George C. Havenner, vice chairman of that committee. Sufficient applications were received to fill the cars which will be allotted to the Union veterans as soon as some decision can be reached as to those who will be permitted to participate.

Vice President Curtis has been invited by John W. Childress, vice chairman of the general entertainment committee, to attend the Indian ball game, which will be held at Central High School Stadium on the afternoon of March 3, and open the contest.

The official inaugural program, a 64-page publication, free of all advertising, went on sale yesterday at all newsstands and in all Washington hotels. The program, as usual, contains all the detailed information about the inaugural ceremonies, the inaugural parade, the inaugural ball and the program of entertainment which runs from March 2 to March 6.

Grayson Writes Foreword.

In addition this year's publication contains a foreword by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, and sketches and pictures of President-elect Roosevelt and Vice President-elect John N. Garner. Portraits and short biographies of the wives of the two men who will be sworn in March 4 also are included. Special features this year are an article on the passing of March 4, by J. Fred Essary, chairman of the program committee; an account of inaugural parades of other days by Ernest G. Walker; and some landmarks of Old Washington by George Rothwell Brown, chairman of the committee on historic sites. Pictures of all the Presidents of the United States, illustrations dealing with previous inaugurals, and a story of the inaugural balls of the past by David Rankin Barbee, further embellish the publication. It also contains an article on Mistresses of the White House, by Eleanor Connolly and Dorothy V. Lee. A reproduction of the inaugural medal and a page for autographs bring the volume to a close. Mail orders for the program, 35 cents plain and 62 for a de luxe binding, may be sent to Room 554, Washington Building.

Following the usual custom, the District Commissioners yesterday directed Maj. E. W. Brown, superintendent of police, to cancel all leaves in the Police Department from March 1 to 7 inclusive.

ROOSEVELT BREACH IS DENIED BY GLASS

Can Serve Better in Senate, He Feels; Fess Attacks Currency Expansion.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Carter Glass yesterday took cognisance of reports that he had declined the Treasury Secretaryship because of a disagreement with President-elect Roosevelt over the inflation question and promptly stamped such rumors "mischievous."

The 75-year-old Virginian issued a formal statement to the press saying he had turned down Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet offer because he believed he could be of more service to the country in the Senate than in the Treasury, and that his age and health also had nothing to do with his decision.

His assertion that he had had no differences with Mr. Roosevelt on "fundamental issues" came at a time when Senator Fess, of Ohio, veteran Republican whip, was making a speech in the Senate against inflation. He urged Mr. Roosevelt to reassure business now by disavowing any intention to "tamper with sound money."

Glass has long been an unyielding opponent of all moves to inflate or expand the currency.

Glass' statement came after he had joshed with colleagues in the Senate Banking Committee over the flood of speculation flowing about his plans. It was in that committee that the Virginian told newspapermen for the first time himself that he was "content" to remain in the Senate.

"The simple fact is," he said later in his statement, "that I prefer to remain in the Senate because nobody has shaken my conviction that I can be of more usefulness there to the country and to the incoming administration than at the Treasury.

Prompts Final Answer.

"This conviction," he added, "urged to President-elect Roosevelt at the outset, has persisted to the end and prompted my final answer. It was confirmed by the unanimity of expression in the Senate and in Virginia. I deeply regret that I could reach no different conclusion."

As for reports that he had declined the Cabinet place because of age or health, Glass said: "All reasonable persons should agree that if I am too old for the Treasury post, I am too old to remain in the Senate and that my health could not more certainly be impaired in the contemplative position of the one place than in the active and tempestuous duties of the other."

In a speech that lasted more than two hours Fess said no statement could have a more "salutary result" on commerce and industry than one from Mr. Roosevelt now that currency expansion would not be undertaken under his regime.

Would Aid Business.

"That would stimulate business at once," Fess asserted. "Until that uncertainty is removed there will be no revival of business."

Senators Wheeler, Montana, and Thomas, Oklahoma, inflationist Democrats, immediately challenged some of Fess' statements. Thomas served notice he would reply to the speech today.

He told Fess yesterday that the country was in its "worst shape in history" as a result of following similar advice.

Wheeler said he had been unable to find a definition of "sound money."

"Banks have been loaded up with securities," he said, "and prices of commodities have gone down so as to make the value of the securities practically worthless. They have gone that way under sound money."

Fess said business would not take the risk of expanding until it had assurance the Government and States would live within their income, that all profits would not be absorbed by taxation, and until "we stop this constant agitation that we are going to destroy the stability of our currency."

Three Are Saved When Hotel Burns

Two Women and Man in Atlantic City Saxon House Rescue.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Three persons were rescued in a fire which badly damaged the three-story brick Saxon Hotel at 16 and 18 South Illinois avenue late this afternoon.

About 20 guests were in the hotel at the time, and all are believed to have been accounted for. Miss Marion Griffenbacher, who had a room on the third floor of the burning structure, was trapped in her bedroom. Firemen placed a ladder up to her window and carried her to the street.

Miss Neda Brosius and Harry Forsythe occupied rooms on the first floor. They stopped in an effort to remove their trunks and had to be assisted to safety. The loss has not yet been estimated, but will probably reach $10,000, Max Sachs, who operates the hotel, said.

Virginia State Auditor Offers to Resign Post

Richmond, Va., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—T. Coleman Andrews disclosed tonight that he had written Gov. Pollard, offering to resign as auditor of public accounts.

Mr. Andrews said the connection of his auditing firm with the corporation commission's investigation of public utility rates in Virginia might be deemed incompatible with his State office. For this reason, he said, he would be willing to resign should the governor think this course best.

Post, were surprised to hear of the incident.

Mr. Schooley, when asked for a statement, declared:

"As soon as I was notified of the discovery I ordered the package turned over to Mr. Satterfield. I did not see the package or its contents, but understand it was made from an old gun shell, tightly wrapped in rusty wires. It came through in the regular mail."

Mr. Satterfield said his investigation had just been started. He said he knew nothing of the bomb's origin and would begin a complete inquiry today.

The officers, in a celebration of their 150th anniversary, are to present a tableau of Washington presiding at a meeting of the original organization.

Feature of Exercises at Alexandria Tonight to Be Tableau.

Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. & A. M., of which George Washington was the first worshipful master, will celebrate its 150th birthday anniversary tonight in George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple on Shooters Hill, Alexandria, the magnificent structure being erected on land formerly owned by Gen. Washington, by the Masons of the United States, at a cost of $4,000,000.

At 9 a. m. today, the officers of the lodge, headed by Dr. Robert South Barrett, worshipful master, will journey to Mount Vernon and place a wreath on the tomb of Washington. They will be accompanied by representatives of Liberty Lodge, of Beverly, Mass., with which Alexandria-Washington Lodge exchanges annual visits; Fredericksburg Lodge, No. 4, in which Washington was made a Mason; the William L. Elkins Lodge, of Philadelphia, and Washington Lodge, of New York City. The Rev. Percy Foster Hall, chaplain of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, will offer a prayer at the tomb.

The annual banquet of Alexandria-Washington Lodge will be held in the Masonic Memorial at 6:30 p. m., with covers for 400, and with the representatives of the George Washington Masonic Memorial Association as guests.

At 8 p. m. the anniversary celebration will be held, in the auditorium of the Masonic Memorial, with an elaborate program, the principal feature of which will be a tableau depicting Washington presiding over the lodge. The officers will be in colonial costume. George Washington, as worshipful master, will be impersonated by Dr. Robert South Barrett; Col. Michael Ryan, senior warden, by Roy S. Reeve; William Hunter, junior warden, by Clyde C. Lamond, jr.; Dr. Elisha Cullen Dick, secretary, by C. Page Waller; Col. Charles Simms, treasurer, by J. Edward Shinn; Col. Wiley; John Allison, junior steward, by James Sherier; the Rev. Bryan Fairfax, chaplain, by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, and Michael Gretter, tiler, by George W. Zachary.

Then will follow the presentation of distinguished guests, during which the orchestra will play the President's march; a brief history of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, by Dr. Barrett; an address by J. C. Padgett, grand master of Masons in Virginia; quartette, "Rogue Song," by the Radiotone quartette; address by U. S. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas; address by U. S. Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, and an address by Col. Louis Watres, president of the George Washington Masonic Memorial Association.

This celebration is the first, so far as known, in the history of the lodge to which ladies have been admitted. Admission is by ticket only, each member of the lodge having been given tickets for himself and one lady. It is estimated that between 700 and 800 persons will attend.

The auditorium is the only room in the new temple which has been fully completed, and it is used for all important Masonic gatherings in Alexandria. Work on the interior of the building is progressing rather slowly, and several more years will be consumed in the work.

Officers of Group Will Go to Mount Vernon and Decorate Tomb.

MASONIC MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION MEETS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The twenty-third annual meeting of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, which has charge of the building of the memorial temple to Washington, the Mason, on Shooters Hill, Alexandria, convened yesterday in the memorial, with 150 delegates, representatives of the various grand jurisdictions in the United States, in attendance.

The report of the treasurer showed that during the past year $300,000 has been expended in construction work, with a treasury cash balance of $64,000. The grand jurisdiction of New York presented a check for $10,000, bringing the total of that State's contributions to the temple to more than $600,000. More than $3,000,000 has already been expended in the construction of the temple, and a considerable amount of interior work remains to be done, as well as landscaping.

The sessions of the association are being presided over by Col. Louis A. Watres, of Scranton, Pa., president. The meeting yesterday was opened with invocation by the Rev. William Jackson Morton, D. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Alexandria, and chaplain of the association since its formation. An address of welcome was delivered by Judge J. C. Padgett, grand master of Masons in Virginia, with a response by Walter C. Winslow, grand master of Masons in Oregon.

After the annual reports of the president and treasurer, there was an address by A. H. Bell, past grand master of Masons in Illinois, and one by Louis Block, past grand master of Masons in Iowa.

In his address, Mr. Block declared that Masonry will be measured in the world not by what its enthusiastic supporters may declare it to be, but by what it is. "Every individual member," he said, "is a unit upon the yardstick with which the world will measure Masonry, and its value will be the sum total of the value of the lives of its members, for Masonry, like religion, is an individual matter. One can not merely get by in the crowd and share the good reputation of an organization if his character is below the standard of that organization. The value of Masonry to the world, so far as each individual is concerned, is its value within the circle of influence of his life, and he is the determining factor of that value."

The convention will reassemble at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the lodge room of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, on Cameron street, when business will be resumed.

The officers of the association are Col. Louis A. Watres, Scranton, Pa., president; James H. Johnson, Charleston, S. C., first vice president; Harry G. Noyes, Berlin, N. H., second vice president; Bert S. Lee, Springfield, Mo., third vice president; George L. Lusk, Bay City, Mich., fourth vice president; J. Claude Keiper, Washington, D. C., secretary and treasurer; the Rev. William Jackson Morton, D. D., chaplain.

RENOVATION DRIVE OPENS TOMORROW

Board of Trade to Confer With Bankers on Loans to Property Owners.

With local banks preparing to start in motion the machinery which will enable home owners to borrow up to $500 for improvement of their property, the Washington Board of Trade, promoter of the Renoviza Washington campaign, has called a meeting of leading bankers and others for 4 p. m. tomorrow.

At this time the campaign will be definitely launched and by next morning loans should be pouring into the pockets of home owners.

Banks yesterday received blanks from the District Bankers Association on which applications for the loans may be submitted. Applicants must be home owners with an equity whose taxes and mortgage interest are paid up. If the applicant is not a depositor at a bank, he must secure the indorsement of a depositor.

Members of Congress yesterday joined in the chorus of approval being given the campaign. Indorsements came from Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District Committee, and Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, chairman of the House District Committee; Senator Kean, of New Jersey, a member of the District Committee, and Representative Henry B. Steagall, of Alabama, chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

The average relief for a family of four during that week was $3.51, while for the week ending February 4 it was $4.35. Total expenditures since August 1 are $570,606.32. This includes a work pay roll of $411,246.39, a cash pay roll of $5,176.11, and expenditures for groceries, milk, rent, &c., of $106,291.16. Daughter of Champ Clark Points to Need of Courage

Mrs. James M. Thomson Tells Woman's Press Club of Incidents in Her Brother's Campaign for Senate in Which She Took Active Part.

"Today, as never before perhaps, we as a people need to adopt the motto of Danton, 'Courage, courage and yet more courage,'" declared Mrs. James M. Thomson, formerly Genevieve Champ Clark, daughter of the late Speaker Champ Clark, at the weekly luncheon of the Woman's National Press Club yesterday at which she was the guest of honor.

"If, as I believe," continued Mrs. Thomson, "the country is turning to men of courage and sending them over apparently ever insuperable obstacles as representatives in the Nation's councils, it is a hopeful sign for our future well being. Our country's greatest need at this hour is men and women of conscience, courage and character, of whatever party they may be and they are coming to us."

Mrs. Thomson told incidents of her brother's, Bennett Champ Clark, campaign for the United States Senate which resulted in a victory of nearly a half-million majority at the polls last November. Mrs. Thomson assisted her brother in the campaign, speaking throughout Missouri.

Mrs. Thomson also edited a special newspaper brought out to assist Senator Clark's campaign and which had a total circulation of half a million copies. It was called "Bennett Champ Clark's Time" and it was credited with winning him many votes on election day.

"There were many interesting and touching incidents in the campaign that were evidence of the affection in which the memory of our father is held by the people whom he loved and served so long."

Among the other guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, wife of Senator Clark, Miss Eleanor Connolly, and Mrs. Thomas W. Bidwell.

TWO ARE NAMED TO CABINET

ferences in the Roosevelt study with Ambassador Claudel of France and W. D. Herridge, the Canadian Minister.

Ever since he conferred and accepted finally the Secretary of State portfolio from Mr. Roosevelt on the train en route to New York last Friday, Senator Hull has been busy at work on the foreign situation, which involves an early world economic parley and subsequent discussion of war debts relief.

Mr. Woodin, a man of wealth, who has successfully guided several enterprises through the economic crisis in this country, has been constantly at the elbow of Mr. Roosevelt both here and at Warm Springs, Ga. He once listed himself as a Republican, but he supported both Alfred E. Smith and Mr. Roosevelt.

He conferred at length yesterday with the President-elect just after word had been received that the veteran Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, had finally declined an invitation to enter the Cabinet again as Secretary of the Treasury.

Two Others Settled.

Determined to clear up his Cabinet line-up immediately, Mr. Roosevelt was at work tonight with his trusted advisers—James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee, and Louis M. Howe, political secretary.

It was believed he was in communication with Senator Swanson, of Virginia, whose friends made known at Washington that the veteran Democrat had been offered and definitely accepted the portfolio of Secretary of the Navy.

At least two other Cabinet posts are definitely selected—Farley is to be Postmaster General and Senator Walsh, of Montana, is to be the Attorney General.

Also there seems little doubt that Miss Frances Perkins, of New York, will be Secretary of Labor and Henry Wallace, jr., of Iowa, will be Secretary of Agriculture.

Several Names Mentioned.

The War, Interior and Commerce offices were still open to speculation tonight. Several names were mentioned for each. The visit of Robert Dunham, Chicago industrialist, at the Roosevelt home today led to speculation that he might be the next Secretary of Commerce.

Word was circulated in Capital circles at Washington that Harold Ickes, of Chicago, was a likely appointee for the Interior portfolio.

However, the name of Philip La Follete, former Independent Republican Governor of Wisconsin, who supported Mr. Roosevelt, continued as a possibility for Secretary of Interior. The War office remained very speculative. Senators Barkley of Kentucky, and Bulkley of Ohio, as well as James Thomson, New Orleans publisher, and Joseph Kennedy, Massachusetts industrialist, continued to be mentioned prominently for this post. But having announced his Secretaries of State and Treasury, Mr. Roosevelt sat back easily tonight to enjoy the gossip about who his other appointees would be.

Groundwork Is Laid.

Having talked personally with the British, French and Canadian representatives, Mr. Roosevelt is now ready to leave the preparation of further detail in the hands of Senator Hull and Mr. Woodin, together with Prof. Raymond Moley, his economic adviser and authority on war debts.

There is every sign that he has laid the groundwork for an early world economic conference to be followed by a review of war debts.

Mr. Roosevelt took over the foreign affairs of the United States, in effect, during the day and got a running start on the forthcoming world conference.

In quick succession at his residence the President-elect consulted with his economic advisers and received Claudel and Herridge.

The significant discussions focused on the world economic conference which now appears to be imminent and the subjects of monetary stabilization, tariff reciprocity and war debts.

Mr. Roosevelt and his diplomatic callers guardedly concealed the specif details taken up, but it was believed the meeting asked for by M. Claudel brought an overture from France on her debt payment, which was defaulted on December 15.

More Parleys Certain.

The President-elect said the conversations would be resumed shortly and he would ask his new Secretary of State to continue them forthwith.

All signs now point to a world economic parley before Roosevelt talks over debt relief with the European nations. He wants to have definite assurance of progress toward world recovery before conceding aid on the debts.

Here is what the President-elect told newspapermen about the Claudel and Herridge conversations:

"After conferring with Secretary Stimson in Washington Monday, the French Ambassador came to see me in New York today. We discussed unofficially all questions relating to collaboration between France and the United States. These included, of course, the world economic conference and intergovernment debts.

"These conversations will continue and the new Secretary of State, after his selection is announced, will doubtless see M. Claudel.

"I had a delightful meeting with Mr. Herridge, the Canadian Minister. This was the first time I had the privilege of meeting him and we discussed many matters of mutual interest to Canada and the United States."

After reading this statement, he looked up to the group of newspapermen and emphasized "that is all there is." He added that he had no more dates either with foreign envoys or with Secretary Stimson.

Obviously, though, the French overture today on war debts opened the way for a general world economic parley, including all nations—a move that was started at yesterday's meeting between Roosevelt and Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain.

Even before seeing Ambassador Claudel today the President-elect summoned to his conference table on the second floor of the white stone front Roosevelt home here a distinguished group of economic and political leaders, headed by Bernard M. Baruch and Prof. Moley.

Baruch Seen as Envoy.

Baruch is regarded as the probable chairman of the American delegation to the economic conference. Prof. Moley, expert on war debts, sat in at the Roosevelt parley with M. Claudel. The French Ambassador had with him Emmanuel Monick, financial attache of the French Embassy.

Just what offer France made about the defaulted December 15 payment remains for conjecture. Neither the American nor the French representatives would talk.

Roosevelt himself emphasized that "everything is in the preliminary state" but that "everything is getting on very well." It was stated authoritatively that the Far Eastern crisis was not mentioned at all.

Nevertheless, the apparent understanding between the United States and the representatives of Great Britain and France was believed to point also to this situation. The Roosevelt statement spoke of "collaboration between France and the United States in world affairs."

Linked With Speech.

The call of Mr. Herridge was linked directly with the speech made yesterday by Canadian Prime Minister Bennett before the House of Commons in Ottawa, stating that Canada would gladly entertain a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, if Mr. Roosevelt would initiate the discussion.

On behalf of the President-elect it was stated that both M. Claudel and Mr. Herridge sought the conferences held today with Roosevelt.

Woodin Becomes Eighth Pennsylvanian in Post

(Associated Press.)

Appointment last night of William H. Woodin, a native of Berwick, Pa., to head the Treasury Department in the Roosevelt administration brought to eight the number of Pennsylvanians named to that post.

The first, Albert Gallatin, was a native of Switzerland, but he spent a good share of his life operating glass factories on the banks of the Monongahela River in western Pennsylvania.

Appointed Secretary of the Treasury in 1801 by Thomas Jefferson, Gallatin kept the portfolio until 1814.

Other Pennsylvanians in the office have been:

Alexander J. Dallas, 1814-16; Richard Rush, 1825-29; Samuel D. Ingham, 1829-31; Walter Forward, 1841-43; William Meredith, 1849-50, and Andrew W. Mellon, 1920-32.

Maj. Rupertus Ordered To Pacific Department

Orders detaching Maj. William H. Rupertus, U. S. M. C., from duties at headquarters here to the Department of the Pacific have been announced. A native of Washington, Maj. Rupertus attended public schools here and upon graduation from Technical High School entered the U. S. Coast Guard in 1908. He entered the Marine Corps in 1913.

It is expected he will command the Marine Detachment at Sunnyvale, Calif., when the station is opened to care for the U. S. S. Macon, the Navy's newest dirigible.

LONG CHARGES SENATE BREAKS FAITH IN OVERTON INQUIRY

lican), of Nebraska, admitted that Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, retired, had agreed to serve the Senate for only 30 days and that the 30 days had expired. Who should be the new counsel of the committee has not been thought about, Senator Howell said. It may be the committee will not require new counsel.

To pursue its investigations of the purported iniquities reputedly incident to the Overton-Broussard election battle, members of the committee believe they should go back South into the balliwick of the gentlemen involved. But it apparently is agreed that Gen. Ansell has fulfilled his 30-day agreement.

Secure in the warmth of its power and dignity, the Senate sent a committee headed by Senator Howell down to New Orleans to investigate complaints made by Senator Edwin S. Broussard (Democrat), Louisiana, about his defeat in his campaign for reelection for another secure 6-year term to the Senators Club.

Whether the things that Senator Broussard charged against Senator Long and his political machine in Louisiana were proved or not, nonetheless the New Orleans hearings presented to the Nation the picture of Senator Long's brothers coming before that sub-bar of the Senate and portraying him as a charlatan of the rankest character who preached "down with the trusts and the powerful" and openly took from representatives of the "trusts" and the "powerful" such a large roll of bills that it bulged out of the voluminous hip pocket of a loose pair of pants, even while the cheers of the down-trodden populace rent the air in joyous appreciation of the Senator's speech.

Senator Long took the floor in the Senate yesterday and showed his enemies that if they thought they had him dead to rights on the basis of the New Orleans hearings, they had another think coming.

Even the conservative, dignified Senator Howell regretted that Brig. Gen. Ansell, who defended Grover Bergdoll, had returned to Washington and given a statement to the newspapers before the committee had had opportunity to consider its future course, if any.

Clark Denounces Ansell.

Senator Bennett Clark (Democrat), of Missouri, son of old Champ Clark, the old bald eagle the Democratic party will not forget for many more years, took the floor and denounced the action of Gen. Ansell, the committee counsel. Senator Howell repeated he could only say he regretted what Gen. Ansell had done.

Senator Long tore into the New Orleans proceedings in no uncertain terms. Senator Howell went over to the Democratic side of the aisle and took a seat not far from the Louisianian. Senator Long moved about and he waved his arms; he seemed, now and then, to be about to knock his forelock off. But there was no peradventure about what he meant to convey to the ears of the Senate and the Nation. He centered his attack on Gen. Ansell.

Gen. Ansell, he charged was a man who had forged an appointment as acting judge advocate general of the Army. Referring to Gen. Ansell's activities as attorney for the notorious draft dodger Bergdoll, Senator Long described him as the "Bergdoll pot of gold attorney."

Referring to Ansell's determination to be judge advocate of the army, Senator Long said that following Gen. Ansell's misrepresentation which got him the job, he resigned from the Army. The senator referred to Gen. Ansell's connection with the Bergdoll draft dodging while the general's own Nation was at war with the Nation to which the draft dodger was so whole-heartedly sympathetic.

"Put a face on Ansell and you've got a dog son of a wolf," Senator Long said, in the course of his vitriolic denunciation of the retired general.

He laced into Senator Howell, who isn't as loud-shouting as is Senator Long, but is one of those close-bitten-mouthed fellows who do not give up. Senator Howell listened and only replied occasionally, although now and then he seemed stirred to anger at the restrictions of Senate rules which compelled him to sit and listen to the Louisianian's speech.

The significance of the episode did not lie in the time its acting consumed, but in the fact that Senator Long taught the Senate a lesson. The next time it chooses a counsel for one of its committees, it probably will be inclined to scan the counsel's record for vulnerable—however demagogic—spots.

Not a fraction of the speech nor of the altercations has been given in the foregoing. The significance is to be found in the fact that Senator Long, whose enemies believed they had him dead to rights, took the floor and forced admission of regret from a brother senator appointed as a judge and rallied others to his defense.

HULL IS SUPPORTER OF TARIFF SLASHES

dominating conviction being that low tariffs all around served best to advance world economics.

With the opening of this session of Congress in December, he advocated a horizontal reduction of 10 per cent in world tariffs, as a first step in a broad program to improve markets and spur employment.

The United States should take the lead, he insisted, in suggesting such a slash to all nations, along with liberalizations of exchange restrictions and abandonment of "export subsidies and unfair trade practices."

Although foreign diplomats here declined to speak for publication tonight, it was indicated by their private comments that they viewed Hull's appointment as an augur for better international understanding and promotion of trade agreements.

William Hartman Woodin, choice for the new Secretary of the Treasury, has listed himself as a Republican, but was a potent Roosevelt adviser and supporter during the last campaign—as he was in 1928 for Alfred E. Smith.

Trim, gray-haired and wearing a small mustache, Woodin has made a name for himself not only as a business man but also as a musician.

President of the American Car and Foundry Co. as well as a director in a dozen other major corporations, the new Secretary of the Treasury asserted repeatedly during the campaign his belief that the forces of business could move forward most quickly under the guidance of his new chief.

The sudden decision of Roosevelt to fill his two major Cabinet posts immediately caught official Washington somewhat by surprise last night, but the appointments themselves were less startling.

For weeks it generally has been accepted that Senator Hull would be the new Secretary of State, but Woodin has not figured largely in the background of speculation as Secretary of the Treasury until the last few days.

Hull is widely known here as a Democratic leader in the House and Senate. Woodin is less widely known, as he has never figured in Washington politically.

STIMSON SENDS 48 STATES DRY NOTICES

a bill legalizing beer at this Congress. In the closing days of the present Congress it is believed doubtful that much can be done to bring this about, particularly with so many important appropriation bills yet to be passed.

The States that are expected to furnish the greatest difficulty to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment were enumerated by Rufus S. Lusk, legislative representative of the Crusaders, a wet organization. He described the following as "hopelessly dry:" Kansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska; the doubtful States were Alabama, Vermont, Idaho and Maine, but all the other States he claimed for the wets. This would indicate that the drys will be unable to muster the necessary opposition to defeat the measure.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, is just as sanguine on the other side of the cause. He predicted that at least half of the total number of States would vote down the resolution and keep the eighteenth amendment in the Constitution.

BOLSTERING THE R. F. C.

The Senate did a good day's work when it defeated the La Follette-Costigan dole for the States. By a vote of 44 to 28 that body decided to maintain the present policy of extending loans to States that have reached the end of their resources. Another raid on the Treasury has thus been stopped, and the credit of the Government remains on a sound basis.

Senator Wagner, of New York, brought out in the debate the fact that $183,000,000 of the original $300,000,000 fund set aside for loans to the States is still unexpended and unpledged by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. There is no urgent need for more funds to be lent to the States for direct relief. Apparently the Senate approved the appropriation of an additional $300,000,000 for this purpose merely as a safeguard against future needs. Funds must be made available when local resources of relief are exhausted, but Congress ought to be extremely careful that these loans to the States do not take on the character of a dole. States that have ample resources of their own to draw upon should not be permitted to borrow in Washington merely to obtain easy money.

That section of the Wagner bill dealing with public works does not remain on the solid basis of the present act. Instead of lending money only for self-liquidating corporations, the R. F. C. would be allowed to furnish capital for any public works that "are needful in the public interest." This loose clause might be stretched to include any project upon which local politicians might agree. It departs from the cautious policy of financing only profitable enterprises and inaugurates a new policy of increasing the debts against taxpayers in order to build unnecessary or nonproductive works. In this era of exorbitant taxes, rising debts and falling revenue, such a policy is manifestly unsound.

While Congress is dealing with the R. F. C. it should provide that loans to banks should not be made public. Banks that are fundamentally sound dare not ask for loans to carry them through a critical period because the attendant publicity spreads fear in the minds of their depositors. Speaker Garner's publicity clause forced into the R. F. C. act last summer has made serious trouble in several States. There is no excuse for disturbing the public mind by advertising every loan negotiated by banks. These loans are perfectly solid and backed by ample security, but patrons ignorant of the operation of the R. F. C. become frightened and draw out money from the very banks that have taken the wisest measures of precaution to fortify themselves against all possible contingencies. So the publicity clause works against the primary purpose of the United States in massing its credit behind private credit to make America impregnable.

EUROPE'S REALIGNMENT.

While Europe was speculating over the persistent rumors that a secret alliance had been formed by Germany and Italy, to include Austria and Hungary and also Bulgaria, the countries belonging to the Little Entente have strengthened their relations. Already bound together by alliances for the protection of mutual interests, the new association is officially described as a permanent, unified, international organization.

This latest instrument is considered one of the most inclusive ever drawn up between nations. It embraces all the agreements of the former alliances, but also greatly adds to the effectiveness of the combination, not only for defensive purposes, but for closer economic cooperation. The foreign ministers of the three nations will constitute a council to direct the common policy. This body will meet every three months and be assisted by a permanent secretariat with economic advisers, established at Geneva. Political treaties and economic negotiations with political bearings must have the unanimous approval of all three nations before being adopted by any one.

It is at once recognized that one of the main objects of this closely knit organization is to preserve the Versailles Treaty and be in a stronger position to oppose the growing probability of demands for territorial revision. The nations of the Little Entente count, of course, upon the support of France, and now feel that the new alliance forestalls the possibility that one of them might be alienated from the common interest.

The projected visit of Hitler to Italy renews discussion of closer relations, while the French and British ultimatum delivered to Austria regarding the Italian shipment of arms via Austria to Hungary has startled Europe by its brusqueness. These developments, together with the widening breaches at the disarmament conference, indicate that the European nations are lining up in two opposing camps.

THE FARM LEASING PLAN.

No general farm relief legislation will be enacted at this session of Congress, largely because no practicable plan has been offered. President Hoover clearly indicated that he would veto the domestic allotment bill if it should be sent to him. The Senate has passed the Smith bill, which would authorize the Government to speculate in cotton for the benefit of the farmer, but this seems to be only an impractical gesture to convince farmers that Congress is in sympathy with them. Secretary Hyde has come forth with a farm relief scheme, but there is no disposition in Congress to consider it.

President Hoover paid a rather negative compliment to the Hyde plan. "The plan proposed by the Secretary of Agriculture some time since for temporary leasing of marginal lands," he said "is the least harmful and the most hopeful of all the plans which have been proposed." But the President carefully refrained from indorsing the Hyde plan.

Secretary Hyde proposes that he be given authority to lease for one year about 50,000,000 acres of land now cultivated for cotton, wheat, corn and other cereal crops. Farmers would be asked for leasing bids and the lowest bids would be accepted, thus tending to remove submarginal land from cultivation, as no land leased to the Government could be used for crop production. It is estimated that $150,000,000 would be required to pay the leases. This would be raised by a small excise tax on the processors of the commodities especially benefitted.

In a number of respects this plan is an improvement over the domestic allotment scheme. It would remove poor lands from production instead of apportioning acreage reduction among both fertile and sterile areas. It would involve only about 10 or 15 per cent of the farmers, rather than the entire farm population. It would avoid the difficulty of having the Government tell farmers what they might plant on land representing acreage reduction.

On the other hand, there is no assurance that this scheme would result in reduced production. Unproductive land would be leased to the Government. Farmers might take advantage of the offer by renting worthless land to the Government, while producing larger crops on their fertile areas.

Secretary Hyde refers to his plan as a temporary leasing arrangement, but at the end of the first year Congress would be subjected to great political pressure to extend it. The tendency would be to expand leasing operations, until the Government would control all the worthless land in the country, paying farmers for letting it lie idle.

In trying to correct the defects of the domestic allotment plan Secretary Hyde seems to have wandered far astray into agricultural socialism. The idea of the Government taxing the public to pay farmers for not working parts of their land is repugnant to the American economic system. It might be the entering wedge of bureaucracy in agriculture. The experience of Congress with the veterans' dole does not encourage that body to establish any scheme that might descend into a dole for farmers.

LORTON'S WORKING FUND.

In a moment of dereliction the House struck from the District appropriations bill an item of $46,000 for operation of the Lorton reformatory and workhouse. Apparently the action was taken without realization by those representatives on the floor at the time of what it would mean to the District. It is inconceivable that the House would deliberately upset in this manner a policy that Congress has followed for years with notable success.

Indications are that the House thought it was voting for an economy measure. If so, it was mistaken. The $46,000 serves as working capital for the prison industries in the District's workhouse. That sum is more than saved by the output of these industries, which is used by governmental agencies. Denial of working capital to this institution would close down the workshop, leave the prisoners in idleness, and put the District to heavy expense for the purchase of products that are now obtained from Lorton.

Public opinion in the United States will not allow the products of prison labor to be sold on the open market. Yet every governmental unit has come to realize the necessity of putting prisoners to work. The state can not afford to maintain prisoners in idleness. Furthermore, work has been found the best method of rehabilitating criminals. No penal institution is successful without working facilities for its inmates. It has become the accepted custom in the United States, therefore, to use prisoners in the production of goods for governmental institutions.

This is the method followed at Lorton. No goods produced in the workhouse are sold on the open market. Common brick is made for use in public buildings, automobile tags and street signs are manufactured, as well as equipment for the sewer and water departments. Laundry service for the Federal departments and the District government is also furnished. It would be inexcusable for Congress to discontinue this work, thus increasing the District's expenses and demoralizing this institution by enforced idleness.

On the assumption that the House acted hastily, without realizing the consequences of this slash in the District bill, the Senate should restore the working fund for Lorton.

JOB INSURANCE VS. RELIEF.

Two years of study have led New York's joint legislative committee on unemployment to conclude that compulsory unemployment insurance legislation would be detrimental in the present emergency. Even those groups that are committed to the principle of insurance against joblessness seem to be convinced that nothing could be gained by pushing their program forward at this time. This action will doubtless be influential in other State capitals. Unemployment insurance must await consideration until some approach to normality is made.

The chief reason why this New York committee decided against unemployment insurance at present was a fear that it might result in more widespread loss of jobs. A statement by William L. Marcy, Jr., chairman of the committee, gives the following explanation:

> The conclusion seems unescapable that if we compel contributions to a reserve fund before the index of employment has turned upward, employers will be forced to remove from their pay rolls many thousands of part-time workers who would of necessity be thrown upon the welfare agencies of the State for support.

At present the urgent need is to get money back to work. Under the existing economic system men can not work unless capital works. Regardless of what may be said of the equities of the situation, most forms of capital can exist without working, and most human beings can not. For this reason it would be extremely unwise to adopt at this time any measure that would induce capital to withdraw from active enterprises. The great need is to stimulate confidence in industrial and business leaders so that they may go forward with hope of profit. Restoration of normal economic activity is the only practicable solution for the present difficulties.

Most enterprises are now losing money. Many of them are drawing heavily upon their reserves. If they were required to set aside large sums for the benefit of employes who might be discharged next year or several years hence, their only recourse would be to dismiss workmen now serving on a part time basis or further to restrict their activities. In either event the effect upon business would be adverse.

Labor leaders and employers are almost unanimously agreed that unemployment insurance is a problem for the States. Federal legislation on the subject has been ruled out of practical discussion. A number of State legislatures are now studying the situation and may act when the proper time comes. But at present their more urgent problem is caring for the millions already unemployed who lack the means of sustenance.

A Navy officer finds that the U. S. Navy ranks below the French, and is suspiciously silent regarding the strength of the Swiss armada.

Congress couldn't trust the legislatures to repeal the eighteenth amendment, but if it is repealed it will be because they feel like it.

Ardent repealers will soon be gunning for the unknown guy who invented the scheme of State conventions.

THE MERCHANT MARINE

By ISAAC F. MARCOSSON, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Today nearly 40 per cent of our foreign commerce goes in bottoms of American ships that vie with the best foreign craft afloat. In 1927 we reached the cross-lanes in our merchant marine. Government operation, and the consequent sterilization of private enterprise, pointed to one of two courses if we were to keep the American flag on the high seas.

The first was out-and-out government ownership and operation of all American vessels. The second was government financial aid to private builders and operators through construction loans and mail contracts.

There is no need of rehearsing marine legislative events up to the passage of the Jones-White act in 1928. By its provisions the shipowner can borrow 75 per cent of construction cost at a low rate of interest, the loan period extending for twenty years, the average life of a ship. Mail contracts for ten-year periods are available.

Under the stimulus of the Jones-White act, since 1928, $175,000,000 has been expended for the construction of 42 American ships totaling 500,000 tons, while 250,000 tons of old vessels have been reconditioned. We now have 600 American vessels, aggregating 3,500,000 tons, operating between 60 continental American ports and 550 foreign ports.

You can go almost anywhere and ship almost anywhere under the Stars and Stripes. Only five lines remain in the possession of the Shipping Board. Two of them are already disposed of, while the remaining three will soon be out of the Government's hands.

It means that private American marine enterprise is coming back to its own. Our industries have been conserved through a protective tariff. This is a matter of statute. Our ships deserve, and can have, the same safeguarding through the impulse to use them. It is a phase of nationalism that we may well encourage.

States Discuss Repeal.

POST HASTE

If Father George should return today we believe he would say: "Sam, cut out all this social service; stop doling Federal funds, and remind the people that it is their business to support the Government, not to be supported by it."

And this is a good day to ponder what Washington said about foreign entanglements and to watch our step in every direction.

It looks as though the Japs would synchronize their efforts perfectly, getting out of the league and into Jehol simultaneously.

The remnant known as Austria already visions herself playing the part of Belgium in the next campaign, but the Vienna role of Merry Widow in a tragedy does not appeal.

"Business can adjust itself to anything except uncertainty." The Post said it, the President rubs it in, Congress knows it. Why can't it act?

Has anybody ever asked Jack Garner whether he thinks it would improve his credit to be seen asking for a loan?

As an understudy in the occupation of another nation's territory, Peru still has much to learn in the way of exegetical palliation.

There may be some parleyvoo justification for the substitution of "deferred" for "default," but it doesn't listen good in plain American.

There are 5,000 foreign troops, including Americans, peeking over the great wall at the Jehol scrap. If one of them gets his cap knocked off it will be just too bad.

The new Democratic members of Congress are called to a caucus on March 2 to decide on a Speaker. Why not convene the 73rd on March 5? A few weeks' respite won't enable the country to recover, anyhow.

If you heard Attorney General Mitchell's tale of the racketeers you know who should shed tears of shame.

The Senate sidetracks La Follette gifts to States for Wagner's loans. Does the bill carry any quarantine provisions against European interpretations?

Having swallowed repeal whole, Congress will go back and try to enjoy a few quiet sips of lager; but beware mixing drinks!

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Fame touches some but lightly. Brief the glow
Which dims and dies with a few passing years.
But now and then a finished soul appears
Which, braving all that mortals here must know
Of fault and virtue and the weal and woe,
The gain and loss, the laughter and the tears
Which make this life, in glory seems to grow
Outliving custom, change and cynic sneers.

Men will remember Washington and say:
"He stood, when all seemed hopeless, for the right.
There will be those ten thousand years away,
Beset by doubts and groping thought the night,
Fatigued and footsore, cornered and at bay
Who'll think of him and dare once more to fight!

Remorse the Morning After Can't Ease the Headache or Bring Back Your Money.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ALL over America, people not yet reconciled to the inevitable are saying in their hearts: "Why must we have a new era? Why can't we go back to the normal times we had before the depression?

Because those times were not normal.

When European nations borrowed billions of dollars from America, they spent nearly all of it for American goods. And their urgent demand made prices high.

When our people were paid for their goods and their labor, they merely got back their own money—their savings. But they didn't realize this, and they spent the money freely and felt rich.

Then another melon was cut. While Europe's men were fighting, America captured the markets of the world. When the war was over, bankrupt Europe needed vast quantities of goods and asked for credit.

America built up a great foreign trade by selling on time and by lending customers the money to pay for their purchases.

Again our people were merely receiving back their own money, but again they failed to realize what they were doing and felt rich because they had so much to spend.

The third melon was home-grown. Because times were "good" and bonds easy to sell, every State and county and town and school district bonded itself to build improvements. Rich people bought the bonds; money flowed in; and nobody cared about the price of material, for the money was easy to get.

This time the people were spending their future earnings, but they didn't realize it.

When the bubble burst, America had spent her savings and mortgaged her future; and the tremendous and inescapable burden of taxation necessary to pay interest and retire the bonds will bend the backs of generations yet unborn.

That's the reason we can't go back to the "normal" times of 1929.

But why can't we go back to the truly normal times of prewar days?

Because of machinery and the "quantity production" it makes possible.

At the height of the boom there were three million jobless men. If the depression should end tomorrow, millions of the ten million now jobless would be idle still. And their number would grow every year.

The solution may be found in shorter hours, shorter weeks and limited production—on the farm as elsewhere.

But the old times can't return; and good times will not come until the solution is found.

POLITICAL COMMENT

When the Democrats "Take Over."

Kansas City Star.

Party responsibility will be almost complete when the Democrats take over the national government on March 4. The Democratic President will have back of him strong majorities in both houses. In his desire to get the best views, and largest cooperation between the national and the State governments, Mr. Roosevelt has called a conference of governors for March 6. He has given the governors a general program which he expects them to study before they reach Washington and to discuss after they arrive. Of the governors, thirty-nine are Democrats. If the governors in the coming administration are to form a sort of advisory cabinet, the big majority of them will be in political accord with the administration.

Thus party responsibility is given an extraordinary spread. Perhaps it is well that it is so. Great economic problems that have confronted the country for the last three years will remain unsolved when the new administration begins.

Tax-Exempt Securities.

An increase in income tax rates is expected to be ordered by the new Congress. Other taxes will be levied, no doubt. Older sources of taxes are drying up, we are told. But there is one source that is not being touched, and which would yield handsomely. We refer to tax-exempt securities. Most of that type of security is gilt-edge. Owners suffer no diminution of income from it.

Senators Ashurst, of Arizona, and Hull, of Tennessee, are urging that the field of tax-exempt securities be entered. The former proposes an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the issuance of such securities. The latter suggests that the amendment be retroactive, so as to provide that the proposed tax should apply to securities issued tax free without authority of law.

The country is not to be deprived of the pleasure of reading the Maine barometer. There will be a September election in the Pine Tree State in 1934, and perhaps in many other years to come. Two years hence the Roosevelt Administration will be midway of the Presidential term. The strength of its hold upon the electorate will be judged by the results of the congressional elections. The September returns from Maine will be awaited with keen interest. There will be the usual discussion whether or not they reflect the sentiment of the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Republicans Must Make Their Party Republican if It Is to Come Back. Throw Renegades Out!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently the Public Ledger said that the strength of the Republican party of the future lies in a younger generation than those leaders who went down in defeat in November.

Now I submit that it is not "younger blood," but more common sense that is needed to rebuild the Republican party, if that party would win in 1934 or 1936. As long as the genuine Republicans permit those so-called or renegade Republicans to stay in the party, just so long will the Republican party suffer defeat at the polls.

In the past, or practically ever since the Civil War, the rank and file of the people of this country have had the utmost confidence in the ability of the Republican party to administer the affairs of the Nation for the best interests of all the people.

Consequently, if the Republicans expect, or even hope, that the people shall continue to have the same confidence in their party in the future, they must not only remember Mr. Coolidge for what he did, but also for what he said.

Did Mr. Coolidge ever cater to those so-called or progressive Republicans? Of course not. Neither did Mr. Coolidge appoint Democrats or so-called progressives to places in his Cabinet, or to other important positions. It is high time the Republican party were awake to the simple truth that if it desires to succeed in the future and again become the majority party, it will have to weed out those renegade Republicans, and the sooner they do it the better it will be for the Republican party, and the Nation. Not only the Republican party, but especially the young generation would do well to follow the teaching and the example of Calvin Coolidge.

Finally, every sane person knows that it was not their age that caused the defeat of such stalwart and able Republicans as Senators Watson, Smoot, Bingham or Moses, nor even President Hoover last November. It was a change for a change, and any old change at that.

A. SIDNEY JOHNSTON.

Does Not Agree That Flogging in School Is Good for Character Building.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A letter signed "Teacher" in a recent Post favors a return to the thrashing of schoolboys as a character corrective. It says that "lawlessness is encouraged by the prohibition of corporal punishment in the public schools."

Even in the home punishment should be avoided as far as possible, and may do more harm than good if administered in such a way as to seem unfair to a sensitive child. Delegating it to teachers is therefore unsafe, since teachers, even to a greater extent than parents, may at times, giving way to bad temper or lacking common sense, punish unfairly.

The extent of crime in any generation, either more or less, depends on how the children of the preceding generation were brought up, the example set them by their elders, and especially by their parents and teachers, being of first importance. If grown-ups tolerate as a matter of course an undue presentation of crime and glorifying of criminals on the stage, so will the younger generation. Even the sincere casuistry of a mature mind may be misleading, and although a parent is conscientiously opposed to blue laws he will do well to consider whether the serving of bootleg cocktails in the home will weaken a boy's respect for the law in general.

In view of such examples as these, schoolboy floggings as a preventive of crime do not seem very important. And as a matter of psychology it may be that they would work out contrary to the expectations of any who advocate the restoration of corporal punishment in the schools. As soon as it became a part of school discipline the children as a general thing would look on it merely as an unpleasant incident in the pursuit of knowledge. But in the case of the really bad boy the effect of corporal punishment would be, as it always has been, hardening. To stand up under a severe trouncing, no matter how well deserved, would fill him with resentment and make him in his own mind a hero. Should he have an inherent tendency in opposition to social restraints it would be encouraged.

Soviet Trying to Use Recognition as Aid in Communizing the World.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is stated that 450 ministers of the Gospel and 180 presidents and professors in our colleges are requesting President-elect Roosevelt to recognize Soviet Russia. Can it be possible that these gentlemen are unaware of what that opens the way for in America?

The underlying purpose of Soviet Russia is to communize the entire world, having Moscow as headquarters. To get standing room in America, as recognition would offer them, would enable them to spread their propaganda, unhindered, which with a free hand is to work the overthrow of this government, by force and violence, if necessary, including assassination where deemed necessary. When Soviet rule is established our American women would be nationalized, our homes destroyed, all our social institutions debauched, churches destroyed and the heritage of our fathers, now so precious, forever lost. Can we afford to pay so heavily to satisfy a theory that has always failed when reduced to practice? Brethren of the cloth, of cap and gown, wake up! You are sleeping on your backs—dreaming!

PLEURISY.

ONE of our correspondents wants to know about pleurisy, how it is related to tuberculosis, why it causes pain at times and at other times is painless, why cure is so slow in coming about.

The name comes from the pleura, the membrane which covers the lungs and lines the chest. This is a very simple membrane, both anatomically and physiologically. It is one of those roller bearing structures, membranes that justify their existence by supplying easy, frictionless, gliding surfaces.

The pleura has no special chemistry—no chemical work to do, no complicated architecture, no peculiar mechanical task—a few fibers covered by a few cells and borrowing a few blood and lymph vessels and nerves from the lungs and the chest wall. With this statement of facts we can understand why the pleura has no diseases except some that it takes on from its neighbors. Since one of those neighbors is the lung and that organ is very prone to infection it follows that such diseases as the pleura has are infections that reach it by way of the lungs.

Tuberculosis and pneumonia are two infections which are apt to spread from the lungs. The infecting microbes usually responsible for pleurisy are the tubercle bacillus, the pneumococcus, and the pus bacteria.

One kind of tubercular pleurisy is that which causes the chest to fill up with watery fluid that is not pus and which causes but few other symptoms. Tuberculosis of the lungs is very apt to cause this kind of pleurisy, or that is the common opinion. A better opinion is that the lungs are infected with tuberculosis before the disease appears in the pleura. It is somewhat latent in the lungs, at least temporarily.

Another kind of tubercular pleurisy is that which develops in the progress of a case of chronic consumption and as a complication thereof. The fluid drawn from a tubercular pleurisy is usually watery. Pleurisy may develop in the course of a pneumonia, or it may follow it, causing a delayed convalescence. The fluid in a pleurisy which follows pneumonia is apt to be purulent.

The element of pain is variable for the following reason: If the two inflamed surfaces of a diseased pleura are rubbing against each other breathing causes a pain in the side. If the pleural cavity has filled with fluid and the inflamed surfaces do not rub there may not be pain.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

WHEN Mrs. E. J. T wrote the note, part of which was published in my column yesterday, I am sure she little suspected how much it would start. I have given the subject much thought. I have looked into statistics to see whether sales of beauty preparations have dropped off very much during the last two or three years and I find that they have more than held their own during an era of depression when even sales of household necessities have suffered. So important a part does beauty play in the scheme of things that the average woman prefers to sacrifice other items on her personal budget rather than give up beauty. And while hundreds of thousands of women have at some time or other attempted to compound their toiletries at home, only a small portion of these women continue to mix and use these home-made formulas.

But the problem of economy can not be settled with a wave of the hand. The efficient budget aims for the best at the least possible cost. Women are learning to choose wisely those essentials which actually help, answer their requirements and leave them that feeling of luxury that in itself is a youthifier.

A Wrinkle Oil and Skin Softener.

Some time ago I discovered something which proves that necessity makes for ingenuity. Two little blackheads found their way to my chin recently, while Westward bound, and traveling light as I usually do, I had no blackhead lotion or similar skin softener handy. But I did have a small bottle of my favorite wrinkle oil. After cleansing the skin, I dipped a pad of cotton into quite hot water and held the cotton over the blackheads for a few minutes.

Then I applied a bit of the oil over the blackheads and left it on for a few minutes. The skin was softened so readily that the blackheads were easily squeezed with the fingertips, covered with tissues, of course. To close the pores I squeezed a fresh pad of cotton out of cold water, moistened it with skin tonic and patted for several minutes. So "yours truly" will practice a little economy, too, and hereafter the wrinkle oil is a blackhead softener, too.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

"HOW lovely to be tall!" sighs the little woman who is always treated as a child, whose consuming passion is to be statuesque and to command a room by just sweeping into it, who is never taken seriously, who can't wear the latest styles, &c., &c. (according to her.)

But the tall woman has another story to tell. She says that a tall woman is, and must be, an unnatural woman! She says that a tall woman can never throw back her head and laugh heartily, can never run nor even hurry, can never make the slightest awkward movement with body or head, hands or feet—without all of her gestures being horridly magnified and consequently caricatured.

Perhaps this is indeed well for the few, very few, tall women who are born indolent and slow moving—but characteristically, they aren't—usually. Hence, the tall woman who is considered a beauty and considered a graceful and gracious woman—is really ten times more so than a smaller woman—and to be admired ten times more than any other woman for having merely achieved what smaller women are born to.

Yet I will say that whatever the plaints of taller women, they and they alone are enabled, by their stature, to be truly beautiful and commandingly lovely. It would even seem that styles were especially designed for tall women; they display them so advantageously.

A whole, big, comfy, large pantaloned pyjama, bindings and belt and everything—from less than 3 yards of material! And of two differently colored remnants, too—yours for the finding of the remnants and the sending of a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. We just thought it would be fun to make two and three color pajamas, and it was and we did—the least expensive one, a house pyjama that couldn't be seen through and would wash and was chic and comfortable—costing 23 cents!

Au revoir!

What Today Means

"PISCES."

IF February 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:50 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

You may find yourself in the position on this date of having to make a choice between two or more desirable friends. Personal relationships will tend to get into tangles, tangles that are not easily unsnarled. If you have been contemplating a change of domicile, February 22 would seem a good time to locate a new one.

The child born on this February 22, will have a tendency to pick up annoying mannerisms and to be quite affected in its speech. The child will lack sincerity.

If February 22 is the date of your birth, you should have a rather brilliant career of some kind. Yours is a strong character, and you have many fine qualities, but you will find yourself greatly hampered by the advice, suggestions and criticisms of your friends and family. You must learn to think directly and clearly for yourself, and to make your own decisions.

Successful people born on February 22:

George Washington, "The First American."

James Russell Lowell, poet.

Alpheus B. Crosby, surgeon and educator.

Nathaniel L. Shaler, geologist and paleontologist.

Gen. Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts.

Samuel J. R. McMillan, senator and jurist.

Finds Star-Spangled Wall Paper and the Mount Vernon Motif in Honor of the Day—and a Parade of Democratic Donkeys.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Blue and silver wallpapers, patterned in stars, appropriately should lead the findings of the Meanderer for today. Decorators have used such papers in colonial interiors with pleasing effects. Scenic motifs of Mount Vernon, used on wall papers, also, should be pleasing in homes in early American feeling. The Meanderer saw these interesting, patriotic papers displayed in a wall paper shop on E street.

The parade of Democratic donkeys, we hasten to say, was not on the street. It took place this morning in a baker's window on F street. The donkeys are large cookies, honey and spice flavored, and sell for ten cents each.

Inaugural guests are causing Washington housewives to plan for meals that may be cooked and served quickly, in order to allow all time possible for festivities. The Meanderer offers the guest-visited housewives this suggestion from a farm-to-home market on upper Wisconsin avenue, which is open all day today: Chicken already cut for use in chicken al la king, selling for 40 cents a pint. The crisp little pastry rosettes for serving chicken a la king sell in this same market three for ten cents. Or, if you'd make the rosettes in your home kitchen, the Meanderer knows where you may buy the iron for making the rosettes for 35 cents.

Whole roast squabs are stuffed with celery, carrots, onion, bay leaf and lemon peel, and are ready to use as they come from the can in a grocer's place on busy Fourteenth street, which has served Washington for many years. The squabs are packed in a wine-flavored sauce. Add these squabs to the list of easy-to-prepare foods for the busy inaugural season.

An old evening dress, preferably black, may be made to serve as two costumes if the shopper cares to indulge in "smart economies," as a current magazine of mode calls such careful purchases. The "smart economies" in this case would be the purchase of two of the perky jackets now sold separately from evening gowns, for freshening gowns already in the wardrobe. The Meanderer suggests two jackets—one fluffy, the other tailored. Either may be worn for evening affairs. One authoritative stylist assured the Meanderer that it was entirely proper to wear a jacket of pique—yes, cotton pique!—with an evening dress. The pique one, then, and a ruffled white mousseline de soie jacket, you may readily see, will quickly make the versatile effects. The mousseline de soie in the fluffy effect sells in an F street department store's third floor evening dress salon for $7.50, while the cotton pique or dimpler styles sells for much less in the same store's first-floor neckwear department.

More on the subject of prepared foods: Homemade chicken noodle soup, vegetable soup, homemade ice cream, cooked chicken, hominy, beans, scrapple pudding, date nut bread and all kinds of rolls are selling today in a farm woman's market. Sausage and other pork, beef, veal and eggs are also available in this market.

THE STUDY OF END-PLAYS.

IT generally takes a player anywhere from two to three years to master the subject of end-plays. Squeezes are particularly difficult, and it is rare, indeed, that a player is found who can execute a play of this kind without a great deal of practice.

One of my secretaries, Miss Marie Brady, has only taken up the game of Bridge in the last year. In a recent Teachers' Convention, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria, she was called upon to substitute for one of the players who was anxious to get home. Playing four hands, she became the Declarer on only one. This proved to be an extremely delicate squeeze, and Miss Brady, remembering the various situations which she had seen in the course of her short career, proceeded to find the play and score an unquestioned top on the board.

Neither side vulnerable.

Miss Brady

The bidding:

South	North
2NT	3NT
Pass

The Opening lead was the fourth-best heart. Miss Brady allowed East's Queen to hold the trick. A spade return at this point would be the only way to defeat the contract. East finally elected to lead a diamond. This was won with the Queen in Dummy and the closed hand reentered with the King of clubs. Two rounds of diamonds disclosed the fact that this suit did not break, so the next play was the club finesse, which held. The Ace of clubs dropped the Queen, and now Miss Brady, after considerable reflection, discovered the crucial play. She laid down the Ace of hearts and then returned to her own hand with the club 9. East was squeezed immediately, being forced to come down to two spades in order to protect his diamond holding. The Knave of diamonds lead now squeezed West, who was also obliged to come down to two spades in order to protect his Knave of hearts. The last 3 tricks were won with the 8 spades in Dummy.

This hand is one which might well have been played by one of the experts. I suppose I might take some credit for Miss Brady's development as a Bridge player, but, unfortunately, I am unable to do this, as I have never played with her. However, this hand shows that she should soon graduate to a position among the highest ranking players.

FUND FOR AIR MAIL IS VOTED BY HOUSE

Radical Changes in Payment of Operators Proposed by Committee.

(Associated Press.)

A House committee yesterday outlined a new formula for the operation of air mail without millions from the Treasury while the House itself again voted $19,000,000 to help the service through the next fiscal year.

In so doing, it approved a section of the conference report on the $960,000,000 Treasury-Postoffice bill. The Senate, which voted to strike out the $19,000,000, has yet to pass on it, but the agreement by the conferees to restore the fund is depended upon to put an end to the yearly tilt on air mail subsidies. About $9,500,000 of the total is direct subsidy.

The House Postoffice Committee, headed by Representative Mead (Democrat), New York, favored retention of subsidies until the recommendations it made can be tried out.

Radical Changes Proposed.

Among them were suggestions for radical changes in the methods of paying air mail operators. At present, the Postoffice Department makes contracts with the operators on the basis of mail carrying space in the planes and the number of miles flown.

"It is the belief of your committee that a complete change in the method of payments to contractors must be made in the interests of justice and economy," the comimittee report to the House said, as a prelude to urging establishment of a basic rate fixed on the pounds of mail carried and the number of miles flown.

Two types of new contracts were urged. One would be based on the actual amount of mail carried and would be paid for from revenues received. The other provides a subsidy mail payment for certain lines not to exceed 25 cents per airplane mile. This would be discontinued after June 30, 1939, the theory being that lines not self sustaining by that time should be abandoned.

Postage Cut Urged.

The report, the result of a long investigation by the committee, also advocated that air mail postage be reduced from 6 to 5 cents a half ounce; that 2-cent air mail postcards should be authorized; that rate-making power be taken from the Postoffice Department and that the Government control air mail holding companies.

Mead said there was little likelihood of House action at this session, but the report would be the basis for legislation to be pressed in the next Congress. Representative Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, has already introduced a bill to carry out committee recommendations.

Telephone Glee Club Heard at High School

Last night's meeting of the E. A. Paul Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association was in the nature of a "telephone evening," sponsored by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

A concert by the telephone company's glee club, under the direction of Robert Davidson, was the feature of the program. In addition, sound motion pictures of the telephone industry were shown. The affair was held in the auditorium of the school building, at Eighth and Ogiethorpe streets northwest.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK.—Probably due to that gullible look, the boys with the silly ideas always seem to beckon to me as their victim.

Strolling along Central Park South recently, I was stopped by a seedy-looking individual carrying a handbag. At his heels was a small dog with a plaintive, eager look on his mutt face.

Without saying a word, the fellow placed the bag on the sidewalk, opened it, and out jumped a black cat. Immediately the dog and cat began chasing each other in a circle until the onlookers were so dizzy they couldn't decide whether the dog was chasing the cat or the cat chasing the dog.

The fellow then opened the bag, and back into it jumped the cat. The show was over. Looking up, the fellow merely said: "Isn't that worth a quarter?"

It was. Anything so goofy and senseless in these brain-weary days of technocracy is worth a quarter.

Sour Notes.

Oscar Levant, the pianist, was hemmed in a corner by one of these talkative pests who seem to pop up on all parties. The pest kept blab-blabbing away until Levant was seriously considering if he couldn't get a jiu-jitsu hold and toss his annoyer out of the window.

Finally he quashed him with the suggestion that they play a new game. "This is the way it goes," Levant explained. "You leave the party and don't let us know where you're going. Then we'll all try to find you next week some time. It's lots of fun."

Some time later Levant was explaining why he was so tolerant of one of those dumb lasses who dote upon hero-worshiping.

"Of course, she asked a thousand silly questions," he admitted. "But, you see, I have an inferiority complex, and any one like that who will pay so much attention to me—well, I just feel sympathetic."

Gentle Riddance.

Tallulah Bankhead is indeed an artful professor when it comes to ridding herself of these parlor intruders. Usually she is very courteous to such annoyers, but there are times when she eliminates them with a facility that leaves them gasping.

A well-known dramatist, known for his boring conversations, called upon her and remained for hours. All hints that he should take his leave were ignored.

Finally Miss Bankhead excused herself, went to the telephone in the next room and called the hotel management, requesting that she be transferred to another suite on a higher floor.

Porters immediately descended on the apartment and quickly transferred her belongings to the new suite. The dramatist, sitting in the drawing room, waited and waited for her return, but she didn't.

Finally a bell boy came in and announced to him, "I'm sorry, but Miss Bankhead has moved and left no forwarding address."

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: You are sweet about writing me so often and you don't know what a difference it makes. We are generally together in a group in somebody's room when the bellboy (they must get an eyeful with all these pretty pajamaed girls) brings up the air mail. Then we all fall silently to reading, after which everybody tells everybody else everything about her affairs, the one thing we have all resolved earnestly not to do before leaving the East. It seems impossible to be cooped up so intimately with people and not talk—especially as there is very little else to do. There are a number of rich older men in the hotel and I notice that they fall to "confiding," too. Cut off from all business activities and from golf and tennis on account of the snow, there is nothing to do but pace the lobby or visit in the rooms. You would recognize the names of these men, as they represent some of the largest American industries—mostly foods and machines and public utilities corporations. And yet their money can't get them out of this matrimonial jail until their terms are served. The more important the case and the larger the settlement the less chance of an escape to California for a few days. The lawyers are very particular about keeping their clients in Washoe County. For instance, the only way I could go down to Los Angeles would be to leave here on my last Thursday night at 10:30 on a train which does not pass out of this county until after midnight (if you are in the county for one minute it counts for that day). Then I would arrive Friday morning in Los Angeles (my nineteenth day) and I could stay Friday, Saturday and Sunday, leaving there Sunday night and arriving here Monday morning, in that way losing no time. Of course, that is because I arrived here on a Saturday. Those who arrive on a Tuesday have a whole week to squander after the 90 days are served, as the cases are only tried on Mondays. A resident witness accompanies you to court to prove you have been in the county for 42 consecutive days. Lots of people offer to do this for you, including the hotel proprietor. They never mention money to you, but it is customary to pay your witness $10. ELIZABETH.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT seemed to us that almost everyone of consequence had been bagged by the commercial broadcasters, but yesterday word reached here that Gen. John J. Pershing is to go before the microphone for thirteen weekly appearances.

The general, if reports from New York are true, will be the central figure in the dramatization of incidents from his life and war experiences.

His sponsor is understood to be General Tires & Rubber Co. Nothing is said about the compensation but it is certain to be at least $5,000 a week—very likely more. This would mean a minimum of $65,000 for the series.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been reported to be receiving $5,000 for each of her weekly talks. Will Rogers, Ed Wynn, and some of the theatrical stars are supposed to get $7,500 a performance. Sir Harry Lauder is said to have been paid $15,000 for a broadcast, but whether this was real or stage money was not stated.

The first Pershing broadcast is scheduled for March 15 and is to be carried over a 65-station network.

RICHARD WAGNER'S "Tannhauser," the fifth of the six operas in the Metropolitan Opera Annual Wagner Matinee Cycle, will be broadcast over WRC, beginning at 1:45 o'clock today.

Artur Bodansky will conduct the opera, which will be sung in German. The cast will be as follows:

Landgraf Hermann, Siegfried Tappolet.
Tannhauser, Lauritz Melchior.
Wolfram, a friend, Friedrich Schorr.
Biteroff, a knight, Arnold Gabor.
Heinrich, a scribe, Giordano Paltrinieri.
Reinmar, a knight, James Wolfe.
Elisabeth, Elisabeth Rethberg.
Venus, Maria Olszewska.
A young shepherd, Aida Doninelli.

Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, is at work on a communications bill which he expects to submit to the new Congress shortly after it meets.

Radio, telephone, telegraph and cable—but not power—will be regulated by a commission composed of three members if Senator Dill's proposal is acceptable to the Congress. President-elect Roosevelt is said to be definitely committed to such a commission.

A CONCERT which George Washington attended in Philadelphia on June 12, 1787, will be reproduced over WRC as one of a number of programs paying tribute to the memory of the first President.

Rupert Hughes, novelist and biographer of Washington, will speak during the program. Hughes will discuss "Washington's Message to Our Day."

According to Washington's diary, he attended the concert, given by Alexander Reinagle, and an article in the Pennsylvania Packet of June 4, 1787, gave the program. This included an overture by Johann Christian Bach, the overture to "La Buona Figliuola," by Puccini, and a sonata by Reinagle, manuscript of which has been found in the Library of Congress.

The concert will be played with the same orchestration and instrumentation used in the concert attended by Gen. Washington.

A George Washington Birthday celebration under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution will be broadcast over WRC and WJSV at 10:30 a. m. The program will include greetings by the Ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Poland, Argentina and Germany; an address by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone and music by the United States Marine Band.

How does a radio novice react to an initial broadcast? Well, here's how one, who has since become a Nationwide favorite, felt. Jessica Dragonette speaking: "I was not thrilled at my first microphone appearance. I didn't like it at all. I experienced great nervousness and was conscious of an immense distraction. The silence, the lack of applause after the performance, appalled me. I wanted to run away and never come back."

"A NIGHT IN OLD PARIS," a new one-act opera by Henry Hadley, American composer and conductor, will have its premiere under the baton of the composer over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight.

Another composition by Dr. Hadley, a tone poem for orchestra, "The Ocean," also will have its radio premiere in this concert.

Rose Chanelle, accompanied by Sidney's Orchestra, will be heard singing "Oh, Donna Clara," "Just an Echo in the Valley," "You're Charming" and "The Moon Is Low," during the Wakefield program over WRC at 7:30 o'clock.

Wamp Carlson, of Jesters, refuses to heed his friends' advice to reduce. Wamp claims he is not really as fat as he appears. In the studio recently he proved his claim.

One hip was suddenly reduced to normal as he took from his back pocket a queer shaped musical instrument called the "Wampus." The other hip lost its puffiness when he pulled out a handful of harmonicas.

His chest lost it rotundity as he drew from his pockets clusters of sleighbells, boxes of matches, bunches of keys and other queer things that he uses before the microphone to make some of the original musical effects for which he is famous.

"THE Attitude of Publishers on Radio Broadcasting" will be discussed by E. H. Harris, of Richmond, Ind., chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association Radio Committee, at the meeting of the Inland Daily Press Association, to be held in Chicago today.

Favorite selections of George Washington will be included in the program presented by the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs. A "Minuet" often danced before Gen. Washington will be played by Winifred Lakeman. A soprano solo, "The Wayworn Traveler," said to have been sung for him often by Nellie Custis, will be revived.

Our Lady of Victory Church Party Tonight

The first annual affair to be given by the Rev. Andrew H. Mihm, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Victory, is to be held in St. Paul's auditorium, 1421 V street northwest, tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

A ticket will entitle the holder to enjoy either one of the following three entertainments, dancing in the upper hall, with music; in the lower hall a bridge party, and a large bingo game. As an added attraction there will be a lunch table, featuring ten cents for any article to eat or drink.

Public Library Observes Washington's Birthday

The central building of the Public Library at Eighth and K streets and all branches and subbranches will be closed all day today, Washington's birthday, according to an announcement made by Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian.

The library and all its agencies will also be closed on inauguration day, Saturday, March 4.

Arts Body to Consider Elimination of Bridge

The Fine Arts Commission will consider the elimination of the proposed bridge across B street southwest linking two Department of Agriculture buildings at its meeting at New York tomorrow.

The development of the entrance to Arlington National Cemetery from the Arlington Memorial Bridge will also be discussed.

Hoover to Lay Justice Corner Stone Tomorrow

The corner stone of the new Department of Justice Building will be laid at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow by President Hoover.

He and Attorney General William D. Mitchell will speak briefly.

Bob White

The Old Philosopher

SAYS:

Question: Do you think, in view of recent activities such as occurred at Miami last week, we should restrict entrance into our country of certain nationals?

Answer: Sooner or later America will have to review her immigration policy. What happened last week is not indicative that our immigration laws are at fault. A fanatic is in no wise typical of a people as a whole, and restriction against them as you suggest would be unjust and not in keeping with the broad policy of America. I do say, however, that the day is not far distant when we shall be called upon to clamp down our gates against an influx of nationals whose spirit is foreign to the principles upon which this Republic is set. The understanding and appreciation of our Constitution should be insisted upon and rightly interpreted by our consuls in the countries from which our flow of immigration comes. If this is done, fewer scallywags, whose sole ideal is the overthrow of power, would not find a welcome within our gates. "America for the Americans" is not a battle cry—it is a safe and sound policy of protection. When I say Americans, I mean those whose spirit is akin to the ideals of our Government.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL, at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Stocks' Attempts to Rally End in Fractional Losses

Rails Offer Good Front in Light Turnover of 692,160 Shares.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Trends were mixed in the financial markets today. Stocks closed slightly lower after a few attempts at a preholiday rally.

Rails offered the best front in the share market, bolstered by reports of larger loadings last week and Union Pacific's 1932 earnings statement. Tobacco equities rallied on estimates of better sales since the last cigarette price cut. Aviation stocks also fluttered upward, perhaps because speculators thought Far Eastern military operations would stimulate business. But the rank and file failed to wax enthusiastic and prices tapered off in the final dealings. Sales totaled 692,160 shares.

The average net loss was fractional, though some individual issues ran out of line. American Telephone did not like the dividend cut by its New England subsidiary, losing a point net despite later declaration of a regular by the Illinois company. American Can was still heavy, also off a point, while Air Reduction sagged 2. A number of preferred stocks yielded several points. Nominal declines appeared for General Electric, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Canadian Pacific, Consolidated Gas and North American. U. S. Steel and New York Central were steady, while Liggett & Myers "B," McKeesport, Safeway and Homestake showed plus signs of a point.

Markets, which have had an eye on the banking situation in Michigan for the past week, were closed when Gov. Comstock's new proclamation, permitting limited withdrawals beginning Thursday, reached Wall street. Bankers here have expressed satisfaction over the progress of affairs in that State since the holiday was invoked. Reflections here have been seen in slightly firmer money markets and selling of Government securities incident to demands for cash there.

News during market hours featured several earnings reports and dividend actions, the latter including regular disbursements by Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and Chesapeake Corporation. Reduction of the New England telephone rate was viewed in some quarters as having a possible bearing on American Telephone's future policy, because there have been few cuts in payments to the parent company by Bell system subsidiaries. Statisticians figured this revision affected American Telephone's earnings to the extent of about ten cents a share, on an annual basis.

CURB'S TONE STEADY IN FACE OF SELLING

Utilities Hold Firm While Sales Volume Mounts to 110,000 Shares.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The curb market maintained a fairly steady tone today, in the face of scattering selling. The turnover of 110,000 shares was slightly larger than yesterday's.

Utilities were firm in spots for a time, American Gas & Electric rising 1¼, and Electric Bond & Share ½, but these advances were lost before the close. A number of low-priced preferred shares in this group were sold. Among higher priced issues, there was a small turnover in Philadelphia Electric preferred at 102, up 4¾ per cent since it last appeared here, and a new 1932-33 high.

In investment trusts, Atlas Corporation common sagged a shade, as the annual report showed it was selling close to its asset value as of December 31, but the preferred gained more than a point. Trading in the gold mining issues slackened, and Lake Shore sagged 1½. Oils continued to hold to an extremely narrow range.

In the industrials, Axton Fisher declined 4½, to 31, or within a point of last year's low. Stock of this company, a leading maker of 10-cent cigarettes, touched a high of 75, as its production gained sharply last year, but recent cigarette price cuts by the "Big Four" companies is now offering keener competition. Most changes in the industrial division were negligible, and trading light. Stutz and U. S. Playing Card each lost a point. Among chain store issues, Great Atlantic & Pacific traded at 130, off 5.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Continental and Far Eastern news caused dullness on the Stock Exchange and weakened Chinese, Japanese and German bonds. Transatlantic issues and industrials were affected by realising but gold mining shares and British government securities hardened. The closing was irregular.

Paris—The tone of the bourse was lower, influenced by unfavorable American advices and preliquidation selling. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were irregular and the market closed weak.

American Economic System Stands Strain, Mellon Says

London, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—America's economic system "shows such inherent strength that it continues to function efficiently in the face of the greatest maladjustment the world has ever known," Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon said in a farewell speech tonight at a Pilgrims Club dinner.

"There is no lack of production and the processes of distribution continue to operate as usual, notwithstanding unemployment and reduced buying power," Mr. Mellon told the distinguished Anglo-American gathering.

"In spite of defects in our overindividualized banking system the financial structure has stood the strain remarkably well.

"The burden of debt, both governmental and private, is very heavy and has cut deeply into our purchasing power, which must be in the future as it has been in the past, the real basis of our national prosperity. Debt, however, has a way of liquidating itself in time, either by repayment or by voluntary or involuntary composition so that the nation is not in danger of financial disaster merely because it owes itself money.

"Debts owed outside a country may indeed present difficulties, but there are too many ways of meeting domestic debts for them ever to be completely destructive of the financial structure.

"The real problem in America is adjustment to the shifts in economic power which the World War brought about. Before 1914 the United States was a debtor nation, sending annually large sums to Europe in payment of our obligations here. Four years later the situation was reversed with a completeness and rapidity such as the world never had witnessed before.

"Such a change was bound to set up maladjustment both in America and Europe and it will take time, I fear, and patience and more than one conference, perhaps, to adjust ourselves to this and other changes which the war left in its wake.

"We are, however, making progress and much history has been made in the past twelve months. The world which never stands still has gone forward. What next year holds for us I do not know, but I have the faith to believe that some solution for our most pressing problems can and will be found."

Kansas Grain Body May Get Assistance

Farmers' Association Waits on Receiver's Putting Affairs Straight.

Chicago, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—George S. Milnor, head of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, said today the corporation was "standing by and ready to lend a helping hand" to the Kansas Cooperative Wheat Marketing Association. "We have no plans for purchasing the association now in receivership until the receivers straighten out its affairs," Milnor said.

"When the receiver has things in shape, it is possible the association may have assets we would be glad to take over. The Kansas Cooperative is a producer-owned organization and the Farmers National, of course, is always glad to help the producers. However, we can make no commitments regarding purchase until the affairs have been cleared up."

Mr. Milnor said he understood the Kansas Cooperative went into friendly receivership "with a view toward getting itself in shape for possible sale to the Farmers National." He did not know, Mr. Milnor said, the amount owed by the Kansas association to the Federal Farm Board.

BONDS LOSE BATTLE TO RECORD ADVANCE

Declines Slow Up as Sales Drop in Volume to $12,712,000.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Efforts to stem the ebbing tide in the bond market generally were unsuccessful today, although losses were not quite so pronounced as in the previous session and the trading volume tended to dwindle.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off half a point at 67, a new 1933 low. Sales totaled $12,712,000, par value.

While various scattered issues rallied, there were numerous losses of 1 to 3 or more points in both the highest grade and semispeculative groups. United States Government securities again were under pressure with declines reaching 27/32nds of a point. The majority of foreign obligations, especially those of Japan, were soft.

The market apparently reflected uncertainties surrounding outlying banking problems, new Treasury financing plans and European and Oriental difficulties. Wide gaps between bids and offers were especially noticeable and many traders were inclined to withdraw to the sidelines.

Moderate recoveries were retained by some loans of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Burlington, Consolidated Gas, Cincinnati Union Terminal, Duquesne Light, Interborough Rapid Transit, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Portland General Electric, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Southern Railway and others. United Drug 5s, off 7¼ yesterday, got back 1½ points, while Havana Electric 5s gained 6.

The principal losers included issues of American I. G. Chemical, American Telephone, Brooklyn Edison, Buffalo General Electric, Central Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Colorado & Southern, Chile Copper, Cincinnati Gas, Columbia Gas, Denver & Rio Grande, Goodrich, International Paper, Metropolitan, Edison, M-K-T, New Jersey Power, Norfolk & Western, North American Edison, Pennsylvania Railroad, Reading, Southern Pacific, Texas Corporation, Texas & Pacific, Union Pacific, U. S. Rubber, Wabash, and Western Union.

German government 5½s were the heaviest traded of the foreign division for a gain of ½ of a point. Most German state, municipal and corporate bonds, however, were heavy. Japanese government 5½s and 6½s lost 2 points each and various Tokyo issues were down more than 3 points. French 7½s dropped 1¼ points and a soft tone was shown by loans of Argentina, Colombia, Norway and New South Wales. The Australians, Belgians and Canadians firmed.

Dun's and Bradstreet's Plan to Merge Agencies

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a merger of R. G. Dun & Co. and Bradstreet's, leading mercantile credit rating agencies, are in progress, it was learned today.

The consolidation, if approved, becomes effective on March 1, it is understood. It is expected that Arthur D. Whiteside, president of the Dun Co., will head the new organization.

Both companies have been in existence for nearly a century. Dun's has nearly 200 branches in the United States and Canada, and the Bradstreet Agency about 175.

COTTON RALLY GIVES WAY TO SALES LOSS

May Sells at 6.10 as General Market Drops 5 to 8 Points.

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Except for further near-month liquidation and evening-up of commitments for the holiday, trading in cotton was quiet today and fluctuations narrow.

A slight opening advance on trade buying promoted by fairly steady Liverpool cables was followed by declines under a little Southern selling and scattering liquidation, with May easing off from 6.19 to 6.10 and closing at that figure. The final tone was barely steady at net losses of 5 to 8 points.

The opening was unchanged to 3 points higher in response to Liverpool, which firmed from early declines.

Houses with European and Far Eastern connections had a few buying orders. Demand was supplied by preholiday realizing or liquidation and prices eased in the late trading. March sold off to 5.95 and July to 6.23 and closing quotations were at the lows.

There was some Southern selling at the start and near the close with Thursday the first March notice day here, liquidation of that contract was active at times, but was absorbed by the grade against sales of later deliveries at about the recent differences. Considerable switching was reported from March to later deliveries.

Liverpool cables reported a small market with Bombay selling taken by trade calling and said there was rather a better tone in Manchester owing to a little more inquiry for cotton cloth from India and China. Exports today, 28,415, making 5,535,892 so far this season. Port receipts, 30,472. U. S. port stocks, 4,638,152.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON DAMAGE TO CROP

Dust Storms in West Lift Prices; Corn Is Up; Oats Unchanged.

Chicago, Feb. '21 (A.P.).—Kansas and Nebraska dust storms, reported as among the worst witnessed this year, did much to lift wheat almost a cent a bushel today.

For the first time of late, wheat price gains were unhampered by selling ascribed to United States Government-financed bodies. Announcement that war insurance rates to the Orient had been put into effect was construed as bullish.

Wheat closed firm, ⅛ to ¾ above yesterday's finish; corn, a shade to ¼ to ⅜ up; oats, unchanged, and provisions unchanged to 2 cents down.

Rains Are Needed.

Throughout wheat territory Southwest and West where rains were most needed to relieve drought, no moisture was indicated. Hutchinson, Kans., messages said the dust storms extended to the Colorado boundary. Market effects of such advices were heightened by crop deterioration reports also from east of the Mississippi, the Ohio Valley especially being prolific of complaints.

Evidence of a better export demand for wheat from North America contributed to strength of values. It was estimated 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been purchased today for overseas, including some for May shipment. There were also estimates Canada had sold more than 6,000,000 bushels for export in May. Aside from a brief period at the outset today, little attention was given to Liverpool assertions of heavy offerings of Argentine wheat abroad at sacrifice levels.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat price upturns. Rural offerings of corn to arrive were light.

(Associated Press.)

The United States maintained a favorable trade balance in January when its exports amounted to $120,000,000 and imports totaled $96,000,000, leaving a balance in favor of this country of $24,000,000.

Both exports and imports were lower than January of a year ago and less than in December. The United States also gained $212,000 in silver in January, exporting $1,581,000 and importing $1,763,000. The silver gain compared with $486,000,000 gain in January, 1932.

ARLINGTON SPEAKER URGES RENOVATION

Dr. Meyers Favors Adoption of Plan Similar to D. C. Bank Program.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The executive committee of the Rosslyn Precinct Civic League meeting last night at the home of the president, Dr. Victor Meyers, went on record as approving the renovation program for the District of Columbia as advocated by the bankers of the District and advocating such a program for Arlington County.

The president pointed out that the adoption of such a program for Arlington County would greatly relieve the unemployment situation and at the same time make it possible for home owners to improve their property. The committee proposes to present its action to the Arlington County Civic Federation at its March meeting and urge its adoption.

President Meyers stated that instead of $500,000, as is planned for the District, from $50,000 to $100,000 would take care of the situation in Arlington County.

County leaders, waiting only for Congress to pass the bill authorizing rights of way across Government property for a southern approach to Arlington Bridge, and thinking that at last the fight, lasting more than seven years, was a settled fact, received a blow yesterday when it was revealed that the Virginia State Highway Commission is already committed to the "northern approach" and that it probably will take an act of the General Assembly, which does not meet until next year, to change the route. The county board has already adopted the "southern route."

"The commission has not had a meeting recently," Col. H. G. Shirley says, and while it is possible that something may be worked out at the present time he does not know what the solution would be.

Despite the fact that the chairman of the State Highway Commission says that the commission is committed to the northern route, county officials claimed last night that while the commission has not gone on record that it would construct the southern route, they have every reason to be optimistic.

The Arlington County Kiwanis Club will feature its luncheon meeting today at Windsor Arms with a special musical program. The program will include marimba selections by Louis Colangelo, with Miss Pauline Schaub as accompanist, banjo selections by Louis Davis and violin duet by Misses Martha Davenport and Marjorie Wilson, with Miss Hanna Booth at the piano. The program will be presented under the direction of Henry Christiani.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of transporting alleged liquor, Clyde Mason was fined $50 yesterday in County Court and given a jail sentence of three months. An appeal was noted and he was later released on $500 bond. Pleading guilty to a like charge, C. C. Kirk was given a jail sentence of three months in addition to a fine of $50.

The American Legion Auxiliary Arlington Unit, No. 139, will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Hadley W. Baldwin, 1008 Wilson boulevard, at 8 o'clock.

Concluding a short business meeting there will be a special national defense program. Mrs. J. J. Lightfoot, of Washington, the principal speaker, will deliver an address on "National Defense." A musical program will be presented by Louis Colangelo and his orchestra consisting of seven children.

Ritchie May Support Coad In Maryland Budget Slash

St. Marys Senator Advocates Trimming State Expenses by $1,308,000 in Latest Pamphlet; Welcomes Governor to Ranks of Economy Army.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 21.—The first definite schedule of budget slashes to emerge from the welter of economy agitation was announced today by Senator J. Allen Coad (Democrat), of St. Marys, as it was learned unofficially that Gov. Albert C. Ritchie is planning to call a joint session to hear his proposals for further reductions.

Senator Coad's cuts, totaling $1,308,000, were announced in the latest of a series of pamphlets he has been circulating among other senators. He proposes, first, to introduce a graduated scale of pay cuts. Salaries up to $1,200 would be cut 10 per cent, $1,200 to $2,500, 15 per cent; $2,500 to $5,000, 20 per cent; over $5,000, 25 per cent. This, he estimates, would save $458,000.

He would cut supervisors and attendance officers from the school system for two years, with a saving of $97,000. Closing the Salisbury and Frostburg Normal Schools would save $85,000 more. Elimination of the appropriation for 25 State policemen would cut $90,000 from the budget. Elimination of the Chesapeake Bay ferry subsidies would save $48,000. The State aid to private colleges would be reduced 10 per cent, reducing the budget $35,000 more. Reducing the appropriation for the University of Maryland would cut $395,000 off, while a blanket cut of 10 per cent in the appropriations for various boards, bureaus and commissions would give a reduction of about $160,000.

Following several weeks of consultation with the heads of State departments, Gov. Ritchie today retired to the executive mansion with a handful of sharpened pencils and a copy of the budget. It was intimated that he would emerge in a few days with his own schedule of cuts, to be presented to a joint session of the Assembly.

Commenting on reports that the governor was prepared to take the lead in slashing his budget, Senator Coad said on the Senate floor today:

"I am pleased to see the governor has agreed to cooperate in making the necessary reductions in the budget he has prepared. The governor and Kirkman (Walter Kirkman, director of the budget) can do more in one day to reduce the budget than the whole General Assembly can do in the rest of the session. I welcome the governor to the cause of economy."

Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer (Democrat, Prince Georges) majority floor leader, then rose to say that he was glad Senator Coad had at last realized that the governor also was working for economy. He promised that the hearings of the finance committee would be finished in a few days and the committee would go into executive session to decide on recommended cuts.

WOMEN'S JURY BILL KILLED IN ASSEMBLY

Montgomery Man's Plan Is Defeated; Race Track Tax Boost Proposed.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 21.—The women's jury service bill sponsored by Delegate Marvin Farrington, of Montgomery County, was killed in the House today when an unfavorable committee report was adopted by a vote of more than 2 to 1. The vote in committee was 8 to 6, with six members absent, Mr. Farrington said.

After submission of the unfavorable report, Mr. Farrington moved to substitute the bill for the report, saying that the ability to serve in public affairs was not monopolized by one sex. Delegate Lavinia Engle, also of Montgomery, spoke in favor of the bill, as did Delegate Lulu W. Boucher.

Taking issue with the other two women in the House, Delegate Mary E. W. Risteau argued against the bill, pointing out that it would not give men equal rights with women. The bill provided that the women should not serve on juries unless they volunteered. The move to substitute was lost, 31 to 77. All the Montgomery County delegation except Walter W. Dawson (Republican), voted for the substitution, and all the Prince Georges delegation except the two Republicans, Oliver Metzerott and Richard Zantinger, voted against the substitution.

Pay Cut Proposed.

A resolution introduced in the House today calls on the President to pardon all persons convicted of violation of the Volstead act, in view of recent wet legislation. A bill offered would reduce all State salaries up to $1,000 by 10 per cent, with an additional cut of one-half of one per cent of additional $100. Another House bill proposes to limit the salary of the State superintendent of schools to $6,000. He now receives $10,000.

A bill to increase race track taxes was offered today by Delegate Metzerott. The profits of the tracks are now taxed 15 per cent in addition to other levies. The new bill would tax the first $100,000 profits 15 per cent. Profits up to $300,000 would be taxed 25 per cent, while the State would take half of all profits between $200,000 and $300,000. The tax on profits of more than $300,000 would be 75 per cent. This plan could be made to yield $1,000,000 per year, Mr. Metzerott said.

The bill authorizing the construction of the Potomac River Bridge was passed by the House today and sent to the Senate, while a favorable report on the Glen Echo fire department tax was adopted by the House.

First Major Battle.

The first major battle of the session was pending tomorrow, with the county commissioners' association road bill a special order of business in the House at 12:30. The fight on this measure will test the strength of the administration, which has introduced its own road bill. The county commissioners' bill was forced out of the ways and means committee by a petition of 15 delegates after the committee had failed to vote on the bill. A hearing on the commissioners' bill was held this afternoon with an executive session later. In this session a vote on the bill was attempted, but was postponed until tomorrow. When the House reconvened the bill was forced out without recommendation.

The program of the committee investigating the University of Maryland was outlined this afternoon by its chairman, Senator Milton L. Veasy (Democrat), Worchester, who said that the fees paid by District students at the Maryland school will be one of the matters to be probed. These students, he pointed out, number 626 but pay the same tuition as Maryland students.

The question of limiting the enrollment to Maryland scholars will be considered, he said. A reduction in the amount paid by Maryland students, in view of the State's aid to the school, will also be considered.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With Nelson B. Bell's "Stooge"

As this item is being written, the 42d Street Special out of Los Angeles for Washington and the inauguration ceremonies, is just about clearing the last signal in the Los Angeles yards and putting on full steam ahead for the transcontinental run.

Bearing several stars from the Warner Bros. Studios, a chorus, the usual quota of gentlemen of the press agentry and company officials, this "Better Times" train is Warners' big splurge for the picture "42d Street," which opens at the Earle Theater Friday, March 3.

From Los Angeles the train goes to Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and then into Washington, arriving at 11 a. m., Saturday, March 4. The train and its load of valuable humanity will remain over until Monday morning, March 6, leaving then for Philadelphia, Boston and finally on March 9, to New York.

Stopovers will be made at all the cities mentioned which is by way of being one of the most elaborate "plugs" for a picture ever attempted. Of course the special carries more than direct advertising for the film, in that its "Better Times" slogan is expected to pep things up a bit all along the line for business generally.

Six cars including the best of accommodations for the stars, an electric kitchen, club car, observation car with a portion of California transplanted so that all may see its beauties make up this special which promises to bring a new era in inauguration festivities.

What sounds like it might offer an interesting evening's entertainment will be presented Friday and Saturday nights at the Wardman Park theater by the Chevy Chase Frantics. "The Inaugural Bawl" or "Mourning Becomes Election" is the title and 40 girls from the Chevy Chase Junior College will present the travesty. Alexander Throttlebottom is expected to leave the cast of "Of Thee I Sing" after he hears about "The Inaugural Bawl."

Of interest to the parents of children with talent is the announcement by the Winthrop-Brown Theatrical Enterprises that several hundred children will be given free auditions in their soundproof studio at 528 Thirteenth street northwest for "Kiddie Revue" and radio work. Reservations for auditions should be made by telephone.

And just a reminder that Princess Troubetskoi, internationally known soprano and protege of the Queen of Spain, will be heard for the first time in Washington on Friday afternoon at Continental Hall at 4:45 o'clock. The princess is known on the stage as Dagmara Renina.

Another note of interest to music lovers is that Issay Dobrown, brilliant young Russian, will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra next Tuesday night at Constitution Hall at 8:45 o'clock. The program will include Berlioz's opera, "Benvenuto Cellini."

You picture addicts had better read the Film Tables on this page this morning because Washington's Birthday has raised hob with previous schedules. Extra shows have been tossed in by several of the houses with theaters opening in the middle of last night and remaining open even later than that tonight.

Engagement of John Barrymore in "Topaze" is being extended at RKO-Keith's through the coming Sunday, giving this latest picture by the youngest of the Barrymores a ten-day stay at the Fifteenth street theater.

Under this arrangement of bookings the new Irene Dunne picture, "No Other Woman," in which this star of "Cimarron," "Back Street" and "Symphony of Six Million" again scores, will be shown for a period of four days to permit the new Richard Dix picture, "The Great Jasper," upon which this department has had some glowing reports, to open on Friday, March 3, thus making the Dix feature RKO-Keith's inaugural week contribution to amusement seekers. Edna May Oliver is featured in the Dix picture, as is the new Radio Pictures importation, Wera Engels.

Mischa Markoff, Russian gypsy barytone, is the new master of ceremonies at the Russian Troika's night club entertainment. Markoff, interpreter of Russian folk songs and master of the seven-string gypsy guitar, is adding much to the program offered nightly at this popular rendezvous.

Having just received a flash from the composing room that I can quit writing because the paper is overset, the voice on the phone suggesting that I go out and make a night of it, I can think of only one thing to say:

"What, no beer?"

LITTLE SYMPHONY IN FIRST CONCERT

Admirable Program Before Enthusiastic Audience Wins High Praise.

Washington's little symphony, better and more formally known as the Washington Orchestral Society, sprang full-fledged into being last night when it presented its maiden venture at the Y. W. C. A. Hall before an enthusiastic audience.

The program was one to tax the abilities of any musical organization, but under the able direction of C. E. Christiani, well-known Washington music master and orchestra leader, the society acquitted itself exceedingly creditably in renditions of such masters as Schubert, Wagner, Haydn and Bach.

That so young an organization should tackle such musical masterpieces and do them so commendably is praise enough for the musicianship of the personnel and for the untiring efforts of Mr. Christiani.

The program opened with Schubert's overture, "Rosamunde," and was followed by Esther Melick Ingram, soprano, singing "As Through the Streets," from Puccini's opera "La Boheme," and "Il Bacio" of Arditi.

The Haydn "Concerto in D Major" was played by Bertha Gordon, pianist, with orchestral accompaniment, and Marjorie Wilson and Martha Davenport, violinists, and Hanna Booth, pianist, presented Bach's "Concerto in D Minor."

Amy Woodforde-Finden's "Four Indian Love Lyrics"—"The Temple Bells," "Less Than the Dust," "Kashmiri Song," "Till I Wake"—and selections from Victor Herbert's tuneful "Mlle. Modiste," with contralto Ruby McQuarrie singing the immortal "Kiss Me Again," were delightfully played.

Wagner is one composer who might scare almost any musical organization, but the society's offering of selections from his opera "Tannhauser" was the high spot on a program that was not only consistently well played but also continually surprising for the excellent musicianship displayed.

COMMUNISM HIT AT D. A. R. MEETING

Atheism Is Taught in Many Schools and Colleges, Says Mrs. Becker.

A ringing denunciation of communistic propagandists and activities of atheistic groups was made by Mrs. William A. Becker, national chairman of the D. A. R. committee on national defense, at the meeting of Col. Tench Tilghman Chapter at Willard Hotel yesterday.

Appealing for a unified and vigorous offensive against such activities, Mrs. William A. Becker advocated legislation to outlaw political theories that favor overthrow of organized governments.

Mrs. Becker charged that in many schools and colleges the premise that "there is no God" is being taught. She declared that teachers of this theory should be "driven from their classrooms."

Advocates of strong national armies and navies, Mrs. Becker said, are not necessarily war lovers. She declared that the D. A. R. stood for peace just as much as do pacifist groups, but that preparedness for emergencies constituted the former's method of preserving peace, while the latter seek it through disarmament.

Mrs. William H. Chase, regent, and Mrs. William Talbott were named as representatives at the National Congress of the organization. Alternates were designated as follows: Mrs. Ida M. Shirk, Miss Lucy Bowie, Mrs. Bates Etchison, Mrs. Cora English, Mrs. Ernest Bullard, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Franklin Getzandanner, Mrs. Ernest Darby, Mrs. A. R. Speare and Mrs. Richard Cunningham.

Mrs. Chase, as regent, and Miss Margaret Loughborough, Mrs. J. D. Baker, Mrs. Russell Karnes, and Miss Edith P. Magruder were chosen to go to the State convention at Baltimore, Md. Alternates were selected as follows: Mrs. J. W. Severance, Mrs. Ernest Darby, Mrs. Ida M. Shirk, Mrs. Cora English, Mrs. Winson Offutt, Mrs. Franklin Getzandanner and Mrs. Frank Wilson.

CHURCH'S ESSENCE CALLED FORGOTTEN

Bible Conference Is Closed After an Address by House Member.

The dynamic current of the church, its divine essence, is short-circuited and forgotten, Representative Ralph F. Lozier, of Missouri, last night declared at the closing meeting of the Bible Conference at the First Congregational Church, held under auspices of the Columbia Bible Training School.

The church is not members, not cathedrals, minister, elders, bishops, deacons or missionary societies, he said. "It is more than preaching, pleas, discipline, dogma or doctrine, creeds or confessions," he said.

Called Divine Spark.

"It is the divine spark," he declared, "that lights the fires of consecration, unfetters noble impulse, and lights the candles on the altar of faith. It is a hidden indefinable force.

"The divine element drives the church and differentiates Christianity from all other religions. The Christian religion alone can meet and satisfy all the longings of the human soul."

Declared Only Method.

Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, who spoke earlier on "The Living Word," put forward the teachings of Christ as the only method to save the world from a "tidal wave of communism" which is sweeping it.

The Christian religion as a philosophy of life was advanced by Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

A program of sacred vocal solos was offered by Justin Lawrie and Mrs. Alice Haig.

Goldstein was charged with possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell, and released on bond. The raid was staged by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, Detective Sergt. Earl H. Burdine, of Rockville police headquarters, Sergt. Leroy Rodgers and Policemen Frank Soper and Webb Hersperger, of the Bethesda substation.

The road will be closed to traffic between Virginia avenue and Four Mile Run, a distance of approximately a mile. Later the south end of the road will be improved. A force of 25 workers started yesterday to widen the road from 18 to 28 feet, the work to cost $20,000, funds coming from the State.

Pollard Pardons Convicted Slayer

Herbert Minor Is Released After Serving Less Than Year.

Luray, Va., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—J. Lynn Lucas, Luray attorney, was advised today that Gov. Pollard had pardoned Herbert Minor, of Shenandoah, who was convicted of second-degree murder in October, 1931, and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary.

In his letter to the attorney, Gov. Pollard said he was granting the pardon because of Minor's good behavior and in consideration of the recommendations of the judge and Commonwealth's attorney.

Minor, a cripple, said at the trial he had no recollection of committing the crime with which he was charged. Several witnesses testified that the accused had been drinking excessively. Other evidence tended to show that the crime might have been committed by some person other than Minor.

Crisfield Dissatisfied With New State Line

Crisfield, Md., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Dissatisfaction over the proposed boundary line agreement between Maryland and Virginia in the Potomac River has been expressed by the seafood division of the Crisfield Chamber of Commerce to Senator Millard E. Tydings.

The letter said that the new line is not familiar to the people and many of them are dissatisfied with the apportionment of territory.

Seven Canine Prisoners Flee Alexandria Pound

Jail breakers in Alexandria have taken on a new complexion, as seven canine prisoners make their escape from the jail yard on Monday night.

Charles Davis reported that the "prisoners" evidently chewed a board from the pen in which they were impounded. While seven took French leave, 28 other dogs evidently preferred their quarters to the outside world and refused to take advantage of the chance for freedom.

Justice Considers Wampler Review

Written Briefs in Income Tax Indictment Are Prepared.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, of the District Supreme Court, today has under consideration a review of the finding of United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage directing T. Morris Wampler, lawyer, to go to Baltimore to stand trial on an indictment charging him with income tax evasions.

Wampler, through his attorney, William E. Leahy, yesterday agreed with Assistant United States Attorney William Gallagher to submit the review to Justice O'Donoghue on written briefs, omitting the oral arguments.

Wampler was indicted several weeks ago, and he contested the Government's efforts to have him removed to Baltimore. After a protracted hearing by Commissioner Turnage, he was ordered taken back, and his next step was a writ of habeas corpus that, under the law, entitled him to a review of the removal order by a District Supreme Court judge. Justice O'Donoghue indicated that he would make known his decision next week.

The record given the court showed Davis is under indictment in Omaha, Nebr.; Quincy, Ill., and Baltimore, Md., and that he was arrested in Portland, Oreg., under the name of A. C. Wilbur while representing himself as an employe of the Department of the Interior.

E. B. Montgomery, Federal investigator, testified that while in Oregon early this month Davis drew spurious drafts on New York banks totaling $34,000.

Pastor Threatens Theater Boycott

Prince Georges Is Warned Against Loosening of Movie Blue Law.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 21.—Movie houses in Prince Georges County will be boycotted by the church people if the county bill to permit Sunday movies is passed, Dr. B. P. Robertson, head of the county ministerial association, threatened today at a hearing on several county bills loosening the blue laws.

Dr. Robertson also said that if the Prince Georges bill to allow the towns referendums on Sunday movies is passed, it will force the pastors into the fight against the amusements. "We don't want to do it, but we must for the sake of humanity."

G. Hodges Carr, of Hyattsville, also spoke against the bill, although he said he owned stock in a movie theater. Mrs. Luther Hopkins, of Laurel, head of the county council of churchwomen, also argued against the bill.

The anniversary will be officially signalized at the Naval Academy tomorrow at noon when the national salute of 21 guns will be fired from the shore battery.

Friends Send Many Photos In Post's $10,500 Contest

False Sense of Modesty Restrains Some From Entering Competition for 51 Most Charming Girls to Form Court of Honor.

Because of a special provision in the rules governing The Washington Post's search for 51 charming girls to officiate at the opening of the Century of Progress International Exposition at Chicago on June 1, many girls have been surprised to see their names entered in the contest or their pictures reproduced in The Post's Sunday rotogravure section.

Although The Post does not publish the complete names of entrants, the girls who are pictured are naturally recognized by their intimates, as was the case with the Misses E. W. and B. A. B., whose photographs were reproduced last Sunday.

Recognizing that a false sense of modesty would prevent many girls from submitting their photographs personally, The Post provided that pictures could also be submitted by any friend or relative, with the result that masculine admirers, together with fond mothers and fathers, have contributed a large percentage of the hundreds of photographs that are now awaiting judgment at the office of the Queen Contest editor.

To the 51 girls who will be selected following the close of the contest on Saturday, April 15, will come the glorious experience of a two weeks' stay at Chicago's most luxurious hotels and an elaborate program of entertainment as the guests of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune. Every expense, including that of transportation from their homes, in any part of the world, and return, will be paid by these newspapers. Each girl will also be gorgeously gowned by leading modistes and will take a prominent part in the colorful ceremonies that will inaugurate the great world's fair on June 1.

From the group, three girls will be chosen as queen and first and second ladies-in-waiting and in the order of their selection will receive cash awards of $5,000, $3,000 and $2,000. The remaining 48 girls will compose the queen's court of honor and will receive international recognition as the world's most charming girls.

Every unmarried girl, regardless of her place of residence, is eligible to compete for these high honors and financial rewards. It is only necessary to send a photograph that has been taken within the past 12 months and which is at least 6 by 8 inches in size, to the Queen Contest Editor, The Washington Post. To the back of the photograph should be pasted the transmittal coupon which appears elsewhere on this page today, or the same information written upon any sheet of paper.

Only professionals, such as stage girls and artists' models, and employes of The Washington Post or members of their families, are barred from competition.

Maj. Garey Plans New Boys' School

Former St. John's Chief Purchases Oakington on Chesapeake Bay.

Oakington, the 550-acre estate of the late Commodore Leonard Richards, overlooking Chesapeake Bay near Havre de Grace, Md., has just been acquired by Maj. Enoch Barton Garey, former president of St. John's College at Annapolis, and will be the site of a progressive school for boys, to be opened next September.

The estate contains a number of tenant buildings and cottages, which will be converted into quarters for students and members of the faculty. The mansion, containing 25 rooms and a ballroom, will be converted into study and assembly rooms.

The school planned by Maj. Garey will be modeled along practical educational lines and an effort made to get farther away from accepted methods of youthful training.

Rockville Pike Rezoning Hit.

A resolution adopted by the Rockville Pike Citizens Association opposing any rezoning in Rockville Pike which will permit commercial enterprises to be established and operated along the pike was received yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners.

Virginia Counties Get School Cash

Delay in Payment Due to Four-Month Change in Auto Licenses.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—State Treasurer John M. Purcell today mailed checks totaling $527,900 to counties and cities of the State. They were for the third quarter of the school money, due February 1.

The full payment usually is by February 1, but payment this year was deferred because of lack of ready cash in the State treasury, necessitating the payment in four equal installments during the month.

Mr. Purcell explained that the lack of cash on the first of the month was due to the General Assembly's action in deferring the date for automobile license payment from January 1 to April 1.

Bethesda Meeting Postponed.

Postponement of the meeting of the Montgomery Government Club scheduled for Friday night to Tuesday, February 28, at 7 p. m. in the Bethesda Elementary School, was announced yesterday. KENNEDY OUTPOINTS RED BARRY BY WIDE MARGIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BIG LEAGUE baseball is on the move this week with virtually all of the sixteen major clubs converging on points South to establish a baseball front that extends from Florida through Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, and California. Spring training is at hand.

The telegraphic dispatches soon will bear word of the new sensations in camp, the Ty Cobb and Walter Johnson labels attached so freely and with little cause to the young bloods who promise to oust the veterans from regular berths. They will tell of the new Cobbs and the new Johnsons, despite the fact that none of the past 25 seasons has developed neither another Johnson or another Cobb.

But the rookies are faced with a tougher task this season. Times being what they are, a baseball job in the big league is something to be guarded jealously and the old timers to whom training trips were just so many vacations will not be trifling this year in their spring performances. The quicker these ambitious rookies are showed up as rookies, and shipped to the minors, the safer these veterans' jobs will be.

Rice Keeps His Feet Down South.

But I doubt that even the depression will cause Sam Rice to hit the ground in an exhibition game. None is quicker to hit the dirt in the regular season than Rice, but down South Samuel keeps his feet come what may. Those valuable legs that have led the league in base stealing and still rank with the fleetest underpinnings in baseball are worth being preserved and Rice intends to preserve them.

It is for the rookies to prove their worth. Fellows like Rice and Heinie Manush and Goose Goslin can point to their records in the majors and stand on their reputations, if necessary, during the training trip, but should any rookie show a batting weakness or an unsteadiness in the field, a ticket to the minors will be served him some evening along with dinner.

But those veterans on the fringe of the star class will be safeguarding their jobs this season. They'll be hitting the dirt and be in there taking a full cut to meet the competition of the recruits. Time was when it was a comparatively easy matter for these veterans to retire from the game to their bowling alleys, billiard parlors and chicken farms and still maintain their usual income, but times are different.

Little Trifling Foreseen at Biloxi.

This spring will be Manager Joe Cronin's first test as a disciplinarian and the deflation of the baseball business has made his task easier. Big league baseball is still, comparatively, a fruitful field and a major league salary is something to be valued in these times. Thus there promises to be little trifling among the group of players at Biloxi.

Walter Johnson, with the reputation of being an easy-going gent, encountered no trouble in maintaining discipline at his Biloxi camps. The players are on their own after the morning practice with 11 o'clock the nightly deadline and Biloxi holds out little chance for mischief.

Cronin will not find it difficult to set the example for his squad. There is no more serious, sober player in baseball than the Nats' youthful manager. If he can inculcate even a bit of his own spirit in the Nats, the club will be talking, eating and sleeping baseball at Biloxi. That's the kind of a guy Joe Cronin is and it was no inconsiderable factor in his appointment to the job by Clark Griffith.

WALKER IN CARD FOLD.

St. Louis, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Bill Walker, southpaw pitcher formerly with the New York Giants, today signed a one-year contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. The amount involved was not made public, but Walker announced himself well satisfied with the terms and expressed confidence he would have a great season.

Records Tied By Topino, Siegel

Siegel Runs 60-Yard Dash in New York in Record Time.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Emmett Toppino, who lost his first indoor sprint last Saturday, gained ample revenge over his conqueror, Ed Siegel, in the 70-yard final of the sprint series at the Curb Exchange A. A. indoor track and field meet tonight as he flashed to victory in the world record equaling time of 7 seconds.

Toppino had a lead of more than a yard in the first few strides and held a 2-foot margin over Siegel at the finish. Frank Wykoff, of the University of Southern California, was third and Ira Singer, former national indoor champion, was fourth.

Both Show Remarkable Form.

Both Toppino and Siegel did remarkable sprinting in the qualifying dashes and the final, the Southerner tying the world record of 5.2 seconds in the 50-yard dash and Siegel winning the 60-yard sprint in the record-equaling time of 6.2 seconds.

The competitors were allowed to qualify in either the 50 or 60 yard sprint for the final at 70.

Toppino, the New Orleans windmill, took up his first place sprinting where it was so rudely interrupted by Siegel last Saturday and dashed to victory in the 50-yard sprint in the world record-equaling time of 5.2 seconds.

Siegel, running in the 60-yard sprint—the competitors being given their choice in the sprint series of qualifying either at 50 or 60 yards for the 70-yard final—also dashed to victory in world-record equaling time of 6.2 seconds.

Singer Second in 50-Yard Event.

Ira Singer, former national indoor champion, was second to Toppino in the 50-yard race, while Frank Wykoff, former Southern California flash, was second to Siegel.

In his race Toppino was away to a flying start, with a 5-yard lead on the field before 20 yards had been run, while Siegel came from behind in his event to overhaul Wykoff.

Glenn Cunningham, of the University of Kansas, who already had proved his mettle in two consecutive Eastern victories at the mile, tonight won the 800-meter invitation, feature event of the meet in the good time for the track of 1:56 2-5.

Cunningham won by 10 yards from Glenn Dawson, of Tulsa, Okla., with Frank Nordell, of New York University, third; George Bullwinkle, of the New York A. C., fourth, and Phil Edwards, of McGill University, Montreal, a badly distanced fifth and last.

Herb Pennock Signs 1933 Yank Contract

New York, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Herbert J. Pennock, regarded by many students of the pitching arts as the most accomplished left-hander of all time, signed with the Yankees today for his twenty-first major league season.

Pennock came to terms after a mild argument over salary with Ed Barrow, secretary of the Yankees. If he were "cut" at all it was not much below his figure for the 1932 season, which he closed by turning in two brilliant relief performances in the world series.

BADMINTON TOURNAMENT.

The Badminton tournament being conducted at the Y. M. C. A. reached the second round in men's singles last night, while women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles concluded the first round. George Jordon, who drew a bye in the first round, defeated George Clark, 15-8, to gain the quarter-final round.

Judge and Gandil Drawing Bulk of Fans' Favor for All-Star First Base Post

the Nats' regular first baseman during the years covering 1912-15, was one of the team's leading hitters. At left he is seen taking his famous cut at the ball. He is a popular choice with many fans for the All-Star Washington team.

Post Contest Surveys Also Records of Joe Harris and Kuhel.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ACCORDING to the trend of entries received, one of the easiest tasks in connection with The Post's Baseball Contest has to do with the naming of the first baseman for, strange as it seems, only two—Chick Gandil and Joe Judge—have been outstanding with the Nats for the past 21 years. Joe Kuhel is now sitting in the saddle, being the only one of a dozen or more challengers who was able to win the berth from Judge.

The Post contest, by the way, calls for the fans to pick a team of 13 players—four infielders, three outfielders, an extra catcher and three extra pitchers—who, in their opinion, have been outstanding during the period that Clark Griffith, present president, has been connected with the club—from 1912 to date. Mr. Griffith has consented to name his team and box seat tickets for the opening American League game here April 12 will be awarded to the three whose selections nearest match those of Griffith. The contest closes March 15.

Many Others Sought to Gain Post.

Selecting players for practically all of the other positions will be quite a task, with guessing ability being an important factor but, as already stated, the field of doorway guardians seems to be quite limited. There have been possibly 25 who have filled in for this pair at different times. Alva Williams and Ed Gharrity used to act as understudies to Gandil, while among those who have filled in for short stretches for Judge have been "Mule" Shirley, Harley Boss, George Sisler, Art (The Great) Shires, Tris Speaker, Earl McNeely, Eddie Onslow, Turkey Brower, Frank Ellerbee, Hank Shanks and Joe Harris.

As Joe Harris, alternating as utility outfielder and first baseman, was kept quite busy here during 1925 and 1926, starring with a trio of homers in the 1925 world's series with the Pittsburgh Pirates, his record is given, but few of the others were on the job long enough to receive serious consideration from the fans thus far.

Gandil and Judge appear to have been just about on a par, according to their records. Both were rated as the class of the league's first-sackers during their respective careers here, invariably fielding practically perfect, while both also managed to keep their batting average over or around the .300 mark season after season.

The batting and fielding records of the quartet leading in the race for first-base honors in the contest follow:

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Carding an 86, Miss Frances Williams, defending champion from Allentown, Pa., today won the medal in the qualifying round of the South Atlantic Women's Golf Championship.

She was one stroke ahead of Diana Fishwick, British women's champion, who headed a group of seven English players in the tournament by scoring an 81.

All of the English players, with the exception of Mrs. Ruby Fishwick, mother of the British ace, and Mrs. E. B. Gibbs, succeeded in getting into the championship flight of 16, which required scores of 93 or lower.

Mrs. EsteHe Drennan, of Tulsa, the Oklahoma star, carded an 83 to qualify, and Miss Katherine Garnham, of England, took an 86.

Colonial Five In Acid Test Tonight

Meets Famous City College Team in New York.

Victory to Add Much to Prestige of G. W.'s Best Team.

LOADED down to the gunwales with enthusiasm and determination, the good barge George Washington hauls in its mudhook and spreads canvas, bound for Father Knickerbocker's haunts and a game with City College of New York tonight at Madison Square Garden. Capt. Jim Pixlee and his able lieutenant, Ted O'Leary, are in command of the squad of eleven men, comprising the greatest team ever to carry the Colonial colors into battle.

With a trainload of students, estimated in the neighborhood of 200, who are going along to help bring home the fatback, the squad leaves Union Station this morning at 8:15, arriving in the metropolis around 1 p. m., and returning home immediately after the game tonight.

Victory Means Much to Colonials.

Tonight brings G. W. to the crossroads of its basket ball career. Victory over C. C. N. Y., perennial leader of Eastern collegiate basket ball, will definitely establish the Washington school as an institution of first water in an athletic way. New Yorkers are anxious for a glimpse of the local five, which blasted its way into the big city sports sheets by extending St. John's of Brooklyn and losing the decision only after an extra period in a game played here earlier in the season. St. John's nosed out C. C. N. Y., prior to its visit.

Capt. Art Zahn is included in the party making the trip, although it is doubtful if he will muscle into the line-up. His place will be occupied either by Fenlon or Noonan. The remainder of the starting team will be Burgess, Howell, Hertzler and Chambers.

George Washington's chances of winning tonight are not as remote as many believe them to be. City College is not accustomed to the fast-breaking style of attack employed by the Colonials and even though it may stop the mad-rushing tactics of the Washingtonians, it will have to keep it foot on the gas pedal to do so.

The G. W. board of strategy plans to use all members of the squad in an effort to wear down the stamina of the opposition.

"Band" Greets Cronin on Arrival at Biloxi

Special to The Washington Post.

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 21.—In the absence of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, two of the reasons why Washington keeps reasonably out of the red on road trips, Mike Martin and Frankie Baxter, the prosperous rubbers, turned comical today and arranged an impromptu greeting for Manager Joe Cronin, who arrived at noon for the most important season in his youthful and scintillating baseball career.

Martin and Baxter hired the most ebonized boys in this stronghold of the great American shrimp, armed them with retired tomato cans, gazoos, battered mandolins and a couple of hybrid musical instruments and set them on the sun-washed station platform with instructions to play, "Hail the Conquering Hero Comes," when Joe hopped off the train. The joke was not on Cronin, though, for he had gotten off very unceremoniously way up at the front of the train and amusedly viewed the whole scene unnoticed.

Tomorrow baseball is officially coronated as the leading industry of Biloxi. Recruits for the ceremonies—Al Thomas, Ed Linke, Bill McAfee and "Beck" Hazzard arrived late this afternoon, and more will come in tomorrow.

Nats Depart For Biloxi Training

Kerr, Cassell Only Players Leaving From Here.

Thomas, Crowder and Bolton to Swing on to Train.

ONLY two players—Pitcher Bob Cassell, Winchester sandlotter, and Infielder Johnny Kerr—made up the vanguard of Nationals which started from the Capital City for the Biloxi training camp yesterday under the chaperonage of Assistant Secretary Billy Smith, Coaches Altrock and Schacht and four scribes. Catcher Moe Berg, scheduled to be one of the party, will arrive in New York today from Europe, according to word received from his father. He is expected to be a party of his own and to immediately start for the Mississippi base.

Two pitchers and Catcher Cliff Bolton were scheduled to join the Nats en route, Luther (Bud) Thomas being due to hop the train at Char-

Welter Crown Stake Today in Fight at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Conqueror of two champions and still without a throne, Young Corbett will climax a title chase of three years here tomorrow afternoon when he squares off with Jackie Fields in a 10-round battle that will see the welterweight crown at stake.

Three years ago on Washington's birthday, the Fresno left-hander outpointed Fields in a nontitle skirmish and a few months later followed up the victory with a decision under similar circumstances over Young Jack Thompson, rangy Negro who had relieved Fields of his laurels.

Fields Has Lost and Won Title.

The 147-pound crown has rested on several heads since Corbett made his first bid for fame, Fields eventually regaining it to become one of those rare figures of the ring who have lost and won back titles.

In the peak of condition after several weeks' intensive training, the principals in San Francisco's first important championship fight since Willie Ritchie successfully defended the lightweight title against Tommy Murphy 19 years ago went through mild exercises today.

Meanwhile the static faithful plunged into the prebattle speculation of whether the name "Corbett" will be the cause of the downfall of a champion for the fourth time in boxing history. Back in 1892 James J. Corbett knocked out John L. Sullivan to win the heavyweight title. In the same era, George Green, of San Francisco, the original "Young Corbett," defeated "Mysterious" Billy Smith, then welterweight champion. In 1901, Young Corbett (William Rothwell), knocked out "Terrible" Terry McGovern to win the featherweight title.

Young Corbett 3d will have his chance tomorrow to follow a line of illustrious predecessors. Those who wager on the outcome favor the chances of the Fresno challenger and odds of 10 to 8 prevailed today he would become the next ruler of the 147-pound ranks.

In the unusual role of a short-ender, the champion nevertheless will step into the ring about 4 p. m., Pacific standard time, with some physical advantages. He is younger by two years and commands a 2-inch longer reach. Corbett is a bit sturdier from ankles to neck.

Lieut. Jack Kennedy, United States Navy, will referee the bout.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will net four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

The contest will close March 19.

23d Round

Saw Corbett Run Plump Into Jeffries' Left to Take Count in 1900.

Billy Rocke, famous referee and fight follower, witnessed all of James J. Corbett's championship battles. In a series of three stories, of which this is the last, he told to Edward J. Neil, Associated Press sports writer, his version of those stirring days in the ring.

By BILLY ROCHE
(As Told to Edward J. Neily.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—The same kind of accident that shouldn't ever happen to a man in a ring robbed Jim Corbett of his chance to regain the heavyweight title from Jim Jeffries just as it had cost him the crown with Bob Fitzsimmons.

I've been around boxing almost 60 years, refereeing, managing fighters and I've come to believe that there is no such thing as an accidental knockout. But there were two exceptions that will always make me a little doubtful. And both of them happened to Corbett.

Fitz never would tackle Corbett again after Jim beat him so badly before losing on a solar plexus punch in 14 rounds at Carson City in 1894, but he fought Jeffries, once a rubber for Corbett, and lost the championship on an 11-round knockout at Coney Island in 1899. I saw that one, too.

Never Smoked or Drank.

Corbett was 34 by this time, but he had kept in wonderful condition, never smoked or drank, and he had lived a fine, clean life off the stage. He wanted to be the first man ever

SIR MALCOLM PLANS TEST TODAY

Daytona Beach Strip Smoothed by Tide and Wind.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, here seeking to break his own world's automobile speed record of 253 miles an hour, decided definitely tonight to take his Bluebird racing car on to the ocean speedway about noon tomorrow for official trials.

Following a conference with racing officials, the 48-year-old British driver ordered the necessary timing apparatus set up to clock the car on its runs tomorrow, which probably will be made between 11 a. m. (Eastern time) and 1 p. m. Low tide occurs at 12:15 p. m., but it probably will be possible for him to race on the course an hour or so before and after the tide recedes.

Bumps, Irregularities Disappearing.

Numerous bumps and irregularities, which have made high-speed racing dangerous, disappeared on today's high tide. Only a few ripples remained on the sand at the extreme south end of the course, and Campbell had hopes that they would smooth out on another high tide tonight.

"I am greatly cheered by the sudden improvement in the beach," Campbell exclaimed, after he had carefully inspected the course at low tide today. "I hope that it will be in condition for my trials without further delay."

Meantime, all preparations were made by racing officials to set up the necessary timing apparatus on the course to clock the driver on his runs should satisfactory conditions prevail at low tide tomorrow.

Campbell's mechanics were given last-minute instructions to have his low-slung 2,500-horsepower machine carefully inspected and be ready to tow it to the course.

Campbell stressed the fact that conditions would have to be almost perfect for him to be able to boost the record higher than its present 253-mile-an-hour mark.

Gallaudet Rally Wins Close Court Battle

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 21.—After spotting the Maryland State Normal five of Towson 10 points tonight the Gallaudet College basket ball team finished with a rush that won a 30 to 25 battle.

After rolling up a 10-0 lead, Towson continued to outplay the visitors until a 14-3 advantage had been amassed. Gallaudet jumped into action at that point and when half time was reached the margin was cut to 14-12. Towson hung up until the last five minutes when Gallaudet took the lead for the first time in the game, a field goal by Brown turning the trick.

WILSON STILL UNSIGNED.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 21.—Hack Wilson, Brooklyn outfielder, was at his home here today after a three-week conditioning period at Hot Springs, Ark., back to his normal seasonal weight of 205—five pounds less than he carried when he went to the South—but with his salary dispute with Brooklyn still unsettled.

2,500 Crowd Sees Upset Recorded

Post's Score Fails to Credit Barry With a Round.

Kennedy Has Edge in Six and Draws in Other Four.

RED BARRY brought his much vaunted Broadway punch to Portner's Arena last night but it failed to impress the old trooper, Les Kennedy, with its reputation and, after ten rounds of milling, he was a well thrashed and let's hope, a wiser youngster. The Post score sheet gave Kennedy six rounds and tabbed the other four as equal.

The capacity crowd of about 2,500 that viewed the bouts was plainly disappointed at the showing of the Washington boy. If anything, Barry's showing was inferior to his last appearance in this vicinity. He appeared sluggish and showed little boxing ability. But after all the youngster was up against one of the most skillful heavyweights that has been seen at Portner's.

Barry Frequently Misses.

Frequently Barry slashed away at Kennedy with vicious swings, but where his opponent's jaw had been there was just space, and before he recovered from his miss he usually was jolted with a stiff body punch. As the bout wore on Barry was a much puzzled boy.

In the first round Kennedy came out cautiously and was content to spar and feel out his opponent. "Reds" was anxious to show his new "punch" and took several wild swings at the wiley Kennedy, but failed to connect. The round was even.

In the second, Kennedy opened up and, although he did not hurt Barry, he plainly outboxed the local pride. Barry attempted several times to rush the veteran, but each time he was met with a left jab to the mouth. Kennedy scored heavily on infighting in this round.

Barry carried the fight to Kennedy in the third and scored several times with jabs to the head and two or three lucky pokes in the ribs. Kennedy boxed carefully and made Red miss frequently enough to earn a draw for that round.

The fourth and fifth rounds were all Kennedy. He jabbed and poked Red from one corner of the ring to the other and it could be seen that Barry was really hurt. The latter's big disappointment came in the fifth round when he tried desperately to land the knockout punch that he had promised would come at this time. He tried, it is true, but Kennedy refused to remain still while Reds wound up with his round-house punch.

Kennedy Simply Coasts To Victory.

The loser rallied in the sixth, but just enough to get an even break and from then on the old-timer, knowing he had piled up enough points to win, merely coasted to victory. A wag leaving the arena remarked that Reds' "Broadway punch" turned out to be of the "King street variety."

The customers had no complaint to make on the evening's entertainment, as seldom have they been afforded a card as filled with action. The semifinal between Ray Bowen, of Washington, and Buster Brown, of Baltimore, was a whirlwind of action during the entire eight rounds. Bowen earned the decision, and in doing so showed a well-educated left. Ray was a much-improved boxer over his last appearance.

In the opening fight Cary Wright outslugged Benny Toothman in a toe-to-toe slugging bee. Jimmy De Capua gained a clear-cut decision over Benny Fundelson in a light-heavy tussle. Ray Manley defeated George Erick in a fast setto mainly because the latter refused to break cleanly. The final round was fast and furious with butting playing as important a part as punching. At the bell the two were just getting warmed up and continued to fight furiously until Referee Charlie Short reminded them that their work for the evening was completed.

CRAPSHOOTER DISQUALIFIED AFTER MIAMI FEATURE WIN

Purse Given Periodical For Foul

Favorite Bears Out in Stretch; Mills Held Blameless.

Sun Manor Scores in Opener, Leading From Start.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Considerable excitement occurred with the running of the Apalachicola Purse here this afternoon. W. N. Adrians' Crap Shooter, the favorite, finished first by a length, but was disqualified and the purse awarded to J. E. Widener's Periodical, a 2-to-1 shot. Sun Gros received the place and Brown Molasses the show. Heads separated Periodical and Brown Molasses. The time for the one mile was 1:38 3-5.

The interference took place right near the finish line when Periodical was rapidly wearing down Crap Shooter. The latter was bearing out, and Hanford, who rode Periodical, had to take up sharply. It was ruled by the stewards that Hank Mills, who was up on Crap Shooter, was not responsible for his mount's action; that the horse "shied" and ran off his course and impeded the second and third horses.

Crap Shooter Leads Going Into Stretch.

Crap Shooter took the lead from Pot au Luck after entering the back stretch and maintained a daylight advantage into the stretch. Brown Molasses forced the pace to that point, then began to falter, but Periodical and Sun Gros charged up fast on the outside. Periodical ran into trouble a few yards from the finish as he was wearing the winner down.

This was Hanford's second victory in a row and gave him a tie with "Duke" Bellizzi for second place in the jockey's standing with 20 winners apiece.

Jockey Mills, upon report of the patrol judge to the stewards, was suspended three days for cutting across the field with Crap Shooter at the start of the race. It was further stated that this action had no connection with the disqualification of Crap Shooter for bearing out and impeding Periodical near the finish of the race.

Redress Captures Cofeature by Nose.

The St. Andrew's Bay Purse, cofeature with the Apalachicola, wound up in a blanket finish with C. V. Whitney's Redress nosing Pot au Brooms out of the purse. Stealingaway was a scant head behind in third place. Hecla had the early foot of the field, showing the way for more than 7 furlongs of the mile journey. Pot au Brooms, Redress and Stealingaway all collared the pacemaker late in the stretch with the Whitneyite making the grade in the last breath. Redress paid $6.40.

Wise Daughter, the well-named daughter of Wise Counsellor—Wise Mother, turned in the fastest exhibition of any 2-year-old at the meeting when she created a new track record of 0:33 4-5 to win the third race for fillies exclusively. The time beats Dartie's recently established mark by a fifth of a second. Buddy Hanford broke the Everglades Stable's representative in front and the filly drew into a long lead which never was threatened. High Glee bore in after the start but closed impressively to finish three lengths behind the winner and a like margin before Dark Polish. Wise Daughter returned $3.80.

Cabouse, fractious at the post and placed on the extreme outside, rang up a driving victory in the 2-year-old event for maiden colts and geldings. The son of Baigneur had three parts of a length to spare over Collateral, the favorite, at the wire, while Her Hero lost the place by a length. Cabouse dashed into a daylight advantage with Her Hero holding the runner-up position. Collateral closed steadily and wore down Her Hero, but could not overhaul the winner, which paid $12.80.

Gallant Sir to Start In Agua Stake Today

Agua Caliente, Mex., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Gallant Sir, from the Norman W. Church Barn and the future book favorite for the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap March 26, will make his first appearence here tomorrow in the Washington Birthday Handicap, to be run at 6 furlongs for a $900 purse.

The Nut, Yonkel, Flagtime and Lemon Hills, other handicap nominees, will contest the purse with Gallant Sir. Gallant Sir was assigned 122 pounds for his first start, against 109 for The Nut and 102 for Yonkel, which will carry the smallest impost.

AT THE POST

MIAMI, FEBRUARY 21.

DEAR AL:

Well friend, it took a disqualification to give me two winners today. Sun Manor stepped down for me in the first race and then Periodical was awarded the purse in the fourth when Crapshooter tried to run in several directions near the finish. Hank Mills, who had the mount on Crapshooter, was set down for three days, although the stewards ruled he was not to blame for what happened in the stretch. He was disciplined for cutting across the field at the start. Mills, who was the big star here last spring, is having trouble getting out of his own way this meeting. And many of the jockey betters are being edged out of the money picture. BILL.

FIRST RACE—SINGING HEART raced so impressively the last time that I don't believe they will catch this 3-year-old tomorrow. RALLY ROUND'S last was a brilliant effort, and this one may do the No. 1 chasing. KATE may account for the show end.

SECOND RACE — TOMFOOLERY showed me plenty in that recent exhibition and seems as well qualified to triumph here as anything in the race. TOPPLE, another with a good race in the records, for the place ahead of CHATTERDOO.

THIRD RACE—ST. CHRISTOPHER seems rather solid among these. Looks like GRACE BLOTTER and NOSE IN will be the ones to make it a battle for the first named.

FOURTH RACE—Trying to kill the giant killer in this. EBONY LADY, with 101 pounds, gets a chance to defeat the consistent winner, CHARACTER, slated to tote 124 pounds. I believe that 23 pounds will make the difference of win and place between this pair. SILK FLAG should be the third one.

FIFTH RACE—Might do worse than pick BROWN WISDOM here. Seems best suited among these. SCOUTMASTER may pick this spot to let go with that good race I have been waiting for. ROYAL RUFFIN, in present form, should be third.

SIXTH RACE—TRY IT is still my choice. It's only a question of when, and this looks like the right setting. MIKE HALL is out in the open and may be second. ENGLEWOOD for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—FERVID can beat these kind despite the fact that he threw me down the last time. EVERFAIR and PERNICKERTY, the 3-year-olds, for the place battle.

Boys Club to Play D.-H. for Loop Title

Fives Battle Tonight at Boys Club for Crown in Y. M. C. A. League.

A battle royal is looked for tonight at the Boys Club when the home team tackles the Delaware-Hudson five in a game which carries with it the title in the Y. M. C. A. League. Hostilities are scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock.

Neither team has been beaten in league play this season. The two already have met in a nonleague game and the Boys Club emerged triumphant after a heated battle. By virtue of this victory, the host team is favored to win tonight, but the teams are so evenly matched that a thriller from start to finish is looked for with the result likely to go with the team getting the edge in "breaks."

COLONIALS BEAT BROOKS.

Making good on two foul shots, Colonial Boat Club tossers nosed out the Brooks A. C., 22-20, in a fast game last night at Gonzaga High School. A. Duryea led the winners.

GIANTS SEEK GAMES.

The recently organized Howitzer Giants are seeking games for tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday with strong unlimited teams. Call North 5790 after 6 p. m.

Celtic Five Plays Eagles Tomorrow

Former Court Champions, Still Among the Best, in Game at Tech.

A trifle stouter at the girth and a bit slower of foot, but still ranked at the top of the list, the New York Celtics invade Washington tomorrow night for a tiff with the Aero Eagles at the Tech High School. Since the disbandment of the American Pro League the Celtics have roamed the East and Midwest in one long barnstorming tour, winning the majority of their games.

It has been a long time since the New Yorkers paid a visit to the Nation's Capital and they will find a warm welcome awaiting them. Joe Sweeney, Tubba Farrell, Bozie Berger, Joe Croson and company are on the reception committee.

A preliminary game that rivals the feature in attractiveness brings Griffith Consumers up against the powerful Sholl's tossers. The Griffs are the only team to win from the A. A. U. champs this season. Sholl's boasts a record of better than 25 consecutive wins.

Twenty-fifth Victory For Eastern Quintet

Eastern High School chalked up its twenty-fifth victory of the season at Ballston yesterday, where it took the measure of Washington-Lee High School by a score of 49 to 17 in a slow and one-sided game. All nine Eastern players had a finger in the scoring.

The Little Generals faded from view almost immediately after the start as the District quintet rolled up a substantial lead of 22 to 9 in the first half. Al Waters, Tom Nolan and Edelin led the scoring.

Bellman and Scott, who accounted for 24 points, led the assault on McLean's basket. Lusby was best for the losers.

HOT BATTLES DUE ON MAT TOMORROW

Gorasini - Grobmeier Added to Card at Auditorium.

ONE of those rarities, a wrestler who clings to the traditions of the old school, also a newcomer to Washington, Bruno Gorasini, is expected to make a favorable showing against Fred Grobmeier when the two tangle in the semifinal match tomorrow night at the Auditorium. Gorasini relies strictly on tricks of the trade, rather than rough-house tactics, to earn his victories, which have been frequent of late.

Fred Grobmeier, the lanky scissors exponent, has been pitted against the "Eyetalian." Grobmeier outclassored Paul Jones in their match last week.

Garibaldi-Judson Feature.

Gino Garibaldi headlines the card in company with Frank Judson. Word emanating from Manse Joe Turner's office has it that genial Gino is disappointed by the local public's failure to appreciate his efforts. Judson has been installed as favorite in tomorrow's tiff.

Other matches on the program are Abe Coleman vs. J

Smith-Runyan and Armour-Dutra to Clash Today.

Both Pairs Win Easily in International Event at Miami.

MIAMI COUNTRY CLUB, Miami, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Tommy Armour, of Detroit, and Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Calif., teamed today to defeat Bill Mehlhorn, of New York, and Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio, 3 and 2, and advance to tomorrow's finals of the $2,500 international four-ball golf matches.

While Armour and Dutra were winning their match, Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., and Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., trounced their veteran opponents, Walter Hagen, of Detroit, and Joe Kirkwood, of Philadelphia, 3 and 2, in the other scheduled 36-hole match of the semifinal contests.

Final Round Battle Today.

Armour, who was cowinner of last year's four-ball matches, and Dutra will meet Smith and Runyan in 36-hole final play tomorrow. The four teams today held well to or below par figures in spite of a shifting wind that whipped over the Miami Country Club course from the east in the morning and from the north in the afternoon.

Armour and Dutra played easily through the first 27 holes, saving for the last seven holes of the day the sprint that put them beyond defeat at the thirty-fourth.

Favorites from the start of the tournament, Armour and Dutra alternated in carrying the brunt of play. They dropped birdies into cups when birdies were needed, but held to par at times when the bid of Mehlhorn and Espinosa was not dangerous.

St. John's Wins, 33-30, Over Landon Prepmen

In a nip-and-tuck battle that saw the lead exchange hands several times, St. John's nosed out Landon Prep by a score of 33-30 in an exciting game yesterday on the Cadet's court. It was St. John's second victory of the season.

Landon lagged behind all the way through, trailing by a score of 16-12 at the half. But in the third period it forged ahead and assumed a 29-24 lead. St. John's rallied in the closing minutes of the fray to gain the decision.

Hitting the Headpin

BILL WOOD'S annual contribution to bowling high lights of the year, the George Washington Sweepstakes, occupy the center of the stage today as major duckpin stars of Washington, Baltimore, Annapolis and nearby suburbs converge on Lucky Strike for the 15-game test.

A sizable list of entries which will be swelled by the usual quota of late comers indicate one of the most successful holiday tournaments the city has witnessed. Last year first prize netted Tony Santini, the winner, a tidy sum.

Bowlingdom's most colorful performance will be on the firing line today. "Hobnails" Francis, of Richmond; Bill Arnold, of Annapolis and holder of the national singles title; Ray Barnes, of Baltimore, and 99 and 44-100 per cent of Washington's expert talent are included in the entries.

Charley Kolb's consistent pincracking bagged individual honors in The Washington Post League yesterday at Lucky Strike. He rolled a 141 game and 369 set. Rubys rolled home with the team honors with a 530 game and 1,541 set.

George Washington's birthday will be celebrated at Arcadia, where Ralph Fraser has imported several tons of silver to be distributed among high scorers of the day. A silver dollar will be awarded each lady and gentleman rolling high score every hour. Just one more concern off the gold standard.

D. C. Butcher's boys, champions and leaders of the current race in the Building Contractors League, will roll Highway Department Saturday in a five-game match at Arcadia. Steele, Stull, Bernhardt (Vas you dere Cholley?), Falk and Anderson, comprising the Highway quintet, recently astonished their friends by amassing a 3,116 score against the Gas Light Co.'s representatives.

Arcadia's representative in the George Washington Sweepstakes will be Charley Walson, who won last night's tournament with a set of 391. His games were 134, 126 and 131. Maxie Rosenberg rolled 124, 125, 135, a 385 set, was second, and Eddie Espey, who rolled 115, 149 and 120 for a 384 set, finished third.

Lonnie Krauss will present the lady and gentleman rolling high score each hour at the Columbia alleys today with a silver dollar.

Occidental Hotel rolled a 1,717 set, games of 539, 583 and 595, to win a 2-1 decision from Lucky Strike in the District League at Convention Hall. The losers' game were 524, 568 and 618. Maxie Rosenberg's 389 and Dutch Weidman's 388 were high.

"Patch" Hoist's 141 and Ray Baum's 388 featured the bowling in the East Washington Church League at Convention Hall. Douglas, No. 2, had a 578 game and First Brethren pinned a 1,562 set.

Russell's 150 and Harry Dixon's 363 topped the Masonic loop at Convention Hall. Pentalpha rolled a 612 game and King David turned in a 1,647 set to lead the teams.

Donaldson, one of the five brothers, rolled a 128 game and 332 set and bagged individual honors in the Odd Fellows League at the Hall. Amity, No. 1, massaged the maples for a 544 game and 1,576 set.

Sam Benson will represent Convention Hall in the George Washington Sweepstakes today as a result of winning the tournament staged yesterday at Convention Hall. He rolled 171, 123 and 101 for a 395 set.

Columbians rolled a set of 1,496 to lead the Washington Ladies League at Columbia. Hilltoppers' game of 520 was high. Catherine Fortney had a 123 game and Margaret Leaman a 333 set.

Edith Orpin's pinspilling featured the Internal Revenue Ladies League at Columbia. Her best game was 129 and set 310. Stenographic rattled the sticks for a 1,435 set, while B. T. A. No. 2 had a 505 game.

Miss Bowen's 117 game and Miss Anderson's 330 set were high in the Eastern Star Ladies League at Lucky Strike. Ruth's 501 game and 1,458 set captured the team awards.

Hay established a new game mark for the season in the Insurance League last night, upsetting 154 pins at Lucky Strike. Rice muscled in on the prize handout with a 366 set. Traveler's 891 game and Acacia's 1,582 set were high.

Abadie's 136 and Sonneman's 341 led the individual bowling in the Supervising Architect's loop at Lucky Strike. Modernists had a 566 game and 1,565 set.

Miss Biggs topped the Lutheran Ladies loop at Arcadia with a 115 game. Miss Faust had high set, 312. Trinity's 491 and 1,395 outdistanced the teams.

Sole's 159 and 374 copped the honors in the Men's Lutheran League at Arcadia. Takoma Blues rocked the wood for a 571 game and 1,660 set.

Richmond Promised Piedmont Loop Berth

Richmond, Va., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Eddie Mooers said today that he had been assured of a berth in the Piedmont League and is now rounding up his Richmond team.

"The league meeting has not yet been set, but it is to be held the latter part of this week, I understand, in Wilmington," the former Eastern League Club owner said, adding, "meanwhile I am setting about getting a club and do not anticipate any trouble. Croker Wade is the first player I have lined up and that means we'll have one hard hitting outfielder as a starter."

G. U. FRESHMEN PLAY.

The early bird catches the worm, but the early basket ball game doesn't have much change of attracting many cash customers. Nevertheless, Georgetown University's Freshmen will play St. Francis Xavier High School, of New York, this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Ryan gymnasium. The New York team was not certain of its ability to play the game until last night.

ARTILLERY FIVE IN ACTION.

The 260th Coast Artillery quintet journeys to Quantico, Va., Sunday for a game with the Marines starting at 2:30 o'clock. Coach Harry Helm will take a squad of 10 men on the trip.

Lusnics Bow, 52-35, To Celtic Basketers

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Feb. 21.—Displaying the class which has placed them high in the ranks of professional basket ball, the Cleveland Celtics disposed of the Lustine-Nicholson quint, of Hyattsville, 52 to 35, at the 104th Medical Regiment Armory tonight.

The Celtics breezed along until only seven minutes remained to be played, with the count 30 to 28 in their favor. Then they let loose with a fine demonstration of passing, which, coupled with a scoring combination, completely baffled the squad composed mainly of former University of Maryland players.

For the greater part of the game the Marylanders matched basket for basket, and the big crowd was yelling for them to take the lead. They knotted the count at 22-all on a foul shot by Evans, and for the final time on a field goal by Wilson at 24 each.

Referee Klein called a foul on Hickey in the final session, and when he objected a technical was called. This rose the fury of the visitors and from then on it was no contest.

St. John's Five Beats Wash. College, 26-25

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 21.—St. John's College defeated Washington College on the basket ball court here today after a bristling battle, by a score of 26 to 25. The game was hard fought throughout and developed into a thriller, particularly in the second half, when the Johnnies had enough left to stave off a desperate challenge by the Chestertown lads in the last 5 minutes of play. Three weeks ago Washington defeated St. John's on its home floor, 38 to 21.

The Eastern Shore lads started fast and went to the front, 6 to 1, in the first 5 minutes of play, after which the St. John's attack, led by Carl MacCartee, began to function nicely, and the locals overcame the margin and took command, to lead at the rest period by 17 to 9. The real fierceness of the contest started when hostilities were resumed in the second half, and after 10 minutes the Johnnies had increased their lead to 11 points. Gambers and Huey then went on a scoring spree, enabling the visitors to pick up 7 points, at the same time holding the locals without a tally. With 7 minutes to play, St. John's still held the lead at 25 to 21. Play then resolved itself into a defensive fight in which the visitors held a slight edge, scoring 3 more points, while holding St. John's to one foul toss. A foul throw by Huey put the visitors within 1 point of knotting the count, but the Johnnies did painstaking work in the final 2 minutes, to hold the enemy at bay.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

PROPELLED by his powerful hind legs, and guided by his tail, the jumping mouse can leap with unusual accuracy in heavily overgrown fields. Sometimes its leaps measure as much as 10 feet. Strange as it seems, the jumping mouse is almost helpless without its tail, and if the tail has been cut off the mouse will turn over several times helplessly with each jump.

The fairy tern goes to no trouble in nesting—it simply lays its egg on any convenient branch of a tree, horizontal so the egg will not roll off. The rough bark helps to keep it in place. In some cases the tern lays its egg on a broken stump, or even on the shaft of a palm frond.

Because of a queer quirk of law, Archibald Herron, convicted murderer condemned to death in New Jersey, has been under sentence for 24 years. After Herron's conviction, appeal was taken and various reprieves given until the case could finally be determined. The presiding judge then ordered that the date of execution be stayed until further orders. Before he reset the date of execution, the judge died and under New Jersey law of that time, none but the presiding judge could order the execution.

GANGSTER FILMS FOR LITTLE DEARS

(Mr. Leroy E. Bowman, of the National Board of Review of Moving Pictures, says that gangster pictures are good for children. It is absurd to keep the facts of gang activity from them, he insists.—News item.)

"YES," said Elmer Twitchell, the well-known parent, "there is nothing like gangster pictures as a healthy influence on child life. If you want to develop the character and create lofty ideals in children, you've just got to see that no detail of underworld life is denied 'em."

• • • •

"Take my little Otis," resumed Elmer. "He presented quite a problem. He was an obstreperous, headstrong, mischievous and altogether annoying little cuss. But I realized what he needed. Gangster films! I took him to every crime movie that came to town and you'd never know the boy today. In fact, you'd never care to."

• • • •

Elmer was quite emphatic. "The trouble with most children," he went on, "is that their parents shield them from the facts about gangster life. They deny them a detailed insight into the operations of the criminal classes. They deprive the little dears of a clear picture of murder, sabotage and banditry in its more revolting forms.

• • • •

"Ah, what a mistake! I repeat, what a mistake! How can a parent expect this little boy to grow up and become a respectable citizen if he knows nothing about machine-gun operation as practiced by our best skilled public enemies?

• • • •

"What chance to lead a normal, healthy life has a youngster to whom the technique of hijacking, safe-cracking, stick-ups, rum-running, and large-scale homicide is a closed book? I ask you.

• • • •

"For example, there's my other son, Philbert. We were terribly worried about him when he was a little boy. He seemed indecisive, irresolute, and wishy-washy. Then one day his mother took him to a picture house to see one of those super-gangster pictures and it made a man of him overnight. I never saw a boy grasp the minute details of machine-gun operation from ambush so quickly.

• • • •

"Then there's our daughter, Etta. She was a dumb sort of kid, with no high ideals or proper perspective of life until we began taking her to the Cagney pictures. Before she had seen four pictures showing how the gangsters carry out their assassinations from bullet-proof sedans she was a changed girl.

• • • •

"Of course," concluded Elmer, "it ain't enough just to let the kiddies see the gangster films. You've got to let them have a little practical experience. I think every father should buy his babies a few machine guns to play with."

CONSERVATIVE.

California has abandoned its annual frog jumping contest this year. It seems that even the frogs have decided to stick close to the ground and not extend themselves just now.

FLORIDA STUDY.

The bathers on the beach disport
In clothing very scanty;
Of modesty they're very short—
Some only wear a pantie.

The younger ones look quite okay,
So graceful, trim and nifty,
But this I simply can not say
Of women nearing fifty.

TWO HOMELESS MEN DIE FROM EXPOSURE AND HEART ATTACKS

One Expires at Scott Circle and Other's Trail Ends at Silver Spring.

Two middle-aged men fell dead yesterday from heart attacks believed by physicians to have been brought on by exposure to the elements and undernourishment.

One of the men, George W. Buckley, succumbed as he was hitchhiking near Silver Spring, Md., while the other, as yet unidentified, collapsed in the heart of the city near Scott Circle.

The unidentified man, about 50 years old, was found dead at Scott Circle yesterday afternoon. The body was removed to Emergency Hospital by Frank Mitchell, 1745 Park road northwest, a taxicab driver.

No Marks in Clothes.

The man was wearing a cap and gray overcoat. His shirt was open at the collar and his necktie hanging loose. His clothing bore no marks of identification. He was about 5 feet 10 inches tall and had iron-gray hair.

An autopsy was ordered by the coroner.

The man believed to be Buckley, about 50 years old, a hitchhiker, was stricken with a heart attack yesterday on Georgia avenue near Colesville Pike in Silver Spring, Md., and died before police could get him to a doctor. He was pronounced dead by Dr. W. R. Haynes, of Silver Spring, who said death was caused by a heart attack produced by exhaustion.

Letters in Pockets.

The man bore on his person a note addressed to "Dear Bob" and signed "Lee," which extolled his ability as a machinist. The letter was dated in Huntington, W. Va. Other papers in his pockets bore the address of Louisville, Ky. Montgomery County police have notified police of those towns and asked them to attempt to identify the man. He was fairly well dressed.

The man was found in the road by Robert Thompson, of Silver Spring, who took him to county police substation, where Detective Theodore Vollten, of the county identification bureau took command and moved him to Dr. Haynes' office. He was still alive when the policeman started for the doctor's, but was pronounced dead when they arrived. Detective Vollten then took charge of attempting identification of the man, whose body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Warner E. Pumphrey, at Silver Spring.

$169 Clothing Stolen By Wilson Locker Thief

Clothing valued at $169.39 was reported stolen yesterday from lockers in the basement of the Wilson Normal School at Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest.

The principal article stolen was a seal skin coat belonging to Miss Ruth Naylor, of 1629 Twelfth street northeast, which was valued at $150.

Look Raid

What Policemen Saw From Street Didn't Warrant Entrance, Ruling.

Charges of violating the gaming regulations placed against Carroll P. Nuckols, were dropped in Police Court yesterday when Nuckols' attorney, Harry T. Whelan, brought out that the search warrant used to gain entrance to Nuckols' place was based on what two policemen saw while they stood in an alley five floors beneath the room.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt, before whom Nuckols had been brought for trial, taking over the questioning, pointed to a building across the street from Police Court. He asked the officers, J. R. Burch and E. L. Saunders, if they could see what was going on "in that window across the street." When they said they could not, he dismissed the charges.

Nuckols was arrested on December 21 following a raid on the first floor of a building on upper Fifteenth street.

PAY SLASH LOOMING, PAINTERS WALK OUT

May Continue Their Idleness Today Unless Assurance of Scale Is Made.

Approximately 50 painters engaged in the nearly completed Senate and House Office building projects may continue their "walkout" which began yesterday if painting contractors do not meet their objection to a rumored pay cut.

Under the Bacon-Davis act regulating wages on Government projects, $11 is the required daily pay for painters, the men claim. R. F. Whalen, business agent of the painters' union, last night said the men would be ready for work this morning, but would not fall in line unless the $11 scale is guaranteed to be continued.

David Lynn, architect of the Capitol and Federal contracting officer on the two projects, said last night he had not been formally presented with the facts in the case and would make no statement.

The painters' walkout does not affect any of the other projects in the extensive Federal program here. None of the other structures has advanced to the point where painting is being done.

Schwartz to Head Knights of Pythias

Grand Chancellor Named for District Domain at Election.

Alfred M. Schwartz was elected grand chancellor of the Domain of the District of Columbia, Knights of Pythias, at second-day sessions of the annual meeting held yesterday at the Pythian Temple.

Other officers elected were Earl G. Jonscher, grand vice chancellor; Nicholas Girardi, grand prelate; W. A. Kimmel, grand keeper of records and seal; Lee B. Emory, grand master of exchequer; Richard B. Berryman, grand master at arms; E. S. Young, grand inner guard; Daniel Rothwell, grand outer guard; Richard O. Lovering, grand lecturer; Harry I. Coxen trustee, and Edgar C. Snyder, supreme representative.

The officers were installed by Past Supreme Representative John M. Klein, who has been a member of the Grand Lodge of the District for the last 56 years.

MELODRAMA SATIRE ROUNDLY APPLAUDED

"The Wolf at the Door" Scores Hit for East Capital Troupe.

The audience hissed the villain and cheered the hero out at Roosevelt High School last night when the Troupers of East Washington Community Center staged "The Wolf At the Door," a burlesque melodrama, one of the neatest one-act plays offered in the present tournament.

From the time petite Virginia Barrett announced over the knitting that her husband had gone fortune hunting in the Klondike and never came back, the spectators caught the spirit of the satire, and hissed Ted Tenley with his mustachios, and applauded Edward A. Finlayson, the mystery hero, with his great beard.

It was swell entertainment, a little overdone perhaps when the hero and villain battled first with wits and then with knives, while the deserted wife crouched at the crib of her babe. Director Arthur Rhodes might have placed that bedroom door more to the center of the stage, because the customers on the right of the auditorium couldn't see the hero during the big scene.

Laid in Solemn 90's.

The story is laid in 1899, when Owen Davis was turning out serious plays of the type this one satirized. The wife couldn't pay the rent and the landlord was going to evict her unless—then the blind man appeared, the man with the whiskers. And the audience could hardly stand the suspense to find out who he really was in the grand climax.

The audience needed something like this after seeing the same play presented twice in succession by two different groups. This was "The Gift of Jehovah," an impressive rendition of the story of Elisha, the prophet, his servant, Gehazi; Judith, the siren, and Marah, the leper girl. The play was offered first by the Young People's Society of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, and then by the Chapel Players of Washington.

Chapel Players Best.

The Chapel Players gave the best performance, and the audience, judging by the applause, shared this opinion. Charles Whitten, as the servant in the Chapel Players presentation, played his part with greater ease and naturalness. Ralph Keister, as Elisha, endowed his characterization with deeper solemnity, and Florence Evelyn Rice, as Judith, proved herself to be more effective without the sensuous movements of her predecessor, Martha Roberts.

Over the role of Marah, played by Elizabeth Rudd in the first interpretation, and by Ruth Chindblom in the second, there is room for dispute. William Elliott enacted Elisha in the first presentation and Richard F. Johnson, Gehazi.

The first play of the evening, "Enter the Hero," the contribution of the Park View Players, was nothing to bring spontaneous combustion to a typewriter. It was pleasantly and earnestly executed, however. Norberta Bramell, Franc Caskey, Donald Siegrist and Louise Holbrook constituted the cast.

The tournament will continue with the presentation of four more plays tomorrow night at Roosevelt Auditorium.

Mrs. Macatee's Estate Is Valued at $93,750

An estate of $93,750 was left by Mrs. Catherine Saville Macajee, who died February 10, it was disclosed in the District Supreme Court yesterday when her husband, Henry Cook Macatee, 2324 California street northwest, filed a petition to probate her will.

Specific bequests of $5,000 to a half-brother, Thomas T. Houston, and $2,500 each to Rebecca M. Chandler and Emily H. Garland were written into the will. The bulk of the remaining estate goes to the husband, who is also named executor.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS TO FIGHT FUND CUT AT HEARINGS TODAY

Will Appear Before Senate Subcommittee to Enter Their Protest.

Incisive House cuts in the already sharply pared District appropriations bill will be opposed by District officials at open hearings on the measure before the Senate District appropriations subcommittee at 10:30 a. m. today.

The District Commissioners, District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou and other officials will appear before Senator Hiram Bingham's District subcommittee.

Protest to Be Made.

A strong protest will be entered against elimination of the $46,000 working capital fund, which maintains prison industries and rehabilitation work at the District's workhouse at Lorton, Va. The fund was stricken on a point of order. The Senate will be asked to reinsert it.

Opposition also will be voiced to a new provision in the bill, put in on motion of Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri. It would "discriminate" against District employes, by refusing to appropriate any funds to give pay increases to those who have been promoted to a higher salary grade by reason of reallocation.

Held Discriminatory.

President Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employes, said the provision is clearly "discriminatory," but is infinitely better than the original committee proposal, which would have destroyed the current system of reallocation, so far as it affects District employes. The provision now in the bill, while denying pay increases, places no ban on reallocations.

Reinsertion Is Urged.

Public welfare officials yesterday made a plea for restoration by the Senate of the $46,000 bill for the use of the Lorton and Occoquan institutions.

George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, said the loss would demoralize the prison industries which are in operation. Hundreds of prisoners would be forced to remain in idleness, he pointed out, and would be more difficult to control.

The restoration of the $46,000 fund would not be taken from the pockets of District taxpayers, moreover, as profits from the prison industries exceed this amount, he stated.

Mina Van Winkle's Will Plea Is Filed

Late Policewoman Left $37,050, According to Court Petition.

Mina C. Van Winkle, who for many years was the head of the Women's Bureau of the Police Department, left an estate valued at $37,050, it was disclosed yesterday when a petition for the probate of her will was filed in the District Supreme Court.

The estate is made up of a home at 1435 Thirty-fourth street northwest, with an assessed value of $15,000 and personal property valued at $22,050. After providing for a number of minor bequests to friends and members of the Police Department, Mrs. Van Winkle, who died January 16, named as her principal heirs her mother, Mrs. Hilda Ginger, two sisters, Mrs. Louise Lesser and Miss Frances Ginger, and two brothers, Thomas and William G. Ginger, all of whom reside in New Jersey.

Mrs. Van Winkle was the first woman to head a police bureau here. Many years ago under the late Maj. Raymond Pullman, chief of police, she secured an appropriation for a women's bureau, and rose from a private to a lieutenant. She was in poor health and retired for years prior to her death.

Board of Trade Favors District R. F. C. Funds

Enthusiastic indorsement of legislation now pending in Congress, which would authorize the District to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief purposes, if and when other sources of aid should be exhausted, was given by the executive committee of the Washington Board of Trade yesterday.

Episcopal Society Names Fogle Head

St. Paul's Rock Players Capture Drama Cup for Second Time.

George Fogle was elected president of the Episcopal Young People's Fellowship of the Washington Diocese at its quarterly meeting last night at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He will succeed J. Russell Lowe.

Other officers named were William Beale, Mrs. Helen Retitt, Miss Betty Fieleen and John Brasel, vice presidents; Mrs. Doris Seebold, treasurer; the Rev. James De Wolfe Hubbard, chaplain; Miss Francis Delk, corresponding secretary, and Miss Catherine Lapish, recording secretary.

The annual drama contest cup was presented to the St. Paul's Rock Players for the second consecutive time.

109 SAFE DRIVERS REWARDED

One hundred and nine drivers of Washington Gas Light Co. vehicles were awarded National Safety Council medals yesterday at a safety meeting in the service building of the company, 1100 Twenty-ninth street northwest. Left to right in the center of the group, Marcy L. Sperry, president of the utility concern; Inspector B. A. Lamb, in charge of the Traffic Bureau, presenting a medal to Felix Murphy, who has driven 69,500 miles during the last two years, and M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of traffic.

DISTRICT BEER BILL TO FULL COMMITTEE

Palmisano to Seek Place on House Calendar With Patman Hostile.

The House District judiciary subcommittee yesterday definitely decided to return a favorable report on the District's 3.2 per cent beer bill to the full House District Committee at 10 o'clock this morning.

After conferring with subcommittee members, Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, subcommittee chairman, said the majority favored a report on the measure.

Cooperating with Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee, and Representative Loring Black, author of the beer measure, Mr. Palmisano will seek to report the bill out of the full committee and place it on the House calendar.

Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, ardent dry, will fight favorable action on the measure. An attempt may be made to substitute the 3.05 percentage of alcoholic content, provided in the Blaine national beer bill, and in a substitute District measure, introduced in the Senate by Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland.

Butter Thief With Poor Memory Gets 60 Days

His affiliations with a tub of butter weighing about 30 pounds put Luke Fleming, colored, in jail for 60 days yesterday when he was convicted of stealing it. He was sentenced by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court.

In his own behalf, Fleming said that he didn't remember taking the butter from a parked truck, but the officer who arrested him had a distinct recollection of chasing him some little distance before he caught him. The defendant said the only thing he had with him when he was arrested was "that tub there," following which he was found guilty.

SERVING DRUG TERM, KILLIAN DIES IN JAIL

Death Halts Lorton Sentence of Man Who Failed to Appear at Trial.

Death yesterday cut short for Samuel Killian, convicted narcotic peddler, a nine-year sentence imposed upon him just one month and one day before. He died at the Lorton Reformatory of a lung ailment.

Killian attracted wide notice when he failed to appear at his trial during December, and his bondsmen and counsel declared they were unable to locate him. It was explained to the court that on the previous night he was overcome by smoke and narrowly escaped death when his father's paper box establishment at 1309 Pennsylvania avenue northwest caught fire.

He was rescued from the smoke-filled upper floors of the structure by firemen and taken to Emergency Hospital. After treatment at the hospital, he is said to have taken French leave. His bondsmen and counsel expressed belief the man was still suffering from the effects of smoke, whereupon the court moved a juryman from the box, and declared the case a mistrial.

Later, he was returned to Emergency Hospital for further treatment and upon his recovery was again placed on trial. Upon conviction, he was sentenced to nine years at Lorton. Physicians expressed belief at the time that the lung ailment from which he was suffering would cause his death before the expiration of his sentence.

Killian, the son of George P. Killian, had been associated for years with his father in the paper box and stationery business. He is survived by his wife and a son.

River Bulletin.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Feb. 21.—Potomac River clear; Shenandoah River little cloudy.

SUSPECT IN ECKLUND TRAGEDY IS "SORRY" SHOOTING OCCURRED

Myers Testifies He Wanted to Say "Excuse Me" as Stumm Fell.

The man who allegedly shot Harry Stumm in the attempted holdup in which Einer H. Ecklund was murdered felt so bad about the whole thing that he wanted to ask Stumm to "excuse" him, it was testified yesterday by Claude Myers, one of the four defendants now on trial for the murder.

Demonstrating how the shooting occurred, with Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins as the subject, Myers was given the gun with with which he allegedly shot Stumm. "I said to Stumm 'Let's have it,' and he said, 'Nothing doing.'" Myers testified. "Then I heard Workman's gun go off. Then mine went off some way I first wanted to ask Stumm to excuse me."

Both Take Stand.

Both Myers and Fewel Workman, the two colored men who are accused of having done the actual shooting, took the stand yesterday, while Defense Attorney Louis Whitestone introduced testimony in an attempt to prove that Workman is of unsound mind.

The two white defendants in the murder of Ecklund, which occurred January 20 near the new House Office Building, Albert E. Cash and Everett Lee Blackwell, are expected to take the stand tomorrow when the court again convenes.

Make Surprise Move.

Mr. Whitestone made a surprise move yesterday by bringing to the stand Dr. John V. Dolan, former assistant District alienist, who told the jury Workman was definitely "feebleminded with trends toward dementia praecox." His examination of Workman, Dr. Dolan said, indicated auditory and visual hallucinations.

Taking the stand in his own defense, Workman, with his head bowed, told of the holdup. He claimed he went through with it because he was afraid of Cash. When he hesitated, he said, Blackwell urged him on.

Says He Can't Remember.

He told the jury he could not remember when he held his head up and for this reason he was unable to remember what was in his alleged confession because the detectives, to whom he allegedly made it, told him to look at them.

The defense for Myers, given at the trial yesterday, is that the shooting was accidental. His attorneys, Al Philip Kane and Maurice McInerney, sought to bring out testimony to this effect, during their examination of their client.

The defense for Blackwell, which will probably be introduced tomorrow, will be that he abandoned his purpose to commit the crime, his attorneys, F. Joseph Donohue and James Archer, said.

Tells of Accident.

Mrs. Jessie Quick, the sister of Workman, told of an accident her brother had had when he was 3 years old.

"He was hit on the head with an ax," she said, "and has never been the same since then." She also testified that Workman once attempted suicide by jumping from a second-story window.

Attorneys James O'Shea and Alfred Goldstein, who are defending Cash, introduced the testimony of witnesses, tending to show the previous good character of Cash. One of the witnesses was the Rev. Henry J. Smith, pastor of the Petworth Baptist Church.

Robber Takes $20 At Laundry Office

Forces Woman Manager Into Rear Room by Threat of Gun.

With his hand clutched in the pocket of his coat menacingly, a youthful robber late yesterday forced Miss Kay Cowmin, manager of a laundry office at 825 Thirteenth street northwest, into a rear room, and rifled the cash register of $20.

Without uttering a word when he entered, the man raised his pocketed hand as though clutching a revolver and motioned her toward the rear room.

Mother Loses Purse While Rolling Infant

Mrs. Florence L. Delaney, 1518 Thirty-first street northwest, reported to police that her purse containing cash and personal effects amounting to $8 was snatched from the carriage in which she was rolling her baby in front of her home yesterday morning.

She said the purse was stolen by a colored man, who escaped before she could spread an alarm.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

One of the most neglected rules in motoring, and the cause of many serious accidents, is the failure of a driver to put his hand out to signify that he intends to turn. It is not compulsory, but is a part of the "unwritten law" of the motorist.

The accident figures are:

Deaths	17	10
Injuries	561	477

Fox Hunters of Southeast, Without Dogs, Lose Quarry

Southeast Washington was the scene of a free-for-all fox hunt yesterday, but no dogs or horses were used. In fact, the fox which was hunted wore a set of dog harness and was tame as a kitten.

The hunt was started by the sudden disappearance of Ramona, a silver fox, who for some reason tired of her
